GOLSAN, GOLSON, GHOLSON, GHOLSTON

PREFACE

This history of the Golsan, Golson, Gholson, Gholston Families in America, containing a record of all available families of those bearing the name, with its varied spellings, and also of descendants bearing other names, was conceived and started in 1933, and during the five years that followed, a large portion of the information to be found herein was gathered. The records were secured by personal visits to members of families in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Utah, Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and other localities; also correspondence with many relatives (many of whom made personal contacts with their closer relatives) and by visits and long hours of searching in courthouses, newspaper offices, libraries, historical societies, cemeteries, etc. Correspondence was carried on for several years with individuals throughout the United States and in Canada, bringing about close and interesting friendships. The work was interrupted because of world conditions, but was renewed during 1945 to 1947; then in 1957 and 1958 the work was pursued until a suitable conclusion was reached, and the history was prepared for publication.

The experiences encountered during the gathering of this material were pleasant and many were extremely fascinating. There were exciting moments when new evidences were uncovered, or when relatives responded with important contributions. Permanent acquaintances were formed as friends and relatives assisted in gathering the many records, pictures, sketches, clippings and historic items which have become part of this volume.

Foremost among the contributors to this work were the writer's grandparents, Mallory W. Golsan and his wife, Willie Bond Golsan, of Salt Lake City. They remembered so much about the families in Alabama, and they corresponded tirelessly with their friends and relatives who could add details.

Arthur E. Forster and his wife, Erma Pou Forster, of Pensacola, Florida, gathered many records, pictures and sketches, and they collected important obituaries, Bible and family records, clippings, letters, etc. They personally visited many relatives in Florida and Alabama, from whom a complete account of their branch of the family was obtained. Their contributions have been priceless.

Maude Gholston of Union Springs, Alabama, was interested in this work from the beginning. She and her close kinsmen, Thomas M. Gholston of El Dorado, Arkansas, and Hugh W. Stallworth of Nashville, Tennessee, made available all that they could remember and all that they could find. Priceless, also, were the efforts made by Argyra E. Golsan Gresham of Autaugaville, Alabama, Ida Pou Gates Twombly and Rosabell Gates Waller, both of Braggs, Alabama. Mrs. Waller contributed the important Bible record of Gasper Golsan. Mr. Hugh Clayton Culler of Orangeburg, South Carolina, allowed his compiled history of the Culler family to be used and told all that he knew about the branch from which he descended, as did also, Mrs. Grace Golson Robinson of St. Matthews, South Carolina. Mrs. Robinson sent in a good account of the descendants of John Casper Golsan, of Orangeburg District.

Mrs. John P. Cunningham, of Garden City, Long Island, New York, spent considerable time collecting an account of her branch, descended from Zachariah Gholston of De Kalb County, Georgia, which settled in Talladega and Jefferson counties in Alabama, etc., including many priceless pictures and family sketches. Records were received from Anne E. Bailey McGuirk of Birmingham, Alabama, and from Alice Butler Howard of Adairsville, Georgia.

The following relatives and friends made generous efforts to assist with this work: James Brantley, Montgomery, Alabama; Mrs. Katie May Golsan Brantley, Montgomery, Alabama; Mrs. Lucie Evans Carr, Lorenzo, Idaho; Afton Almeda Golson, Prattville, Alabama; Clive D. Golson, Montgomery, Alabama; Grady E. and Sarah Virginia Roy Golson, Prattville, Alabama; Warren Mallard Golson of Sherman, Texas; Willie Mae Golson, New Brocton, Alabama; Mrs. Evalie Powell Golson, Birmingham, Alabama; Ernestine Golson Johnson, Gulfport, Mississippi; Beulah Peterson Johnson, Barnwell, Alberta, Canada; Eugenia Sanderson Waters, Montgomery, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Golsan, Houston, Texas; Dr. Lewis T. Bullock, Los Angeles, California; Rev. Franklin S. Moseley, Eutaw, Alabama.

Special mention should be made of Mrs. Florence Bateman, and of her sister, Francis Golson, of Wetumpka, Alabama. They sent important Bible records in their possession, which linked the Golson family of Lowndes and Butler counties with other branches of the family from South Carolina, and they contributed an account of the descendants of John S. Golsan and Lucinda Knight.

Mr. Page E. Golsan of San Marino, California, gave the author a copy of his "Golsan Genealogy" and has given much assistance. He deserves the respect of all of the family for his efforts in preserving the history of the family.

Towards the last, Mr. Clay B. Goldston, of Artesia, New Mexico, visited Salt Lake City and called at the writer's office with a collection of information on his family from North Carolina, Tennessee, Missouri, Texas, New Mexico, etc. This very complete account of one branch of the descendants of Captain Charles Goldston of Chatham County, North Carolina, has been included.

There are some scattered families that are not definitely connected with the main lines. Definite relationship of the Golston—Goldston family of North Carolina with the Virginia family of Gholson—Gholston, has not been established; however, the ancestor of this family, John Goldston or Gholson, was probably a grandson of Anthony Gholson, Sr. of Virginia. Likewise, Major Lewis Golsan of Orangeburg District, South Carolina, may have been a grandson of Anthony Gholson, Sr. If this is true, they are almost certainly sons of William Gholson, Sr. and Susanna Collins. The scattered families in Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, etc., whose exact identifications have not been determined, can possibly be connected, from family record evidences, with one of the three main lines. It is the hope of the writer that the descendants of these branches will make their records available for identification, and that the "loose ends" may be brought together—perhaps in a future supplement.

An effort will be made, continuously, to link all branches of the family, and to trace the main lines back to a possible common source, or to show their origins, otherwise. A definite effort to trace the family across the water has been made, and the line of ancestry of Dr. Theodore Goulston of Wymondham, Leicestershire, England, prominent physician of the Virginia Company, back to his forefathers living in Wales in the year 1283, is shown in the appendix. The shares which Dr. Theodore Goulston had in the Virginia Company were certainly inherited by his relatives and their families, and Anthony Gholson — Gholston of Spotsylvania County may easily have descended about three generations later from this origin.

After considering all family traditions, and after bringing together these many facts about the family, it seems logical that the American family of Golsan—Golson—Gholston—Goldston—Gholston, etc., was of British origin. Tradition of a German or Dutch origin must have resulted from the fact that some branches of the family resided in communities that were predominately German, Dutch or Swiss, and from the fact that members of the family intermarried with families of those origins. This tradition is found among the groups that moved into Alabama from South Carolina. However, the close kinsmen of these groups—those remaining in South Carolina, and some that moved into Georgia, claim a British or Welsh origin. Families of North Carolina and Virginia, and their descendants scattered throughout the country, are generally of the opinion that their forefathers settled in America from Great Britain. A view of the section of the appendix containing pedigrees of families with very similar names in Great Britain, point more conclusively to this British origin. Perhaps as original British records are searched, something more definite may be found. There are a number of traditions that point to a possible close relationship with British royalty, and the actual pedigrees of the families in England and Wales have relationship with the royal families, as may be noticed.

Two colored "Coats of Arms" have been reproduced in the front of the book, as an interest to the family. The one shown also on the cover of the book, was the one used by the family and ancestors of Dr. Theodore Goulston, and was used by many branches of the family in various sections of Great Britain. The other was used by the family in Shropshire. Other arms and crests used by branches of the family are described.

The spelling given to the Golsan—Golson—Gholson—Gholston — Goldston—Golston families in this history, may not entirely agree with the spelling used and preferred by individual descendants in life. The "Golsan" spelling, which was used by early members of the South Carolina family as evidenced by preserved letters, Bible records, etc., is generally used for descendants of Major Lewis Golsan of Orangeburg District. This has been done in an effort to be consistent; however, some exceptions have been made. After type was set, it was brought to the attention of the writer that the name should have been spelled, as nearly as possible, the same way each individual family spelled it in life. Some changes in type were made, but it was too much of a task to change the spelling for numerous families. It is hoped that those who prefer the spelling of "Golson" will consider the problem, and will overlook a possible mis-spelling in their particular case. The names in Great Britain are spelled, generally, with the "son" or "ston" ending, and this indicates that this ending may be the correct manner for spelling the name. The families in Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, parts of Texas, etc., use the "Gholson" spelling, and the descendants of Dabney Gholston of Madison County, Georgia, used the "Gholston" spelling. Families of ancestry in Chatham County, North Carolina, use the "Goldston" and "Golston" spelling.

The records in this volume were obtained as much as possible from original sources, but as previously mentioned, also resulted from personal contacts or through correspondence. The author has tried to record facts, and has tried not to duplicate information previously published unless he could enlarge upon the same, but has included enough so that such published accounts may be tied together. Complete references are given with each family group, showing where records were obtained, and many of the facts and statements made may be verified in the documents that are copied in the appendix sections.

In conclusion, the writer wishes to express sincere appreciation for all contributions to this book from all sources. He has found great pleasure in gathering and compiling the same, despite all the strain and effort that has gone into it, and feels that it is a worthwhile record, which should be of great value to all who may possess a copy of the same. He has tried to bring it to life with pictures, life sketches and other illustrations, and only wishes that many of these might have been more complete where information is lacking, and that more might have been included.

FOREWORD

The main section of this history is arranged in strict alphabetical and chronological order, according to families. The alphabetical arrangement is according to each husband; however the variations of spelling of the name Golsan - Golson - Gholson - Gholston - Goldston - Golston are not considered and families of these names are arranged alphabetically regardless of the spelling of the surname. If two or more husbands had the same names in life, the older man's family will appear first, and the younger families afterward in chronological order.

Family history arrangements and numberings are often complicated and confusing. The writer of this volume has desired to make an arrangement that is simple to follow — even for children. The parents of the Golsan-Golson-Gholson-Gholston-Goldston-Golston descendant or descendants in each family group are given, and one may easily follow his line of descent by turning alphabetically to each family unit back to the earliest known ancestors. In most cases where the children of a couple are known, a separate family unit will be found in this history; however there are a few exceptions where information was too meager to allow space for a separate unit, or when information was received too late to arrange in a separate unit. When the families of children are to be found in the history, an asterisk (*) will be found after their names where they appear as children.

Because of this alphabetical arrangement of families, a number of pedigree charts have been prepared and included in the front of the book, to enable a descendant to observe his ancestry at a glance. The table of contents lists each family unit found in the addenda and there is a complete list of each item found in the appendix sections. Also a list of persons found on pictures and portraits will be alphabetically arranged under "List of Illustrations." A complete personal name index at the back of the book will enable one to locate any information found in the history.

The Appendix of this history contains seven sections: 1. Miscellaneous Marriages, etc., of members of the family, which may eventually be tied into the main section. 2. Abstracts from Early Colonial America. 3. Families and Pedigrees in Great Britain, including the Lineage of Dr. Theodore Goulston (Gulston), with his Life Sketch and his Last Will and Testament, with transcriptions, etc. 4. Correspondence. 5. Obituaries, Marriage Notices, News Items, etc., from Newspaper Files. 6. Probate Records, Land Records, Court Records, Muster Rolls, etc. 7. Tombstone Inscriptions, Pension and Service Records, Census Schedules, etc.

A number of blank pages under the title of "Addenda" are included between the main section of the book and the appendix. This may be used to record information of a family or line of ancestry not found in the history. It is suggested that a copy of this information, thus added, be sent to the author, James M. Black, 2731 Loran Heights Drive, Salt Lake City 9, Utah. When enough supplemental records have been received to merit the publishing of a supplemental volume, an effort will be made to have it done.

FAMILY OF JOSEPH BAKER BARRIER AND BELLE SENA SARGENT

JOSEPH BAKER BARRIER, son of Elijah Barrier and Frances Jane Tuttle, was born March 5, 1863, in Wayne County, Kentucky. He was raised on a farm in Wayne County, but at the age of fifteen years he walked from his home in the mountains near Monticello, Kentucky to Burnside, Iowa, which was a considerable distance. In Iowa he obtained employment on a farm and saved his money until he could return to Kentucky and bring his father and mother, and brothers and one sister to Iowa. It is said that they, being mountain people in Kentucky, on arriving at the railway station in Iowa ran about in all directions and that it required an hour or two to round them up. Although a farmer at heart, Joseph Baker Barrier became a garage owner and operator after he reached middle age. He was an upright citizen and was known by all of his friends for his honesty. But he had a hasty temper. He was always proud of his Kentucky and Virginia background. On September 29, 1887 he was married to Belle Sena Sargent in Council Bluffs, Iowa, who was born October 16, 1869 in Biggsville, Illinois. He and his wife reared a family of seven sons and five daughters. They first homestead in Nebraska in 1890, but two crop failures in two years caused them to return to Iowa. They put all of their possessions in one wagon and started back to Iowa, but during the trip his wife lost her wedding ring while washing dishes, but didn't miss it until the evening. Her husband returned to the camping place and recovered it, and the ring is now in possession of a granddaughter, Mrs. Al. Dirks of Orem, Utah. On returning to Iowa they settled near the small town of Neola, not far from Council Bluffs. All was well until a flood came and they lost all of their possesions, which were swept away in the water. A neighbor helped drag Mrs. Barrier to safety. After this tragedy they were agained required to make a new start. He became owner and operator of a successful business and most of his sons became engaged in the Automobile business. He died at the age of 85½ years in 1948. His widow died at Neola, Iowa, March 19, 1955.

He possessed rare talents, especially in music and poetry. His accomplishments on the piano and violin were remarkable. A clever poem which he wrote at Mt. Zion Institute follows:

NOTHING AT ALL

In Derry-down dale when I wanted a mate
I went with my daddy a-courting of Kate.
With nosegay so fine, in my holy-day clothes,
My hands in my pockets a-courting I goes.
The weather was cold, and my bosom was hot,
My heart in a gallop—my mare in a trot—
Now I was so bashfull, so loving withal;
My tongue stuck to my mouth, and I said—
Nothing at all.

When I came to the house, I look'd so bashfull and grum,
The knocker I held 'twixt my finger and thumb.
Rap went the knocker, Kate showed her chin,
She chuckled and buckled, I bow'd and went in.
Now I was as bashfull as bashfull could be,
And Kitty, poor soul, was as bashfull as me;
So I laughed and I grinned, and let my hat fall,
Giggled, scratched my head, and said—
Nothing at all.

If bashfull was I, the more bashfull the maid,
She simper'd and sigh'd and with her apron strings played.
The old folks impatient to have the thing done,
Agreed that my Kitty and I should be one.
So, then we young ones both nodded consent,
Then hand in hand to get married we went.
When we answered the parson in voices so small,
You scarcely could have heard us, say—
Nothing at all.

But mark what a change in the course of a week—
My Kate left off blushing, I boldly could speak—
Could play with my Kitty, and laugh at a jest,
And Kate could talk, too, and as well as the best;
And talked of past follies, we oft have declared
To encourage young folks who at wedlock are scared.
For if to your aid some assurance you call,
You may kiss and get married, and its—
Nothing at all.

HARRIETTE SIMPSON ARNOW

Though she lives with her husband and two children in a rural community near Ann Arbor, Michigan, Harriette Simpson Arnow's roots and heart are in Kentucky's Cumberland. To write of it, she gets up at 4 o'clock, before time to get breakfast, see her husband off to work, drive the children to school. The critical and popular success achieved in 1955 by her third novel—The Dollmaker—climaxed 20 years of writing in early morning "spare time" hours. She is assembling notes for a non-fiction book on Cumberland life in the 1780's. Before marriage, Harriette Arnow graduated from Louisville University, taught school, worked as waitress, cashier, clerk—"any job that gave me more time to write." Today she successfully combines a shared life as wife and mother with individual accomplishments as an author.

FAMILY OF ARTHUR EDWIN FORSTER AND ERMA KENNEDY POU

ERMA KENNEDY POU, daughter of Frank Robinson Pou and Norma E. Childerson, was born September 26, 1901, at Pensacola, Florida. She was raised in the vicinity of Pensacola in a home of culture and refinement, and attended the public schools. She was married on April 13, 1920, at Pensacola, to Arthur Edwin Forster.

Arthur Edwin Forster was born on February 24, 1890, at Brooklyn, New York, a son of William Andrew Forster of Savannah, Georgia, and Clara Cecilia Burtchall, of Astoria, Long Island, New York. Mr. Forster was raised to manhood in his native community where he was educated and very early became interested in the construction of airplanes, during the time when Aviation was in its infancy. His apprenticeship in wood pattern making began in 1904. In 1910, with a group of associates in his trade he helped construct several early airplanes. One of them was capable of flight, which was a remarkable feat in those days. The plane was exhibited in one of the New York county fairs in 1911. He went to Pensacola, Florida in 1916 where he began his employment with the Naval Air School on May 15th of that year, when aviation was first introduced into the Navy. On February 18, 1919, less than three years after starting at the base, he was promoted to Master Mechanic, which position he held until his retirement. During the thirty-nine years in which he was in service at the base, he had a big part in the growth of the Air Station. The Naval Air Station at Pensacola was the first to have airplane overhaul and repair facilities. Mr. Forster, in his capacity as master, originated many processes still in use. When he became master, overhaul and repair procedures were new and untried, and there were problems that had to be solved. As the leader of the men in his department, and with their assistance, he always came up with a workable solution. It was often said of him: "If you have a project and want to know if it can be done, see Forster, and if it can be done, he will divise a plan for its accomplishment."

He personally knew the Navy's first aviators and recalls many of the "first" accomplishments of these men. He served under every commanding officer at the Station, starting with Captain Henry C. Mustin, 1914-1917. Over and above his supervisory duties, he performed numerous additional duties. He was first appointed a member of the Board of Civil Service Examiners on April 16, 1919, and served for a total of 26 years — longer than any other employee of the board. During World War II he was appointed by the Governor of Florida to the State Advisory Board for National Defense Training. In this capacity he travelled throughout the State assisting in the formulating and establishment of vocational training programs. He had an active part in establishing the Pensacola Vocational School. He was honored as master of ceremonies at its dedication.

During his service at the base he was responsible for the Overhaul, repair and assembling of the different types of Navy aircraft that have been used in training of naval aviators at the base. Among the high points of his career was his supervision of the construction of the first aeroplane built by the Navy at Pensacola known as "the McDonald Plane, No. 152" and the supervision of the assembling of the first Navy blimp at Pensacola, the old "ND-1."

In 1940 Mr. Forster was assigned to inspect bases on the West Coast by the U.S. Naval department, in company with other officers. In recognition for his long life of service and as senior Civilian of the Production Group, Overhaul and Repair Department at the Pensacola base, after thirty-two years of service as Master, Mr. Forster was presented the Meritorious Civil Service Award in 1950, by Captain Charles W. Oexle, Commanding Officer. This award is made only to especially deserving employees of the Navy Departments, who are selected because of outstanding service and accomplishment. Only seven such awards had been given at the Naval Air Station since its existence at the time Mr. Forster received his award.

The Forsters have a lovely home out from Pensacola at Warrington on the Pensacola Bay, where they have raised two sons in an ideal environment. They are faithful members of the St. John's Episcopal Church of Warrington, and Mr. Forster is a member of the Naval Lodge 24, F and AM; is a charter member of the Industrial Management Association; is a charter member and past president of the Master Mechanic and Foreman's Association. The Forsters' have generously assisted in gathering information for this history in which they have been keenly interested from the time it was started.

Mr. Arthur E. Forster

U. S. Naval Air Station
Pensacola, Florida

Dear Mr. Forster:

I learn with regret that you are retiring today with over thirty-nine years service as a civilian employee of the Navy. I want to express to you, on behalf of the Secretary of the Navy and myself, the deep appreciation we feel for your outstanding service to the Navy. Your retirement is a significant milestone in the history of this station.

During the many years that I have known you, I have always admired your fine character, great industry and devotion to duty. Your career will serve as a shining example to the younger men now coming into the naval establishment. I know that everyone who has been associated with you feels the same admiration and respect for you that I do.

The long span covered by your career has been one of rapid development in aviation to which you have contributed much of lasting value. This station can ill afford to lose such men as you and the traditions that you have helped establish will be an inspiration to those who follow in your footsteps.

I hope that you will feel free to visit the station whenever you wish, as the gates will always be open to you. I wish you many long and happy years of retirement which you have so well earned.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely,

FAMILY OF ANTHONY GHOLSON, SR. AND JANE HIS WIFE

ANTHONY GHOLSON, SR. (name spelled Gholson, Gholston, Gholstone, Golson, Goldstone, Golston, etc. in the various records during his life) was probably born in Virginia. The first definite record of him is found in Spotsylvania County, Virginia on July 5, 1725, when he purchased two hundred acres of land on the south side of Hollodays Swamp in Saint George's Parish in Spotsylvania County from James Taylor of Drysdale Parish in King and Queen County, Virginia. Anthony Gholson was probably from Old Rappahannock County which later became Essex County, from which Spotsylvania County was formed. The author definitely believes that he was born in Virginia, probably between 1670 and 1680, and that he was descended from a line of Golstons' (Goulston, Goldston, Gulston) that were in Virginia at a very early date, and were very probably of the same lineage as Dr. Theodore Goulston (Gulston, Goldston) of the London Company (see record and original recording of the last will and testament of Dr. Theodore Goulston in the appendix).

Anthony Gholson (Gholston) was granted 1,000 acres of land on Terry's Run in Spotsylvania County on September 28, 1728 from King George the Second, and at the same time his two sons, Anthony, Jr. and William, were granted another 1,000 acres jointly (see grants in the appendix). On September 27, 1734 he transferred 442½ acres of the 1,000 acre grant on Terry's Run to William Gaines of King and Queen County, and on September 28, 1734 he transferred another 442½ acres to James Jones of Caroline County. Then on April 24, 1738, he transferred the remaining 115 acres of this 1,000 acre tract to William Crosthwaite of Orange County.

Anthony Gholson, Sr. signed the documents that are recorded to which he was a party with a large "A", indicating that he was raised without the opportunity an education, which lends evidence to his possible birth and early life in Virginia rather than in England. The first record of Anthony Gholson (Gholstone) with his wife, Jane, was on February 22, 1739, when he transferred to Zachary Lewis the two hundred acres which he purchased from James Taylor in 1725. The next year, on July 1, 1740, he purchased 400 acres from John and Margaret Chew, and he sold 120 acres of this property on October 2, 1744, to William Pollard. He sold the remaining 280 acres of this land on April 4, 1761, shortly before his decease, to Joseph Hawkins, Jr. William Pollard was his son-in-law and it is wondered if there might not be a relationship also to Joseph Hawkins, Jr. (and some have thought that he might have been related through Jane, the wife of Anthony Gholson, Sr.).

Anthony Gholson, Sr. deeded his personal property to his wife and children in deeds of gift, which are recorded in Orange County, Virginia, one on July 23, 1763 and another on August 8, 1763 (see appendix). He also deeded to his son, John, the lot of land on which he resided, which he had purchased from Nathaniel Geer of Orange County. He names three sons, William, Anthony and John and two daughters, Elizabeth and Lucy, in these deeds and also mentions a granddaughter, Jane Pollard. Anthony Gholson, Sr. died before December 3, 1764, when his widow, Jane Gholson, made a deed of gift of all that she possessed, to her son, John, which he was to enjoy during her lifetime (the lifetime of Jane Gholson, his mother), and after her death to be divided as directed in the deeds from her deceased husband. In the deed she calls John Gholson "my son" and she calls the other children named in her husband's deeds of gift as "rest of my children". Some have thought that Jane may have been a second wife of Anthony, Sr. and possibly not the mother of his children, but this would indicate that they were her own children. There was a Jane Gholson whose inventory was made on February 28, 1797 in Spotsylvania County. Though this could have been the widow of Anthony Gholson, Sr., it does not seem likely, since she had property in Orange County on which she was to live during her lifetime according to her deed of gift to her son John. This Jane Gholson, whose inventory was made in 1797, was more likely the second wife of William Gholson, Sr.; he lived in Spotsylvania County, and was married the second time to Joan (probably Perry) (Jane and Joan being interchangeable frequently in earlier records).

CHILDREN OF ANTHONY GHOLSON, SR. AND JANE , HIS WIFE

1. WILLIAM GHOLSON, Sr.,* born in Virginia probably before 1707, (if 21 years in 1728 at the time of land grant); married 1. Susanna Collins, 2. Joan (?Perry).
2. ANTHONY GHOLSON, JR.,* born in Virginia probably before 1707, (if 21 years in 1728 at the time of land grant); married Mary Sandridge.
3. ELIZABETH GHOLSON,* born in Virginia; married 1. William Pollard, 2. Samuel Rice.
4. LUCY GHOLSON,* born in Virginia; married Mr. ..... Stapp (probably James Stapp).
5. JOHN GHOLSON,* born in Virginia; married Esther Cooke.

FAMILY OF ANTHONY GHOLSTON, JR. AND MARY SANDRIDGE

ANTHONY GHOLSTON, JR., son of Anthony Gholson, Sr. and Jane , his wife, was born in Virginia and probably in Spotsylvania County. He was raised in Spotsylvania and in Orange Counties, and was probably born about 1707, as he was likely 21 years of age or more in 1728, when on September 28th, he was granted 500 acres of land from King George the 2nd, on Terry's Run in Spotsylvania County in connection with a similar grant to his brother, William Gholson, and at the same his, his father, Anthony Gholson, Sr. received a grant of 1000 acres in the same location. His descendants began writing and spelling their name "GHOLSTON", which is the common spelling of the name for the descendants in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, etc.

Anthony Gholston, Jr. sold the 500 acres in Spotsylvania County, of which he had been given the same by grant, to William Lea of King and Queen County, on June 6, 1743. On May 7, 1744 he purchased 200 acres in St. George Parish, Spotsylvania County from William Sandridge (his father-in-law) and his wife Ann. He and Mary, his wife, sold this latter property on June 4, 1764, to Peter Marye of Spotsylvania County. It was probably about this time that he removed to Louisa County, which was his residence at the time that he purchased 225 acres of land in Halifax County, Virginia on February 10, 1777, from John Williamson.

Anthony Gholston, Jr. was married to Mary Sandridge, daughter of William and Ann Sandridge, of Spotsylvania County. The last will and testament of William Sandridge is dated March 3, 1746 in Spotsylvania County (see appendix for copy) and in the same he bequeathed 100 acres to his granddaughter, Sarah Golson, daughter of Anthony Gholston, Jr. and Mary (Sandridge) Gholston, his wife. Ann Sandridge, widow of William, was remarried on June 28, 1754, to Joseph Martin.

It is possible that Anthony Gholston, Jr. rendered some service in the Revolutionary War in the way of supplies, and he may have given other services in previous wars, though nothing definite in this regard has been located. His widow, Mary Sandridge Gholston, did render service to Continental Troops, as shown in the Public Claims for Halifax County in Public Claims Index in the Virginia State Archives, page 25. She give 3 bushels of Indian Corn, 10 bushels of Indian Corn and 200 pounds of fodder for the use of Continental Troops.

Anthony Gholston, Jr. made his last will and testament in Halifax County, Virginia on March 12, 1779, and the same was probated on July 15, 1779 (see copy of same in appendix). He names nine children in his will, which are probably listed in the order of their births. The marriages of most of the children are found in Halifax County marriage bonds and in records in Goochland County. The widow, Mary Sandridge Gholston, was born about 1720-22 and it is stated that she died in 1783. There is recorded in the Halifax County marriage bonds the record of a marriage of one, Mary Gholston on August 9, 1788, to John Brown, with Frederick Brown as bondsman. Could this have been a remarriage of Mary Sandridge Gholston?

Dabney Gholston of Madison County, Georgia, made a Power of Attorney on February 25, 1812, authorizing his brother Joseph Gholston's wife, Frances, and their son, Anthony, as his legal and lawful attorneys to collect legacy which he should have from the estate of his mother, Mary (Sandridge) Gholston (See appendix for copy of the document), who was deceased at that time. If the mother died in 1783, why did Dabney wait until 1812 to collect legacy from his mother's estate?

CHILDREN OF ANTHONY GHOLSTON, JR. AND MARY SANDRIDGE

1. SARAH GHOLSTON, born in Virginia, about 1745, probably in Spotsylvania County. She received a gift of 100 acres of land from her grandfather, William Sandridge, in his will dated March 3, 1746, and was probably the first and only child of Anthony Gholston, Jr. and Mary Sandridge on that date. Sarah Gholston was married to Charles Powell and they settled in Kentucky.
2. ANN GHOLSTON, born in Virginia, probably Spotsylvania County, about 1747; married Mr. ..... Fleming.
3. JOHN GHOLSTON,* born in Virginia, probably Spotsylvania County, about 1749; married Ann Pettus and removed to Wilkes County, Georgia.
4. JOSEPH GHOLSTON,* born in Virginia, probably in Spotsylvania County, about 1751; married August 26, 1779, Frances Waddell.
5. MARY GHOLSTON,* born in Virginia, probably in Spotsylvania County, about 1753; married James Jones before 1781.
6. ELIZABETH GHOLSTON (BETTY),* born in Virginia, about 1755, probably in Spotsylvania County; married before 1781, David Jones.
7. EUNICE GHOLSTON, born in Virginia, about 1757, probably in Spotsylvania County; was unmarried at the time of her father's will in 1779.
8. DABNEY GHOLSTON,* born in Virginia about 1759, probably in Spotsylvania County; settled in Wilkes County, Georgia; married first about 1786, Elizabeth Pulliam; secondly December 24, 1793, Mary Bullock.
9. SUSANNA GHOLSTON, born in Virginia, about 1761, probably in Spotsylvania County; married November 15, 1785, in Halifax County, to Anthony Pruitt of Halifax County.

FAMILY OF ANTHONY GHOLSON AND ELIZABETH , HIS WIFE

ANTHONY GHOLSON, son of William Gholson, Sr. and Susanna Collins, was born in Spotsylvania County, Virginia about 1733 (aged 80 years in 1813). He was raised in the vicinity of Spotsylvania and Orange Counties, and it is believed that he may have served in the Indians Wars. During the time of the Revolution, he was living in Augusta County, Virginia (which had previously been part of Orange County, which latter county was created from a division of Spotsylvania County) and he served as a private under Captain James Tate in the Augusta County militia during the War. He purchased 374 acres of land in Augusta County from James Cowan in 1778, and this property was sold by Anthony Gholson and Elizabeth, his wife, to Stephen Beck of Augusta County on September 14, 1779, and the sale was acknowledged by Elizabeth, wife of Anthony Gholson, on April 18, 1780.

As a result of military services rendered, Anthony Gholson received large grants of land in Jefferson County, Kentucky in 1780, and subsequently entered land in Fayette and Wayne counties. On August 28, 1784 he purchased 680 acres of land in Botetourt County, Virginia from Caleb Wallace and Rosanna, his wife, of Lincoln County, Virginia (later Kentucky), part of which property Rosanna had inherited from her father, Israel Christian. Grants of 8½ acres on June 24, 1785 and 328½ acres on December 2, 1785, were made to Anthony Gholson, which land was located on Buffalo Creek in Botetourt County, and Francis Gholson, brother of Anthony, received land on Tinker Creek in Botetourt on June 22, 1786. Anthony Gholson and Elizabeth, his wife, sold 960 acres of their property on August 19, 1794, to Jacob Coffman, and then on October 4, 1796, he and his wife sold the 8½ acre grant which they received on June 24, 1785. Anthony purchased 365 acres from Uriah Humphries and Sarah, his wife on January 15, 1795 and he purchased 160 acres from James Stuart, Senior on October 8, 1796. He sold two tracts of 7½ acres and 118 acres to Christian Gish on May 13, 1797, and purchased 270 acres from Robert Baker and Mary, his wife, on June 13, 1797. This latter property was sold on September 11, 1798, to Henry Fullheart. Anthony Gholson purchased two additional tracts: one from John Depew of 38 acres on October 9, 1798, and the other tract on June 10, 1799, from Martin Wale and Nancy, his wife. He and William McClanahan, jointly, purchased three slaves from Joseph Pryor on August 12, 1800, and then on September 8, 1801, Anthony Gholson and Elizabeth, his wife, sold to Daniel Stover, for the sum of $3,000.00, all of the tracts of property which were in their possession in Botetourt County, consisting of a total of 791 acres, which was called his "Big Spring Estate".

Court Orders of Botetourt County show that Anthony Gholson was prominent and active and received a number of important court appointments. He was a prominent and successful planter and miller in Botetourt County. After disposing of his property in September, 1801, he and his family crossed the mountains into Kentucky and settled in Wayne County. Colonel Micah Taul, in his journal, records an account of the settling of Anthony Gholson and his family in Wayne County. The records show that the family lived in the vicinity of Wayne County for several years, and Anthony Gholson was instrumental in organizing the Big Sinking Baptist Church in January, 1804, of which the Reverend Richard Barrier was the first pastor, he being the husband of one of Anthony Gholson's granddaughters. In 1813 Anthony Gholson was eighty years of age, and survived for sometime afterwards. He and his wife were the parents of at least eleven children.

CHILDREN OF ANTHONY GHOLSON AND ELIZABETH , HIS WIFE

1. WILLIAM GHOLSON, born about 1764, in Virginia; married in Botetourt County, Virginia, December 9, 1784, Mary Cross. The bondsman was William Cross (Register of Marriages, page 23). He seems to have also had a wife, Elizabeth Brown, in which case she was evidently his second wife, and he may have been the William Gholson, with wife, Elizabeth, who were in Wilkes County, Georgia, who in 1784, with his wife, Elizabeth, were appointed Administrators of the Estate of Joseph More, deceased. However, they probably removed to Kentucky and it seems quite certain that William Gholson, son of Anthony and Elizabeth, was the William Gholson who was residing in Madison County, Kentucky in 1800, and may have been the father of Francis Gholson who was married in Madison County in 1807 to Susanna Brown. It is said that his daughter Catherine, (daughter of William Gholson and Betty Brown) married Anthony Bozzall Hackett in 1803 (See GHOLSON and Allied Families, by Mitchell).
2. MARY GHOLSON, born about 1766, in Virginia; married in Botetourt County, Virginia, August 23, 1788, Joseph Chrisman, son of Isaac Chrisman and Magdalene Hite. They settled in Wayne County, Kentucky and probably left descendants (See family of Lieutenant-Colonel Isaac Chrisman, with Chrisman families in Wayne County, Kentucky, in 1850).
3. SARAH GHOLSON,* born about 1768, in Virginia; married in Botetourt County, Virginia, May 22, 1788 (original marriage register) (Lieutenant-Colonel) Isaac Chrisman, son of Isaac Chrisman and Magdalene Hite.
4. ELIZABETH GHOLSON, born about 1770, in Virginia; married in Botetourt County, Virginia, December 1, 1789, William Neely (original marriage register).
5. (COLONEL) SAMUEL GHOLSON,* born 1772, in Virginia; married in Wayne County, Kentucky, June 24, 1801, Mary Ann Slaton. He married secondly August 9, 1841, at Panola, Texas, Sarah Bullock.
6. JOHN GHOLSON,* born about 1774, in Virginia (aged 75 years in 1850) married in Botetourt County, Virginia, March 10, 1794, Lucretia Griffith.
7. (CAPTAIN) JAMES GHOLSON,* born in Virginia, September 16, 1776. He was married in Lincoln County, Kentucky, February 4, 1796, to Martha Lewis.
8. NANCY GHOLSON, born about 1778, in Virginia, resided in Wayne County, Kentucky. She was mentioned in the journal of Micah Taul and attended her sister at various times. She may not have married.
9. CATHERINE GHOLSON,* born about 1780, in Virginia; married in Botetourt County, Virginia, August 10, 1801 (original register), Bartholomew Hayden.
10. BENJAMIN GHOLSON, born about 1782, in Virginia; married in Wayne County, Kentucky, November 17, 1803, Polly Haden. He was mentioned in the Journal of Micah Taul, and lived at Monticello in Wayne County, where he was residing in 1810, at which time he probably had three children, 1 male and 2 females under 10 years, and he owned one slave.
11. DOROTHY GHOLSON,* born in Botetourt County, Virginia in 1786 (16 years of age in 1802); married on May 20, 1802, in Wayne County, Kentucky, (Colonel) Micah Taul.

FAMILY OF (CAPTAIN) CHARLES GOLDSTON AND HIS WIFE

(CAPTAIN) CHARLES GOLDSTON, was a son of one, John Goldston (or Gholston) according to descendants. His father, John Goldston, was probably the John Gholson, son of William Gholson, Sr. and Susanna Collins, of Spotsylvania County, Virginia, who served as an officer in the Indian Wars. He probably settled in Moore County, North Carolina, where one, John Goldston, was living in 1790, as the head of a family, and in the home were himself and two female members, likely a wife and daughter.

Captain Charles Goldston and his brother, William Goldston, owned large tracts of land in Chatham County, North Carolina and the vicinity, which they obtained through land grants. The North Carolina State Records (Volumes 16 and 22) indicate that both may have given service during the Revolutionary War. Charles Goldston served as a Captain, as shown by the records. Charles and William had a brother named John Goldston, according to relatives; however, the John Goldston, who purchased land in Chatham County on November 8, 1792, was probably the son of Captain Charles. On August 5, 1785, Charles Goldston was a witness to the deed from his brother, William Goldston, to William Moody, and on August 15, 1797, Charles Goldston sold 300 acres in Chatham County to Henry Bray. In 1790, both Charles Goldston and William Goldston were heads of families in Chatham County, and Charles had two sons over 16 years, 2 sons under 16 years, and there were six female members of his family (likely his wife and five daughters). He did not own slaves in 1790, but his brother William had ten slaves and there were 1 male and four female children in his family.

It seems quite probable that Captain Charles Goldston settled in Tennessee with members of his family about 1800, and his descendants are found in Wilson, Marion, Knox, Johnston and other counties of Eastern Tennessee. He was quite certainly grandfather of the families found in Wilson and Marion counties in 1850. A descendant (grandson or great-grandson) was James M. Golston, who was born in Eastern Tennessee about 1820, and who settled in Texas about 1838, and whose son, Joseph W. Golston, was father of Mr. Roy D. Golston, an investment Broker, of Tyler, Texas, with whom the author has had correspondence.

Captain Charles Goldston and his wife had at least nine children.

CHILDREN OF (CAPTAIN) CHARLES GOLDSTON AND HIS WIFE

1. JOHN GOLDSTON,* born about 1770, in Chatham County, North Carolina; married on February 5, 1793, in Knox County, Tennessee, Margaret Low. He married secondly, Elizabeth Maxey.
2. ELI GOLDSTON, born before 1775, in Chatham County, North Carolina; married and was residing in Wilson County, Tennessee in 1820, when he was over 45 years of age, and his wife was between 26 and 45 years, and they had three sons residing at home. The Goldston families in Marion County, Tennessee were probably among his descendants, and he may have been father of: James Goldston, aged 53 in Wilson County, Tennessee in 1850, whose wife was named Patience, 51 years, and they had eight children: Elizabeth, James, William, Mary, Emily, John, Susan and Alexander; and of Thomas Goldston aged 56 years, with wife Lucy C., 28, and children: Charles, 8, John M., 6 and Thomas 1; also he was probably the father of the husband of Elizabeth Goldston, aged 52, and her six children: William, Elizabeth, James, Nancy, John and Minerva and probably grandchildren Charles and Eliza (see appendix).
3. to 9.: Two sons and five daughters born after 1775 (under 16 years in 1790). One of these sons may have been named Reuben Goldston, who owned 160 acres in Knox County, Tennessee in 1801.

FAMILY OF CHARLES M. GOLDSTON AND CATHARINE RULE

CHARLES M. GOLDSTON, son of John Goldston and Margaret Low, was born about 1794, probably in North Carolina. He was raised in the vicinity of Wilson County, Tennessee, where he was married on August 28, 1814, to Elizabeth Neel. There were probably children by this marriage, since Charles M. Goldston was residing in Wilson County in 1830 and residing in his home were 3 males under 5 years, 1 male from 5 to 10 years, 1 male from 10 to 15 years and 3 males from 20 to 30 years, and there were 3 females under 5 years, 3 females from 20 to 30 years, and 1 female from 40 to 50 years (evidently his mother and his brothers and sisters, as well as his own children). In 1840 there were 2 males under 5 in his home, 2 males from 10 to 15 and 1 male 30 to 40; 1 female under 5 years, 2 females 5 to 10, 1 female 10 to 15, 1 female 20 to 30 and 1 female 30 to 40. Charles M. Goldston was quite certainly married a second time in Sumner County, Tennessee, on January 7, 1826, to Catharine Rule, and in the same county his brother, John Maxey Goldston was married on December 2, 1830, to Louisa Stovall. Catharine Rule was probably a granddaughter of one, Henry Ruyle and Catharine, his wife, of Sumner County. Henry Ruyle made his last will and testament in Sumner County on July 10, 1790, and mentions his wife, Catharine Ruyle; his eldest son, Henry Ruyle; his son Andrew Ruyle; his five now living with him, John, Solomon, Moses, Aaron and Peter Ruyle, Peter being the youngest; his daughters Mary Cravins, Magdalen Jones, Margaret Ruyle, Elizabeth Ruyle, and Celia Cotes. Executors were his wife, Catharine and son, John Ruyle. Charles Goldston and his family settled in Polk County, Missouri after 1842, and his widow, Catharine, and her family were residing in Polk County in 1850. Catharine Rule Goldston was born about 1805 in Tennessee (45 years in 1850). She was the mother of at least seven children, but the records indicate that there may have been others. (See census schedules of Wilson County, Tennessee in appendix).

FAMILY OF DABNEY GHOLSTON AND HIS WIVES: ELIZABETH PULLIAM AND MARY BULLOCK

DABNEY GHOLSTON, son of Anthony Gholston, Jr. and Mary Sandridge, was born in Virginia, probably between 1759 and 1760, and probably in Spotsylvania or Orange Counties. He was in Louisa and Halifax Counties with his parents, and probably lived during his earlier years in Spotsylvania and Orange Counties. When his father purchased 225 acres of land in Halifax County on February 10, 1777, from John Williamson, their residence was given as Louisa County (which had previously been part of Orange County). Dabney Gholston inherited property from his father under his father's will, which was probated in Halifax County in 1779. It is likely that he gave some Revolutionary War Service, but no official records have been found. He was in South Carolina and Georgia as early as 1786, but perhaps earlier. On January 3, 1789, he sold 100 acres in Halifax County to his brother Joseph Gholston, from his inheritance, and after that time he probably remained permanently in Georgia. He settled in Wilkes County where there are a number of transactions to be found in the records.

Dabney Gholston was first married about 1786, to Elizabeth Pulliam, a daughter of John Pulliam, Sr. and Sarah, his wife, of Abbeville County, South Carolina, which county was located across the state line from Wilkes County, Georgia at the time. The last will and testament of John Pulliam, Sr. was made May 2, 1798, and was probated June 11, 1798 in Abbeville County, South Carolina, and in the Will he left two pounds each to the three children of his deceased daughter, Betsey Gholson, namely: Nancy, Zachariah and Benjamin Gholson, "to be put at interest by my executors and paid them as they severally come of age or marry" (see appendix for copy of the will). Dabney Gholston was married secondly in Wilkes County, Georgia, on December 24, 1793, to Mary (Polley) Bullock, daughter of Nathaniel Bullock and Mary Hawkins, who were early pioneers of Georgia. She was a granddaughter of Richard Bullock and Ann Henley, and of John Hawkins, of Granville County, North Carolina. She was a sister to Hawkins Bullock, who served in the Revolutionary Army.

Dabney Gholston was one of the appraisers of the Estate of Presley Ramsey in Wilkes County, Georgia on July 17, 1794. He purchased 350 acres in Wilkes County from Samuel Denis and Sarah, his wife on July 21, 1802, which was part of an original grant to William Pollard in August, 1785. He sold this land as 372¼ acres on April 17, 1805, to a Frenchman, Jacques Leon Dugass de Koctrefiville, and then on November 12, 1805, he purchased 150 acres from James Allen and Chloe, his wife of Wilkes County. This property he sold on April 30, 1807, to James Hurley. He had participated in the land lotteries in Georgia in 1803 and in 1806. On March 8, 1803 he was appointed guardian to each of his children in regard to the property which they inherited from John Pulliam, their grandfather. The guardian bonds and deed recordings are found in the early records of Wilkes County (see references below). His daughter, Nancy Gholston, was married in Wilkes County to Richard Sissions.

It appears that after 1807 he removed from Wilkes County, or that the property which he possessed from grants or lotteries, was in other counties after county divisions. There are references to him in Elbert County land records. By February 25, 1812, he resided in Madison County, Georgia, where he executed a power of attorney, recorded in Madison County Georgia, and in Halifax County, Virginia, in which he appointed Fanny Gholston, the wife of his deceased brother Joseph Gholston, and Anthony Gholston (Son of Joseph Gholston) to represent him in Halifax County, Virginia, to collect the legacies which Dabney Gholston was to receive from the estate of his mother, Mary Sandridge Gholston, who was then deceased (see appendix for copy of document).

All of the five younger children of Dabney Gholston were under age in 1824 and were mentioned as such by Dabney Gholston in his last will and testament, which was made on June 10 1824, and probated in Madison County, Georgia in 1825 (see copy in appendix). Dabney Gholston owned large tracts of land in Madison County, where he was a wealthy and prosperous planter and raised a large family, and where he died in 1825. There were eleven children (but more if some of them died young).

FAMILY OF FRANCIS GHOLSON AND SUSANNA BROWN

FRANCIS GHOLSON, probably a son William Gholson who was in Madison County, Kentucky in 1800. He was probably a great-grandson of Anthony Gholson, Sr. and Jane, his wife, of Orange County, Virginia. Francis Gholson was living in Madison County, Kentucky in 1807, when he was married on May 25, 1807, to Susanna Brown. They removed to northern Alabama at an early date and resided in Franklin County in 1840. In 1840 he was listed as being between the ages of 50 and 60 years, with his wife in the same age group, and with seven children in the family at that time, but at least one daughter had married between 1830 and 1840. Francis Gholson died before 1850, but his widow "Susan Goldson", aged 64 years, born in Kentucky, was still living, and with her were two persons by the name of "Goldson": Milton Goldson, aged 18 years and Mary Goldson, aged 10 years, both born in Alabama. The Mary Goldson, aged 10, years in 1850, was likely a granddaughter. George M. Gholston, 28 years in 1860 in Franklin County, was likely a son.

CHILDREN OF FRANCIS GHOLSON AND SUSANNA BROWN

1. (GENERAL) SAMUEL JAMESON GHOLSON, born May 19, 1808, in Madison County, Kentucky. He was educated in the schools of Franklin County, Alabama, where he read law under (Judge) Peter Martin of Russellville, and was admitted to the bar in 1829 and began practicing in Athens, Mississippi. He represented Monroe County, Mississippi in the State house of representatives during 1835, 1836 and 1839, and was elected to represent Mississippi in Congress in 1836 in place of Dr. David C. Dickson, who had died. He was sent to a special session of Congress the following year. In 1839 he was appointed to the bench of the United States District Court of Mississippi by President Martin Van Buren. In this capacity he tried some very important cases. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1860 at Charleston and to the Constitutional Convention the following year, when Mississippi seceded from the Union. With the outbreak of the Civil War he resigned from the federal court and enlisted in the Monroe volunteers and was elected Captain of the Company. Later the Company was known as Company I, 14th Mississippi Infantry. He was promoted to Brigadier General of the Mississippi Troops and in 1864 was appointed Brigadier General in the Confederate States Army. In the engagement at Egypt, Mississippi on December 27, 1864, he lost his left arm and was mustered out of the service with the rank Major-General. He then resumed his legal practice at Aberdeen, Mississippi, and was prominent in civic and political life during the reconstruction period. He was speaker of the house of Representatives from 1865 to 1867 and represented his county again in 1878. He had married in 1838 to Margaret Ragsdale. The census records of Monroe County of 1850 list her as aged 30 years, born in Kentucky, but the 1860 census lists her age as 41 years and born in Alabama. They owned a large estate in Monroe County, but did not have children. (General) Samuel Jameson Gholson died at Aberdeen, Mississippi, October 16, 1883.
2. ..... GHOLSON, a son, who married, and probably died before 1840, leaving a wife and children. Born about 1810.
3. ..... GHOLSON, a son, born 1810 to 1820 (about 1812).
4. ..... GHOLSON, a daughter, born about 1814.
5. MARY A. GHOLSON,* born about 1816-17; married Oran Sargent.
6. WILLIAM J. GHOLSON, born about 1818-19, in Tennessee; married Nancy A. Thompson. They were residing in Monroe County, Mississippi in 1850 and 1860. In 1850 he was listed as 31 years, and his wife as 23 years, born in Mississippi. It appears that three of the wife's brothers were living with them in 1850 (Elias A. Thompson, Ulysses Thompson and Thomas J. Thompson). William J. Gholson was aged 42 years in 1860 and his wife was 35 years, but there were no children living in the home at either time.

7 to 9. There were probably at least two additional girls (aged 5 to 10 years in 1840) and one additional boy (aged 10 to 15 years in 1840) born in this period.

10. MILTON GHOLSON, born about 1831-2 (aged 5 to 10 years in 1840), in Franklin County, Alabama, aged 18 years in 1850.

FAMILY OF HOWELL HUNTER GOLSON AND LOTTIE B. HUDDLESTON

HOWELL HUNTER GOLSON, son of Howell Rose Golson and Korrie Goldsmith, was born November 15, 1884, at Fort Deposit, Lowndes County, Alabama. He was raised to manhood at Wetumpka, Alabama and vicinity, and received his early educational training in the public schools of Wetumpka. In 1903 he graduated from the Fifth District Agricultural School at Wetumpka. Being of alert mind and studious habit he later went into newspaper work and up to 1914 edited the Wetumpka Weekly Herald, in the meanwhile giving some attention to the study of law and spent one year as a student at the law department of the University of Alabama. It may be suspected that this concession was more to gratify his learned father, than to please himself, for evidently another profession than the law, dignified, desirable and honorable as that is, was calling to him in the way of natural inclination, and journalism became his choice of career. He obtained valuable newspaper experience in Tennessee, Illinois, New York and the District of Columbia, thereby coming into close mental association with some of the biggest reportorial minds of a particularly strenuous period of national history. This mental quickening led him, in 1918, to engage in an enterprise he had often considered, and in November of that year he established his own newspaper, "The Abbeville Herald", his plant and office being located on Washington Street, Court Square, Abbeville, Henry County, Alabama. He obtained modern equipment that enabled him to issue a handsomely printed paper, and represented agencies that insured the latest reliable news from all of the world. He ranked high as an editorial writer, and in a comparatively short time built up a circulation that covered Henry County and extended much farther. "The Abbeville Herald" became a Standard newspaper of Southeastern Alabama, and rapidly came into public notice and met with very pronounced public approval. It became a conspicuous example of a partisan journal, so fairly and sincerely edited that it became acceptable to all readers, and it was so carefully superintended, as to general news and local happenings, and interesting and authentic news features, that in many households it was substituted for widely advertised magazines and newspapers of much greater age.

Howell Hunter Golsan was appointed Registrar of the Circuit Court of Henry County, in Equity, by Judge H. A. Pearce, to succeed Mr. J. R. Epsy, deceased. He was married at Birmingham, Alabama, November 15, 1905, to Miss Lottie B. Huddleston, whose father, the late (Dr.) William A. Huddleston, was a well known physician in Elmore County, Alabama. His wife was educated in Montevalla College. They became members of the Abbeville Baptist Church, of which he was church treasurer. He was also a member of the Exchange Club. He and his wife are the parents of three children.

5. FLORENCE GOLSON, born December 4, 1891, at Fort Deposit, Lowndes County, Alabama, was a lovely child who grew normally until she reached the age of nine years, when she suffered an accident which affected her eyes; and after six years of suffering and after every effort was made by medical skill she became totally blind. Her unusual musical talent was noticeable even when a small child and before she reached the age of twelve she was improvising songs and piano pieces for her own amusement, but it was not until she had gone far into the study of the theory of music that she began composing seriously. She was educated by private tutors from Fort Deposit, Alabama, when she was an infant, and in the Tennessee School for the Blind at Nashville, Tennessee. Afterwards she attended the Woman's College, Montgomery, Alabama, studying theory and composition under Professor Alexander Findly, and continued her musical education at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music at Cincinnati, Ohio, studying voice under Dr. Ferry Lulek, now of New York and Mr. Dan Beddoe and composition under Mr. Ralph Lyford and Dr. Edgar Stillman Kelley, the eminent American composer. Her work at the conservatory was so artistic and of such merit that she was awarded a full scholarship. She graduated in voice on June 14, 1920, as a member of the Artist Class of Mr. Dan Beddoe. At the same time she received the signal honor of being awarded a diploma in composition, one of the few of its kind ever granted by this noted institution. During her first year at the conservatory she was initiated into the Upsilon Chapter of the Mu Phi Upsilon Sorority and is a most loyal member of this noted musical organization. After her graduation in voice and composition she took post graduate work at the Conservatory and later went to New York where she was coached by Walter Golde and studied orchestration with Fred Jacobi.

She is Alabama's own product. Her disposition is bright and sunny, and her spirit is true and steadfast. Her musical talent and achievements are the pride of the people of Alabama. She is possessed of natural grace and poise and her loveliness of person attracts and wins real friends at home and abroad.

Her first published song was "The Bird with a Broken Wing," issued by the John Church Company in 1919. It is dedicated to Helen Keller, also a native of Alabama, whose life and work was a great inspiration to the young composer. This musical setting of the tenderly moving poem by Will Allen Dromgoole, combines pathos and courage. Many editions have been printed and it has won a permanent place in American song literature. "A Spring Symphony", cantata for women's voices, won a prize of one hundred dollars offered by the Ohio Music Teachers Association and was given its premier performance in New York by the famed Rubinstein Club. It has since been sung by most of the large choral organizations and college glee clubs in this country. A piano suite titled "Moods," and several compositions for violin and piano have been played by leading artists.

A brief but highly successful concert career was cut short by her marriage. For three years she concertized under the management of H. F. Richards of Cincinnati, and Charles Drake of New York, singing her own compositions as well as the standard repertoire. March 22, 1923, witnessed the culmination of a beautiful romance begun in childhood and ripening with the years when Florence Golson was married to her girlhood sweetheart, Winton Wadkins Bateman, a son of John Wadkins Bateman and Blanche Spiers. Winton W. Bateman had moved to College Park, Georgia several years previously, and after their marriage for thirteen years, Florence Golson Bateman made her home in Georgia.

While in Georgia she became President of College Park Music Club, and was instrumental in causing public schools to adopt music as part of their program. She was organizer of a women's chorus and was director of the same for twelve consecutive years. This choral club was awarded the banner in 1927 by the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs for the best choral organization in Georgia. She was an active member of the Atlantic Music Club, of the Atlantic Branch of the League of American Pen Women, and was Chairman of music in College Park Woman's Club.

Wide recognition came to Florence Golson Bateman when her picture appeared in The Etude's Historical Musical Portrait Series, an alphabetical serial collection of the world's best known musicians, in November, 1933. A group of her songs were presented on a program at the Assembly of American Women Composers at Lake Chatauqua, New York, in July, 1935, at which time she was an honor guest. Her compositions are often sung on national radio programs and are receiving recognition abroad.

In January, 1936, Florence Golson Bateman moved with her husband back to Wetumpka, where her husband and her sister, Frances Golson, purchased The Wetumpka Printing Company, and he became business manager of the company. He devoted much of his time to the management of the business details of the company and won many friends for the paper. But he became seriously ill in 1941 and on June 18, 1942, his death occurred.

After returning to Alabama, Florence Golson Bateman became an active member of the Executive Board of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs, serving as Chairman of American Music, of Library Research and Parliamentarian. She is a life member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, a past president of the Selma-Montgomery Branch of the League of American Pen Women and has served as choral director, Federation secretary and Parliamentarian of the Montgomery Music Study Club. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon Honor Music Sorority, and honorary member of Delta Kappa Gamma National Honor Society and a member of the Alabama Composers League. Florence Golson Bateman taught voice in Wetumpka and Montgomery and her studio has been her lovely colonial home in Wetumpka in which she and her sister have continued to live since the death of her husband.

Among her other published compositions are "Rest", "A Message", "Little Boy Blue", "A Kiss from Columbine" and "Night". "The Bird with a Broken Wing" and 'A Spring Symphony" are still her best known compositions. "A Spring Symphony" was given at the famous Rubinstein Club, New York; at The Chaminade Club, Brooklyn; at the Annual Convention of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs; by the Apollo Boys Choir in Town Hall, New York; by the Apollo Boys Choir at the Biennial Con-

This gifted musician, of whom her State is justly proud, writes music, sings music, plays music, teaches music and lives music. The children of her mind are beautiful in conception and her silvery toned soprano voice has sung into the hearts of both young and old.

The Director and the Board of Trustees of the Department decided to place portraits of three noted Alabama musicians in the Music Room, and Florence Golson Bateman was the first chosen to receive this honor. The Florence Golson Bateman Studio at Transylvania Music Camp, at Brevard, North Carolina, was dedicated in July, 1954. It was the gift of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs and was named in honor of this Alabama composer.

FAMILY OF JESSE GHOLSTON AND MARY JANE STAGGS

was born August 1, 1830, in Georgia. His mother was named Mariah and in 1860 she was living in Pontotoc County, Mississippi with her family, and at that time her husband was probably deceased. Descendants write that Jesse Gholston came from Georgia and that he had two brothers, Jack Gholston and Newton Gholston. Jack Gholston settled in Columbia, Tennessee and fought in the Mexican War. After the Mexican War he returned to Mississippi and settled in Ecru, Pontotoc County. Newton served in the Civil War and was never heard from afterwards and was thought to have been killed. The 1860 Census of Pontotoc County records the following family of Mariah Gholston: Page 591, House 680: MARIAH GHOLSON, 52, female, Farmer, born in Tennessee; JESSE GHOLSON, 26, male, born Alabama; JASPER N. GHOLSON (probably Jasper Newton Gholson), 21, male, born Alabama; MALISSA C. GHOLSON, 15, female, born Alabama; JOHN B. GRADY, 4, male, born Mississippi.

Residing in the same county in 1850 and 1860 was one, AGRIPPA C. GHOLSON and his family. He was born about 1819 in Georgia, and could have been an uncle of Jesse Gholston. There was a JESSE GHOLSON, 17, Farmer, male, born in Alabama, who was living in the home of one, William Mullens, 47, Farmer, born in North Carolina, who was living in DeKalb County, Alabama in 1850.

Jesse Gholston was married to Mary Jane Staggs, who was born March 27, 1855 in Mississippi. She was probably a daughter of Obadiah Staggs and Martha J., his wife, who were residing in Tippah County, Mississippi in 1860, but were later residing in Union County (formed in a division of Tippah and Pontotoc Counties). The family of Staggs of which Mary Jane was a member was of Union County, Mississippi. The family of Obadiah Staggs in 1860 was as follows: Obadiah Staggs, 35, male, Blacksmith, born Alabama; Martha

J. Staggs, 35, female, born South Carolina; Obadiah P. Staggs, 14, male, born Mississippi; Sarah A. Staggs, 12, female, born Mississippi; Mary Staggs, 6, female, born Mississippi (likely Mary Jane Staggs, wife of Jesse Gholston); Margaret Staggs, 4, female, born Mississippi; James E. Staggs, 2, male, born Mississippi; Martha P. Staggs, 2 months, female, born Mississippi.

In 1850 in Pontotoc County is found the family of one, Ezekial Staggs, 56, Blacksmith, born South Carolina, with his family: Elizabeth Staggs, 51, female, born South Carolina; Henry Staggs, 20, male, farmer, born Alabama; Eli Staggs, 19, male, farmer, born Alabama; Elizabeth Staggs, 16, female, born Alabama; Ezekial Staggs, 15, male, born Alabama; John Staggs, 12, male, born Alabama; Wilson Staggs, 11, male, born Alabama; Sarah Staggs, 8, female, born Alabama; and one Ezekial Staggs (probably a grandson), 7, male, born Alabama. This was quite likely the family of Obadiah Staggs, who was probably an elder son of Ezekial and Elizabeth Staggs.

Jesse Gholston died on August 1, 1910, and his widow, Mary Jane Staggs Gholston, died on May 22, 1932. They had five children.

3. Mr. Thomas L. Goldston, Lubbock, Texas.

FAMILY OF JOHN GHOLSON AND ESTHER COOK

JOHN GHOLSON, son of Anthony Gholson, Sr. and Jane . . . . . , his wife, was born in Virginia, of Spotsylvania and Orange Counties. He was married to Esther Cook, daughter of Thomas Cook and Mary Smith. Thomas Cook in a deed of gift in Orange County dated June 25, 1741, gave his daughter "Easter Gholston, wife of John Gholston" 100 acres in the Parish of St. Thomas in Orange County. On June 20, 1747 he purchased 130 acres of land in St. Thomas Parish from David Cave of the same parish. He and his wife sold their homeplace on March 26, 1772 to John Vivion, Jr.

John Gholson served under George Washington in Indians Wars in 1754, and gave of his means in support of the American Revolution. He was an overseer of road building in his county and probably participated in other affairs.

His Last Will and Testament was made October 2, 1786 and was probated July 26, 1790 in Orange County. He had received a lot and personal property in a deed of gift from his father on August 8, 1763, after the death of "Anthony Gholson and his wife". His father died before December 3, 1764, when his mother Jane Gholson deeded to her son John Gholson all of her property, but reserved the right to enjoy the same herself until her death. (See Appendix for Deeds of Gift and for the Will of John Gholson).

In his will, John Gholson mentions his two sons and three daughters and three grandchildren (probably of a deceased daughter): Thomas Gholson, John Gholson, Martha Vivian, Lucy Bush, Lucy (evidently an error in recording the Will and should be Elizabeth) Long, and Thomas Quin, Fanny Quin and John Quin. The first time in his Will he calls one of his daughters Lucy Bush (which is correct, since Lucy Gholson married Ambrose Busch, son of Philip Busch) and another Lucy Long. Then later he renames his children: sons Thomas and John, daughters Martha, Lucy and Elizabeth.

FAMILY OF JOHN GHOLSON AND FRANCES TOURMAN

JOHN GHOLSON (Jr.), son of John Gholson and Esther Cook, was born in Orange County, Virginia about 1744. He was raised in Orange County and received property from his father in his father's last Will and Testament. He and his brother Thomas Gholson sold the 600 acres which they inherited from their father on August 10, 1791 to Benjamin Johnson of Orange County. Previously they had moved southward and John Gholson obtained property in Northampton County, North Carolina, which he sold, 215 acres, on September 4, 1790, to Howell Hobbs of Brunswick County, Virginia. Afterwards he purchased 200 acres in Franklin County, North Carolina, on October 28, 1790, from Thomas R. Wynn of that county.

John Gholson married in Cumberland County, Virginia on November 25, 1770, to Frances Tourman. His wife was probably closely related to Thomas Tourman of Goochland County, Virginia, who was married on October 20, 1778, to Elizabeth Mitchel in Goochland County and who purchased property in Goochland County in 1787 and later, but had previously owned property in that County. The last Will and Testament of Thomas Tourman is recorded in Goochland County in 1810, and he left a large family.

The children of John Gholson and Frances Tourman Gholson, his wife, are recorded in the wills and deeds of Franklin County, North Carolina. (See Appendix for copies of various documents). John Gholson made his last Will and Testament in Franklin County on November 29, 1799, at which time he had several children under the age of twenty-one years. Various members of his family had settled in Tennessee and Kentucky.

CHILDREN OF JOHN GHOLSON AND FRANCES TOURMAN:

1. LUCY GHOLSON, born in Virginia, September 12, 1771; christened at Dover Church in Goochland County, Virginia, October 6, 1771. She was raised in Virginia and in North Carolina. During the last twenty years of her life she suffered from a physical affliction which caused her much grief, and which eventually caused her death in 1811 in Franklin County, North Carolina. She made her last Will and Testament on March 3, 1811 and it was probated on September 6, 1811, in which she devised all of her inheritance from her father, John Gholson, deceased, to her mother, Frances Gholson. (See Appendix).

2. JOHN GHOLSON, born in Virginia, settled in Williamson County, Tennessee, where he was married on June 6, 1809, to Sarah D. Thweatt. John Gholson died in 1817 in Williamson County, Tennessee, and an inventory of his Estate was taken by his brother Benjamin Gholson, the administrator of his estate, in October 1817. There may have been children. The widow, Sally Gholson, was remarried on November 27, 1819, to Joseph Tenison of Williamson County. John Gholson sold his share of the property inherited from the estate of his father John Gholson in Franklin County, North Carolina on January 15, 1811, to Isham Fox (See Appendix). (In 1820 there were no children listed in Tenison family.)

3. THOMAS GHOLSON, born in Virginia; settled in Gallatin County, Kentucky. He was over 26 years of age in 1810, when he was married and living in Gallatin County. His wife was under 26 years and they had one son under 10 years of age. He sold the property which he inherited from his father, John Gholson, in Franklin County, North Carolina, on November 13, 1810, to Isham Fox (See Appendix).

4. MARTHA GHOLSON, born in Virginia; married Claborn Bobbitt. She was married before the death of her father in 1799, and her husband was one of the executors of his Will. She had already received her inheritance before the making of the Will.

5. BENJAMIN GHOLSON, born in Virginia or North Carolina. He was in Franklin County, North Carolina in 1810. On September 4, 1810 the widow of John Gholson, Frances, and the heirs residing in Franklin County, including Benjamin, sold their various parts of the property which they inherited to Isham Fox of Franklin County. Benjamin Gholson was in Williamson County, Tennessee on March 13, 1816 when he and his brother John Gholson, together with other children located in Franklin County, North Carolina, sold property which they inherited from their mother, Frances Gholson, deceased, to Edmund G. Brodie (their brother-in-law). Benjamin Gholson administered the estate of his brother, John Gholson, in Williamson County, Tennessee in October 1817, and thereafter. By 1820 he had left Williamson County. (See Appendix).

6. ANN GHOLSON,* of Franklin County, North Carolina; married William Arendell, of Franklin County. She was married prior to September 4, 1810, when she and her husband sold their inheritance from the estate of John Gholson, father of Ann. They also sold property inherited from the mother, Frances Gholson, on March 13, 1816. (See Appendix).

7. MARY GHOLSON, of Franklin County, North Carolina, took part in the transferral of the family inheritance on September 4, 1810, and with her husband, of her mother's property on March 13, 1816. She was married in Franklin County, North Carolina on December 14, 1813, to Benjamin Arendell of Franklin County.

8. FRANCES GHOLSON,* of Franklin County, North Carolina, born February 25, 1792; married on October 9, 1814, (Dr.) Edmund G. Brodie (as his second wife).

FAMILY OF JOHN GHOLSTON AND ANN PETTUS

JOHN GHOLSTON, son of Anthony Gholston, Jr. and Mary Sandridge, was born in Virginia, of Halifax County. According to the grants of land which he received in Georgia, he evidently served in the Revolutionary War. He settled in Georgia at an early date, probably soon after the end of the War. By 1786 he was married to Ann Pettus, who may have been from the family in Abbeville County, South Carolina. He was granted a large tract of land in Wilkes County, Georgia in 1786, and on September 12th of the same year he and his wife, Ann Pettus, sold 200 acres of the grant, located on Beaverdam Creek, to Gabriel Toombs. On March 9, 1788, John Golson purchased 25 acres on Kettle Creek from Jeffery Early and wife, Sarah.

The next transaction was on October 13, 1789 when James Hammett, John Gholson and Jeffery Early sold 63 acres on Kettle Creek in Wilkes County, Georgia, to William Leveritt. On November 3, 1789, John Gholson sold 200 acres on Kettle Creek to Sheppard Foster and 100 acres on Kettle Creek to Kimmie Foster.

John Gholson is shown in tax returns of 1790 as owning 200 acres in Wilkes County, Georgia, and 632 acres in Washington County, Georgia, and as owning one slave.

Jesse Patridge and wife, Sarah, sold 200 acres on the Waters of Kettle Creek to John Golson, and in the year 1792, John Gholston and Ann Pettus, his wife, sold 229 acres on Kettle Creek to Spencer Branham.

John Gholston was one of the appraisers of the Estate of Harwood Goodwyn on January 10, 1794.

It seems likely that John Gholston and his wife, Ann Pettus, raised a family but the details as yet are unknown. He was quite certainly the John Gholston of Putnam County, Georgia, who received early land grants in Washington and Wilkinson Counties, Georgia and who is listed in Putnam County in 1820. His son, John Gholson, was head of a family in Putnam County in 1830, and this son, John Gholson was quite certainly the father of John Gholson and William Gholson, whose families were in Putnam County in 1850 (See census schedules in appendix).

FAMILY JOHN GOLDSTON AND HIS WIVES MARGARET LOW AND ELIZABETH MAXEY

JOHN GOLDSTON, son of (Capt.) Charles Goldston and his wife , was born about 1770, in Chatham County, North Carolina. He is quite likely the John Goldston who purchased 160 acres of land in Chatham County from James Horn on November 8, 1792. He moved into Eastern Tennessee with his father's family, where he was married in Knox County, on February 5, 1793, to his first wife, Margaret Low. He had four children by his first wife, and after her decease he was married to Elizabeth Maxey. John Goldston purchased 228 acres of land in Wilson County, Tennessee, on December 24, 1804, from Wilie Cherry. John and his brother, Eli Goldston, were heads of families in Wilson County in 1820 and later, and John had at least three children by his second wife.

CHILDREN OF JOHN GOLDSTON AND MARGARET LOW

1. CHARLES M. GOLDSTON,* born about 1794, of Tennessee; married first, in Wilson County, Tennessee, Elizabeth Neel, on August 28, 1814. He probably married secondly, in Sumner County, Tennessee, January 7, 1826, Catharine Rule.
2. ELI GOLDSTON, born March 13, 1795, of Tennessee; married on December 24, 1816, in Wilson County, Tennessee, Elizabeth Bennett, who was born February 25, 1797. She died March 4, 1873 and he died February 8, 1875. They resided in Wilson County, Tennessee and had four children. Elizabeth Bennett, born in Virginia, was a daughter of William K. Bennett, born 1773, also in Virginia.
3. SARAH GOLDSTON, born about 1796-7, of Tennessee; married on October 18, 1814, in Wilson County, Tennessee, Robertson Wright.

He died July 4, 1892. They lived in Tennessee and had a family of twelve children, four of whom survived: William Turner Goldston, born August 12, 1831, died June 1904; married June 11, 1856, Martha Ann Allen; Elizabeth Goldston, born February 27, 1836, died January 28, 1916, married James Jolley; Major Andre Goldston, born February 14, 1845, died April 4, 1924; John Maxey Goldston, Jr., born October 1, 1858, died October 21, 1935, married Flora Nimmo Wright (a widow) and had five children (See GHOLSON and Allied Families, by Mitchell).

FAMILY OF JOHN GHOLSON AND LUCRETIA GRIFFITH

JOHN GHOLSON, son of Anthony Gholson and Elizabeth, his wife, was born about 1775, in Botetourt County, Virginia. He was aged 75 years in 1850, when he was alive and residing in Wayne County, Kentucky. He was married on March 10, 1794, in Botetourt County, Virginia, to Lucretia Griffith, a daughter of John Griffith. They settled in Wayne County, Kentucky in 1801, with his parents. He lived for awhile in Maury County, Tennessee, where there are recorded various transactions in the Minute Books and Deed Records. He served in the War of 1812 and in 1837, when he applied for a pension, he stated that he had volunteered his services in the War of 1812, serving under Captains Micah Taul and Thomas Miller. Lucretia Griffith Gholson, his wife, died in Maury County, Tennessee, where her estate was settled which she inherited from her father, and where the names of her children are recorded. There are many descendants in Wayne County, Kentucky and vicinity.

FAMILY OF JOHN GOLSAN AND ANN LAREY

JOHN GOLSAN, the eldest son of (Sergt.) John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) and Elizabeth (?Miller), was born in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, on December 24, 1782. He was raised and educated in Orangeburg District, where he was a planter and lived until his death, at the early age of 38 years, 10 months and 3 days, on October 27, 1820. He was married in Orangeburg District on May 12, 1803, by the Reverend Benjamin Tarrant, to Ann Larey of Orangeburg District, who was born on July 4, 1785, a daughter of Michael Larey, Jr. and Mary Catherine Deramus. Her father, Michael Larey, Jr., was born July 8, 1752, and baptized August 16, 1752, son of Michael Larey, Sr. and Rachel Cook (Regula Koch). Michael Larey, Jr., served as a private in the Orangeburg Militia during the American Revolution, and he was prominent as a planter, and died in 1794. His father, Michael Larey, Sr., born about 1725, died on March 5, 1759, and was buried on March 6, 1759 at the age of 34 years, and had been married about 1740 to Regula Koch (Rachael Cook), who was baptized in Switzerland in 1724, and settled with her parents in Orangeburg District in 1741, a daughter of Hans Koch (baptized 1681) and Verena Meyer (baptized in 1686). Hans Koch was a son of Michael Koch of Switzerland. Michael Larey, Jr. was married in 1774 to Mary Catherine Deramus who was born December 22, 1754, a daughter of Joseph Deramus and Anne Pfund (Fund), who were married about 1742 in Orangeburg District. Mary Catherine Deramus Larey, widow of Michael Larey, Jr., was remarried on January 21, 1796 in Orangeburg District, to Henry Gissendanner (his second wife, his first wife being Elizabeth Rumph to whom he was married on February 25, 1767 (History of Orangeburg District, by Salley, page 120). Mary Catherine Deramus Larey Giessendanner died April 27, 1847, and her death record is recorded in the John Golsan and Ann Larey Golsan family bible (see appendix).

John Golsan and Ann Larey, his wife, kept a family bible (reproduced in the appendix), which records the birth records of their seven children, along with their own records, and those of grandchildren, other relatives, slaves, etc., and the original records are in possession of Mrs. Winton W. Bateman, Wetumpka, Alabama. After the decease of her husband, Ann Larey Golsan remained in Orangeburg, South Carolina until after 1840, or perhaps 1850. She was there with her family in 1830 and in 1840. In 1850 there was an Ann Golsan living in the home of Sarah Inabnit in Orangeburg County, who was 56 years of age (which does not agree with the 1830, nor the 1860 census for Ann Larey Golsan). She was probably the widow of some other member of the family who died prior to 1850, and different from Ann Larey Golsan. Sarah Inabnit was aged 58 years at the time and was probably a sister or sister-in-law of this Ann Golsan. Sarah Inabnit had a family of six children living in her home, as follows: H. W. Inabnit, 25 years; O. S. Inabnit, 28 years (a daughter); Mary A. Inabnit, 26 years; Emily J. Inabnit, 15 years; Samuel A. Inabnit, 13 years; and Frances E. Inabnit, 11 years.

In the "Memoirs of Georgia", Volume 1, page 1094, under the record of the Riley Family of Houston County, Georgia, is found the family of Jacob Riley and Mary Golsan Riley, his wife. This record spells the Golsan name "Goolsen", and gives the parents of Mary Golsan Riley as "John Goolsen" and Mary "Guisentine" of Orangeburg District, South Carolina. The record says that "John Goolsen" was a Welshman (which undoubtedly is true that he was of Welsh descent), but the record of the parentage of Mary "Goolsen" as given in these memoirs is not quite correct. The Bible record of John and Ann Larey Golsan records the birth record of one, Mary Elizabeth Golsan, on November 19, 1804, as their daughter, and the same Bible record shows that this Mary Elizabeth Golsan was married to Jacob Riley, which is also verified by the Last Will and Testament of Ann Golsan (see appendix); and the birth record of Ann Cenorah Riley, daughter of Jacob and Mary Riley is recorded in the Bible as being on December 13, 1840. The Mary "Guisentine" given as the mother of Mary Golsan Riley is evidently referring to the grandmother of Mary Golsan Riley, whose death record is given in the John and Ann Larey Golsan Bible as follows: "Mary C. Gissandaner" departed this life in the year of our Lord Eighteen hundred and forty seven, April the 27".

The following references to the Larey and Deramus families is taken from the History of Orangeburg County, by Salley:

"After the death of Rev. John Giessendanner in 1761, his son Henry came into possession of the book, and a few scattering records were made by him. After his death the book fell into the hands of his second wife, who, previous to her marriage to Henry Giessendanner, was the widow Larey; and through her it fell into the hands of her son, Daniel Larey. Daniel Larey left it to his daughter, Mrs. M. B. Treadwell, of Orangeburg, etc." (page 91).

"Magdalena and Regel Lachrie were baptized March 15, 1746 (Mrs. Regel Larey's maiden name was "Kochin"). Peter Moorer, Jr. was married to Margaret Larey (date not given). Michael Larey was married to Regula Koch (probably in 1740). Margaret, daughter of Nicholas and Regula Larey, born March 27, 1750, baptized, April 16, 1750. Margaret, wife of Peter Larey, Sr. (sponser). Regula, wife of Michael Larey (sponser). On August 16, 1752, Michael, son of Michael and Regula Larey, born July 8, 1752, was baptized. Baptized at the home of Peter Larey on November 14, 1752 (record not completed, but probably a son of Peter Larey). Regina, daughter of Michael and Regula Larey, born March 18, 1754 was baptized May 5, 1754. Rachel, wife of Michael Larey (Sponsor). Margaret, daughter of Michael and Regula Larey, was buried July 16, 1753, aged 3 years and 3 months. Michael Larey was buried March 6, 1759; died March 5, 1759, aged about 34 years".

"Joseph Deramus . . . to Ann Pfund (about 1742).. Ann, wife of John Deramus (sponsor). April 13th Baptized, Catharina, daughter of Joseph and Anne Deramus; born 12th of February last. Mary Catharine, daughter of Joseph and Anne Deramus, born December 22nd 1754, On Sunday February 16th."

Several members of the family of Ann Larey Golsan settled in Alabama before 1850, or about that time. Her son, Lewis Golsan, was living in Coosa County in 1850, and in 1860 he and his brother, John S. Golsan, were residing in Butler County. Ann Larey Golsan was residing in the home of her son, John S. Golsan, in 1860 at which time she was 74 years of age. She died on March 3, 1866 in Butler County and her last will and testament was made on October 25, 1860 and is recorded in Will Book 2, page 69 of Butler County Court Records.

1. MARY ELIZABETH GOLSAN,* born November 19, 1804, in Orangeburg District, South Carolina; married Jacob Riley.
2. RACHEL GOLSAN, born May 19, 1807, in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, died November 4, 1820, at the age of 13 years, 5 months and 16 days.
3. ANN GOLSAN, born December 14, 1809, in Orangeburg District, South Carolina; married Mr. ..... Kennerly, and had a family of sons and daughters, mentioned in the Will of Ann Larey Golsan. Among her daughters was one, Mary Kennerly, who married a Mr. Robinson before 1860.

FAMILY OF (CAPTAIN) JOHN GHOLSON AND TALITHA MORTON

(CAPTAIN) JOHN GHOLSON, son of Francis Gholson and Mary Craig, was born in Virginia on February 8, 1784. His father was granted land in Botetourt County in 1786, which indicates that Capt. John Gholson was born in that vicinity. His father's family moved westward from Virginia into Kentucky and Tennessee and eventually was in Hamilton County, Illinois. Capt. John Gholson evidently served in the War of 1812, and probably also served in Indian campaigns. He was residing in Clark County, Kentucky, in 1808, where he was married on December 10, 1808, to Talitha Morton, a daughter of Capt. John Morton and Talitha Tinsley of Clark County. Talitha Morton was born in Virginia about 1787. She was residing in Cape Girardeau County, Missouri, in 1850, and at that time she was a widow, residing in the home of her daughter, Sarah L. Gholson, born in Missouri, aged 3 years in 1850 and 13 years in 1860, was residing with Sarah L. Gholson Johnson during both census years. She was likely a granddaughter of Capt. John and Talitha (Morton) Gholson.

He was raised on his father's plantation in Autauga County, and was educated in the local schools. FAMILY OF (LIEUT.) JOHN CASPER GOLSAN AND SARAH MILLER

(LIEUTENANT) JOHN CASPER GOLSAN, son of (Major) Lewis Golsan and Elizabeth Stehely (Staley), was born February 11, 1756, in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, and he was christened in Orangeburg Township on Tuesday evening, March 2, 1756, at the home of his father (see christening record under (Major) Lewis Golsan). He was raised in Orangeburg District, and during the Revolutionary War he served in Captain Rumph's Company of Militia of Orangeburg District with the rank of second lieutenant (see Appendix for roll of the company). From Salley's "History of Orangeburg County", "Many thrilling stories of the exploits of Rumph's daring partisans are told by the old people of this section, but, while many of them are no doubt ill-founded, or badly mixed up with other occurrences, they are worth preserving, and perhaps future discoveries in the way of records will either confirm or destroy their truth." An incident relating to the experiences of Lieut. John Casper Golsan is found as follows:

"From traditionary accounts handed down to Mr. McMichael we also learn that it was Capt. Rumph who drove "Bloody Bill" Cunningham to his deeds of violence. The account says that Cunningham was a member of Rumph's company in the early days of the war, and a good soldier; but that he had a brother who was a Tory. One day this brother was captured by Rumph's men, and Rumph, as was his custom, ordered him to be immediately hanged. William Cunningham came up and begged that his brother be spared." (The incident relates that the petition was denied and the brother was hanged, whereupon Cunningham vowed that he would be a bitter enemy of Rumph from that time, and he rode away). "Upon one occassion, when Rumph's men had put Cunningham's troops to flight, Lieut. Golsan singled out Capt. Cunningham and gave chase. They were both riding rapidly through the woods, when suddenly Cunningham spurred his horse over a little ditch, and wheeling it in an instant, presented his pistol at Golsan and said: "Stop, Golsan! I have nothing against you, and I don't want to kill you, nor do I want to be killed by you, but if you cross that ditch today one of us must die; so you had better go your way and let me go mine." Golsan said afterwards that he had never seen eyes in a human head that looked as Cunningham's did on that occasion. He said it was a tigerish look—more animal than of human being. He, however, did not further interfere with Cunningham, but returned to his company, and no one would have ever known of this incident had not Golsan related it himself."

On May 7, 1785, Mr. John Golsan was issued thirty-three pounds, fifteen shillings, for 135 days of Militia duty. He received grants of land in Orangeburg District for his services (as may be found in the records of South Carolina Land Grants). He was married in 1779, to Sarah Miller, who was born after 1760 (aged 60 years to 70 years in 1830) in Orangeburg District, a daughter of Emanuel Miller and Mary Negely. Descendents give his death date as being in 1812 (see chart of descendants of Major Lewis Golsan contributed by Mrs. Shellie J. Robinson, in Appendix), but the records indicate that he died after 1830. According to the 1830 census of Orangeburg District (see Appendix for schedules) he was still living in 1830, between the ages of 70 and 80 years (which would be the correct age for John Golsan if living in 1830). His wife died in 1846. In the 1790 census, John Golsan is shown with himself, his wife and three children, two daughters and one son (see schedules in appendix). Descendants list seven children in this family.

FAMILY OF (SERGT.) JOHN LEWIS GOLSAN (LEWIS GOLSAN, JR.) AND ELIZABETH (?MILLER)

(SERGEANT) JOHN LEWIS GOLSAN (LEWIS GOLSAN, JR.), son of (Major) Lewis Golsan and Elizabeth Stehely (Staley), was born February 9, 1759, in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, and was christened in Orangeburg on March 25, 1759. He served in the Revolutionary War with the rank of Sergeant in the Company of Captain Jacob Rumph of Orangeburg Militia (see roster of the Company in the appendix) and in the same Regiment of which his father was a major. On May 9, 1785, Mr. Lewis Golsan, was issued Sixteen Pounds, One Shilling and 5 Pence Sterling, for 180 days Militia Duty as Sergeant. He was granted 500 acres of land on the waters of Caw Caw Swamp in Orangeburg District on March 5, 1798 (South Carolina Land Grants, Class 2, Volume 43, page 385).

It seems that the family of (Sergt.) John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) remained in Orangeburg District until after the death of their father, but it is possible that his son, Emanuel, settled in Alabama prior to that date. (Sergt.) John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) died on July 20, 1822 (death date from Gasper Golsan Bible) in Orangeburg District, and probably soon after that date most of the family settled in Autauga County, Alabama and the vicinity, with their mother. The wife of (Sergt.) John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) was named Elizabeth and it is believed by descendants that her maiden name was Elizabeth Miller, in which case she may have been a daughter of Emanuel Miller and Mary Negley of Orangeburg District. This may be an explanation for the naming of their third son, Emanuel Golsan. In 1830, the widow, Elizabeth, aged between 50 and 60 years, was in Autauga County, and living with her was one of her sons between 20 and 30 years (probably Wyatt G. M. Golsan). Also in Autauga County were three other sons, Emanuel, Gasper and Charles (see appendix for schedules). Lewis Golsan, one of the elder sons, was still living in Orangeburg District in 1830, but he removed to Autauga County within a year or two from that date. In Orangeburg District in 1830 was Ann Golsan, widow of John Golsan, the eldest son of Sergt. John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) and Elizabeth (?Miller). At that time she was aged between 40 and 50 years. Elizabeth (?Miller) Golsan, the widow, died in Autauga County, Alabama on November 8, 1846 (death date in Gasper Golsan Bible). The 1790 census of Orangeburg District shows that Lewis Golsan, Jr. was living there with his wife and five children, three males and two females. Only ten children are definite, but there were likely about three others — either daughters or children that died young.

He was raised in Halifax County, where he was married on May 1, 1826, to Elizabeth Bowen (Elisha Bowen was bondsman). Joseph G. Gholson participated in the sale of his father's property in 1815 in Halifax County (see appendix). After his marriage he and his wife settled in Mecklenburg County, Virginia where they followed farming and were living in 1850 and where his children were born. Later he and his family settled in Warren County, North Carolina where they are found and listed in the 1860 and 1870 census records. Elizabeth Bowen Gholson was aged 60 years in 1870, and her birthplace was given as Halifax County, Virginia in the 1860 census. Joseph G. Gholson owned a large farm in Warren County where he followed farming, and where there are a number of deeds recorded, pertaining to his property transactions. He made his last will and testament in Warren County on September 19, 1862, and it was probated on June 2, 1873. He names seven children and his wife in his will, but another son, Abraham, is listed in the 1850 and 1860 census records who may have died during the Civil War. (There were probably other children that died young).

FAMILY OF (MAJOR) LEWIS GOLSAN AND ELIZABETH STEHLEY (STALEY)

Those who are descended from the Golsan (Golson) family of South Carolina will trace back to (Major) Lewis Golsan, who resided in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, where he is found by 1752 and where he passed his life away as a prominent citizen and planter.

(MAJOR) LEWIS GOLSAN, was born (according to descendants) in 1730. He was very likely born in America and was probably born in Virginia, though no proof has been found. It seems very likely that he could have been the eldest son of WILLIAM GHOLSON and SUSANNA COLLINS of Spotsylvania and Orange Counties in Virginia. This William Gholson was a son of Anthony Gholson, Sr. and Jane, his wife, also of Spotsylvania and Orange Counties. There are some evidences that members of this family may have been very early settlers in Virginia, as early as 1623, and it is very probable that there is a close relationship between the families in South Carolina and Virginia. Susanna Collins, wife of William Gholson, was a daughter of Joseph Collins and Susanna LEWIS of Spotsylvania County, which could account for the name LEWIS in the South Carolina family.

The pronunciation of the names, whether "GHOLSON" or "GOLSAN, GOLSON", is the same, and in many instances the South Carolina family has used the "Gholson" spelling, and the Virginia family the "Golson" spelling.

Lewis Golsan was prominent in the civil, religious and military affairs of Orangeburg District. He served as justice of the peace for many years, and represented his District in many affairs. He served with the rank of Major in the militia regiment of Orangeburg District before and during the Revolutionary War. He served as Captain in the Cherokee Indian War of 1759-60, under Col. John Chevilette. (References in South Carolina Historical Comm. Muster Rolls). The following are references in his life taken from Salley's History of Orangeburg County, which includes the Giessendanner Church Records:

Page 468: (The Local Militia): "Besides those who fought in the regular service, Orangeburgh District furnished many men to the militia branch of the service. In the early days of the war militia companies were formed in every section of the Colony. Their rolls were sent down to the Council of Safety by whom they were generally approved and their officers commissioned, and the companies assigned to regiments. "In 1775 the militia of the Province consisted of thirteen regiments, nearly every officer of which, and the large majority of the men of which, signed the Association.

"The Orangeburgh District regiment had William Thomson for its colonel, Christopher Rowe for its Lieutenant-colonel, and Lewis Golsan for its major."

The following are Stub Entries to Indents for Revolutionary Army Service Claims: The below stub entries are to (Major) Lewis Golsan:

Book Q, No. 111: "Issued the 9th of May 1785, to Mr. Lewis Golsan, for one hundred & eleven Pounds, 15 s, 11 d Stlg. for Provis's & Forage for Public use in 1781, Pr. Accot. audited Principal L 111,,15,,11. Annual Interest L 7,,16,, 6.

The early settlers and pioneers of the western districts of South Carolina endured many hardships. Mr. Hugh Clayton Culler in his history of "The Culler Family" refers to the lot entailed by those early pioneers of Orangeburgh District in the following quotation:

> "The early settlers of this section of South Carolina that later became Orangeburg District in 1768, had many trials and hardships to undergo, such as all settlers in a new and unbroken country have to contend with. The country was infested with wild beasts, birds and reptiles which were a constant menace both to the early settlers and their agricultural interests; savage Indians dwelt in their midst and occasionally gave them much trouble; and the seat of all government being at Charleston, no officers of the Law resided among these pioneers save the Rangers and a few justices of the peace."

(Major) Lewis Golsan was granted 400 acres of land in Orangeburg Township on Caw Caw Swamp on April 16, 1771, and on July 12, 1771 he was granted another 400 acres in the same area of Orangeburg Township. (Royal Grants, Volume 24, page 43.)

Lewis Golsan (quite certainly (Major) Lewis Golsan) was granted the following tracts of land at subsequent dates: 280 acres in Orangeburg on March 18, 1786; 910 acres on Oct. 25, 1786; 432 acres on Feb. 23, 1793 and 1000 acres on Oct. 10, 1793. (See Appendix for copy of the Land Grant made to Lewis Golsan, Sr., passed on Feb. 19, 1791 and surveyed on Sept. 13, 1793, for 1000 acres of land on Caw Caw Swamp in Orangeburgh District, South Carolina.)

The following appointment and commission from John Rutledge to (Major) Lewis Golsan, dated March 22, 1777, is taken from Miscellaneous Records Book A, page 22:

> "South Carolina
> "By his Excellency John Rutledge, Esquire, President and Commander-in-chief of the said State—
> "To Lewis Golson, Esquire, Greeting—
> "Know ye that by virtue of the power and authority invested by the Constitution or form of Government agreed to and resolved upon by the representations of South Carolina assembled in a Congress holden at Charles Town on the Twenty-Sixth day of March in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-Six.
> "I, with the advice and consent of the Privy Council have commissioned, constituted, and appointed, and by these presents do commission, constitute, and appoint you, the said Lewis Golson, to be Coroner for Orangeburgh District or Precinct. To have, hold, exercise and enjoy the said office of Coroner together with all rights, privileges, profits and emoluments to the said office belonging or in any wise appertaining.
> "Given under my hand and seal at Chs. Town this 22nd March in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-Seven.

(See sketch of Major Lewis Golsan by Mr. T. H. Dreher, in Appendix.)

(MAJOR) LEWIS GOLSAN was married in Orangeburg Church (see record above)on December 19, 1752, to ELIZABETH STEHELY (STALEY). Elizabeth Stehely was a daughter of one given as "MARY STEHELY, SENR." in the Giessendanner Church Records, who was a widow. The name of her deceased husband does not seem to be known, but it would appear from the records that the following were her children: John Stehely; Peter Stehely; Christopher Stehely who was married on February 23, 1752, to Mrs. Elizabeth Schwarz; Elizabeth Stehely, wife of (Major) Lewis Golsan; and Mary Stehely, who was married on the same day as Lewis Golsan and Elizabeth Stehely were married, December 19, 1752, to Casper Ott.

(Major) Lewis Golsan and Elizabeth Stehely (Staley) had at least four children, but there may have been others. The 1790 Census of Orangeburg District shows three families of Golsans living in the District at that time:

"HEAD OF FAMILY	FREE WHITE MALES OVER 16 INCLUDING HEAD	FREE WHITE MALES UNDER 16 IN FAMILY	NUMBER OF FEMALES BEING FREE IN FAMILY	NUMBER OF SLAVES
GOLSON, LEWIS, SR.	1	—	3	21
GOLSON, LEWIS, JR.	1	3	3	1

The above information indicates that (Major) Lewis Golsan lived in comfortable circumstances, having twenty-one slaves, and he owned large tracts of land. His death date has been given by members of the family as in 1779. In view of other information about him after that date and the fact that he is listed as the head of a family in 1790 would indicate that he was still alive in 1790, and the land grant of 1000 acres to Lewis Golsan, Sr. in 1793 would make it appear that his death occurred after 1793, but before 1800. Of his children, descendants say that one of his daughters married a member of the Robinson family of Orangeburg District and that another daughter married John Rumph of the District. The birth records of his two sons are given in the Giessendanner Church Records (above).

FAMILY OF WILLIAM GHOLSON , SR. AND SUSANNA COLLINS

WILLIAM GHOLSON, son of Anthony Gholson, Sr. and Jane . . . . . , his wife, was quite likely born in Virginia. He resided generally in Spotsylvania County, Virginia during his life, but owned property in both Spotsylvania and Orange Counties and had transactions in Orange County. He was possibly 21 years of age or more on September 28, 1728, when he was granted 500 acres of land in a royal grant from King George the 2nd. This land was located on Terry's Run in Spotsylvania County. His brother, Anthony Gholson, Jr., was granted a similar 500 acres, and his father Anthony Gholson, Sr., was granted 1000 acres on the same date in the same locality. The surnames are spelled differently in various records.

There are quite a number of land transactions recorded in Spotsylvania and Orange Counties showing purchases and disposals of property between 1749 and 1786 to which William Gholson, Sr. and his wives were parties. The mark with which he signed his name was distinctive and identified him from any others, and clearly shows him with his two wives. The records, however, are insufficient to establish a complete account of his life and of his family. The marriage records of Spotsylvania County are not complete enough to account for any of the daughters which he possibly had.

William Gholson, Sr. married the first time to Susanna Collins, a daughter of Joseph Collins (who was a Captain in the Spotsylvania Militia in 1750) and of his wife, Susanna Lewis. The Last Will and Testament of Joseph Collins in 1757 in Spotsylvania County verifies this marriage. Susanna Collins Gholson lived until 1775 or later. By 1786 she was deceased and on December 5, 1786 William Gholson, Sr. (spelled Golson in this transaction) and his wife, Joan Golson sold 80 acres of land in Spotsylvania County on which Thomas Perry was then residing to Robert Smith of the same county. Though she is recorded in that one deed (which she did not sign) as "Joan Golsan" she could easily have been the same as Jane Gholson (Gholston) whose inventory of her estate (after her decease) was made in Spotsylvania County on February 28, 1797, with John Greenhorn, administrator. Her name before her marriage to William Gholson, Sr. may have been Jane Perry (or Joan Perry).

Some have thought that the Jane Gholson, whose inventory was made on February 28, 1797, was the aged widow of Anthony Gholson, Sr. This is not likely, since Anthony Gholson, Sr.'s widow had property, which, though deeded to her son John, could not be disposed of by John until after the death of Jane Gholson, his mother, the widow of Anthony Gholson, Sr.

William Gholson, Sr. probably died in Spotsylvania County. He and his wife, Susanna Collins Gholson must have left a large family. For the posterity of this couple see also the volume "GHOLSON and Allied Families" by Virginia Baker Mitchell. Little effort will be made in this volume to show the descendants of William Gholson, Sr. , excepting in cases where new information can be added. The names of six sons of this couple are known, and seven of them, if Major Lewis Golsan, of Orangeburg County, South Carolina, was the eldest. There must have been daughters, whose names have not as yet been discovered in the records. It is hoped that new information may later be found.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM GHOLSON, SR. AND SUSANNA COLLINS

1. ?(MAJOR) LEWIS GOLSAN,* born 1730, probably in Virginia; married December 19, 1752, Elizabeth Stehely (Staley). (There is nothing definite about this connection—just a possibility.)

3. FREDERICK GHOLSON, of Spotsylvania County, Virginia. He served in the Virginia Militia during the American Revolution. Frederick may have been related to Daniel Simpson of Spotsylvania County. (See deed in appendix.)
4. JOHN GHOLSON, of Spotsylvana County, Virginia. Served as an officer in Indian Wars. It is said that he settled in Scott County, Kentucky. He may have settled in North Carolina and may have been father of William and Captain Charles Golston of Chatham County, North Carolina.
5. FRANCIS GHOLSON,* of Spotsylvania County, Virginia; served in the French and Indian Wars; settled in Scott County, Kentucky; married about 1783, Mary Craig, daughter of Toliver Craig, Jr. and Elizabeth Johnson. 6. JAMES GHOLSON, of Spotsylvania County, Virginia; settled in Scott County, Kentucky.
7. FAMILY OF WILLIAM GOLDSTON AND SARAH , HIS WIFE

WILLIAM GOLDSTON, son of one, John Goldston (or Gholson), according to descendants, was living in Chatham County, North Carolina by 1780 or earlier, and gave services during the Revolutionary War. He was a brother of (Capt.) Charles Goldston, also of Chatham County. His father, if John Goldston, was probably the John Goldston or Gholson, who was a son of William Gholson, Sr. and Susanna Collins. William Goldston was granted large tracts of land in Chatham County on March 31, 1780: two 400 acre tracts and one 640 acre tract, and he received other grants of land under date of October 9, 1783. There are a number of deeds recorded in Chatham County and Randolph County to which he was a party. One of these was dated August 5, 1785, from William Goldston to William Moody, and was witnessed by Charles Goldston. A deed from William Goldston to Thomas Rives (of Mecklenburg County, Virginia) dated January 30, 1796, is also signed by Sarah Goldston, wife of William Goldston. Mention is made of William Goldston in a letter to Col. David Fanning in 1782 (State Records Volumes 16 and 22). indicating an interest for the inhabitants of Chatham during the Revolution. William Goldston made his last Will and Testament in Chatham County on March 21, 1808, and on that same date, he deeded property in Randolph County to his son, Thomas Goldston, of that county. The Will was probated in May 1808 (see appendix), indicating that William Goldston died between March and May, 1808. He had at least seven children, mentioned in the will, four of which were minors, under age. It would appear that he had a family of older children, and a family of smaller children at the time of his decease, and there may have been other children, whose names are unknown. (See the wills of Elizabeth Ramsey Goldston and Elizabeth Burchard in the Appendix for other descendants.)

William S. FAMILY OF (JUDGE) WILLIAM YATES GHOLSON AND HIS WIVES ANN JANE TAYLOR AND ELVIRA WRIGHT

(JUDGE) WILLIAM YATES GHOLSON, son of Thomas Gholson and Ann Yates, was born in Southampton County, Virginia, December 25, 1807. He was raised in Virginia and educated in the schools there and graduated from Nassau Hall (Princeton University) and subsequently studied law under Chancellor Creed Taylor, near Farmville, Virginia. At the age of twenty years, December 25, 1827, at Needham, Virginia, he was married the first time to Anne Jane Taylor, who was born November 12, 1805 in Virginia, a daughter of Samuel Taylor and Martha Woodson, and a niece of Chancellor Creed Taylor. She died on December 20, 1831 at Needham, Virginia. He settled on his plantation in Brunswick County near Gholsonville. Three years after the death his first wife he removed to Pontotoc, Mississippi, and was admitted to the bar, and readily became an outstanding lawyer. He was one of the founders of the University of Mississippi and was one of its early trustees. He was married the second time on May 21, 1839, to Elvira Wright, daughter of (Judge) Daniel W. Wright and Martha Patrick. Her father was at one time judge of the Mississippi Supreme Court.

William Yates Gholson moved to Cincinnati, Ohio in 1844, at which time he freed his own slaves. At Cincinnati he opened a law office and was soon afterwards appointed city solicitor. He was in partnership with James P. Holcombe for awhile. In May 1854, when the new superior court of Cincinnati was organized, he was elected as one of the three jurists to occupy its bench. At the time he was considered one of the best lawyers in the State of Ohio. In this new position he had an opportunity to demonstrate his abilities and to use the great mind which was his, and to express the high ideals which were so much a part of his thinking and of his life. He was completely a man of dignity and courteous bearing. After five years of service in the Superior Court of Cincinnati, he was appointed by the governor, on November 8, 1859, to fill an unexpired term as justice of the supreme court of Ohio. He was afterwards elected for a full term, but failing health compelled him to resign on December 1, 1863, and he returned to his practice of law. He proved himself to be a man of great intellectual power, and possessed gifts which made him superior in his field. During his later years he was the author of several volumes, or assisted with the compiling of them: "Digest of the Ohio Reports (1867)" and "A Compendium of Mercantile Law, by J. W. Smith" was edited by him in several editions. (Judge) William Yates Gholson died on September 1, 1870. His widow, Elvira Wright Gholson died October 19, 1885, both at Cincinnati, Ohio.

FAMLY OF WYATT G. M. GOLSAN AND MARTHA KNIGHT

WYATT G. M. GOLSAN, son of (Sergt.) John Lewis Golsan (Lewis Golsan, Jr.) and Elizabeth (?Miller), was born in Orangeburg District, South Carolina, in 1805-6. He was probably the son (between the ages of 20 and 30 years) who was living with his mother Elizabeth Golsan in Autauga County, Alabama in 1830. In 1850 he was a planter and operated a farm in Macon County, Alabama (his age at that time was given as 43 or perhaps 45). The name of his wife was Martha M. Knight. She was aged 30 years in 1850 and was born in the State of Georgia. (Relatives say that he married a wife by the surname of Knight). In 1860 he was operating a large farm in Pike County, Alabama and his wife was given as Melinda at that time, aged 35 years, born in Georgia. His age in 1860 was given as 54 years. The names of six children are given in a combination of the two census schedules. In 1870 he was living alone and was residing in Autauga County and his age given at that date was 65 years. Evidently his brother Emanuel Golsan named one of his sons (Judge Wyatt George Mallard Golsan) after this man.

FAMILY OF (DR.) WYATT WASHINGTON GOLSAN AND MELINDA WELCH PEEBLES

(DR.) WYATT WASHINGTON GOLSAN, son of Gasper Golsan and Ann Baxter Pou, was born in Autauga County, Alabama, November 3, 1832. He was reared to manhood in the vicinity of Autaugaville on his father's plantation and attended the schools of the county and prepared himself for a higher education. He attended the Medical College of South Carolina at Charleston, from which he graduated on March 4, 1854. He chose "Catamenia" as the subject of his graduating thesis. Dr. Golsan was a member of the committee selected from the senior class which met on March 9, 1854, to draw up a letter expressing the appreciation of the class toward those of the faculty who had "so satisfactorily recapitulated the lectures delivered to the class," a copy of which appears in the catologue for the session 1853-54. Dr. Wyatt W. Golsan's preceptor was his older brother, Dr. John Wesley Golsan, of Autaugaville.

After his graduation, Dr. Wyatt W. Golsan settled in Autauga County, near Autaugaville, where he owned a plantation on which he raised a large family. He practiced his profession in Autauga County and vicinity. He was capable in his profession and served his patients day and night, whenever he was called, and he was well known throughout the county and in the neighboring counties for his ability as a physician. As a member of the Autauga County Medical Association, he served the same as Vice President for a number of years (see appendix), and Dr. Golsan was also President of the Autauga County Agricultural Society for several years, and took a prominent part in furthering the agricultural interests of the County. An address which was delivered by him to the Society at Independence, Alabama in 1884, was published in the "Southern Signal" on Friday, July 4, 1884 (see appendix).

Dr. Wyatt Washington Golsan was esteemed highly by all who knew him, and his friends were many. He was married in Lowndes County, Alabama, on March 12, 1857, by (Rev.) P. H. Lundy, to Miss Melinda Welch Peebles, who was born in Lowndes County, December 5, 1839, a daughter of (Rev.) Dr. David Peebles, Jr. and Mary Gibson Mallory. Her father was a prominent physician, and was a Missionary Baptist Minister in Alabama and Texas during many years of his life. Her mother was from a distinguished Virginia family, a daughter of Uriel Mallory, Jr. and Melinda Welch (see her ancestry, which follows this sketch). Melinda Welch Peebles Golsan had attended the schools of Lowndes County and afterward graduated from Judson College in Alabama. She was an accomplished pianist. Dr. Golsan and his wife were religiously inclined and in 1896 they became interested in the doctrines and principles of the Gospel as taught by missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints ("Mormons") who were laboring in Alabama. After some careful investigation, they and most of the members of their family were baptized into this Church. Dr. Golsan and his wife were baptized on December 29, 1896, and their children subsequently were nearly all baptized. Elder W. E. Jenkins performed the baptisms for the first converts of the family. Dr. Golsan entertained the missionaries in his home constantly until the time of his death, and remained a staunch and faithful member of the Church. He was ordained a Priest in the Church on March 6, 1898, and later was ordained to the office of Elder.

In 1902, Dr. Wyatt W. Golsan and his wife, with several members of their family, made a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, where they visited the Mormon Temple, attended conferences of the Church, etc. They returned to their home in Autauga County in 1903, and remained there until they died, he on April 13, 1905, and she in July, 1909, and they were buried in Autauga County. As mentioned previously, Dr. Golsan was keenly interested in his profession and patented a number of medicines which he developed through his own chemistry. He became blind during the last part of his life from the strain attributed to his studies.

Note: It has been told by children of Dr. Wyatt W. Golsan, but not verified, that Dr. Golsan had correspondence with Queen Victoria of Great Britain because of his medical knowledge, and that he sent prescriptions to England that were used during an epidemic over there. One of his descendants possesses a medal which, according to present tradition was given to him by Queen Victoria. This story may or may not be true. Most of the papers and letters of Dr. Golsan were destroyed in a fire which destroyed many priceless items. — J.M.B.

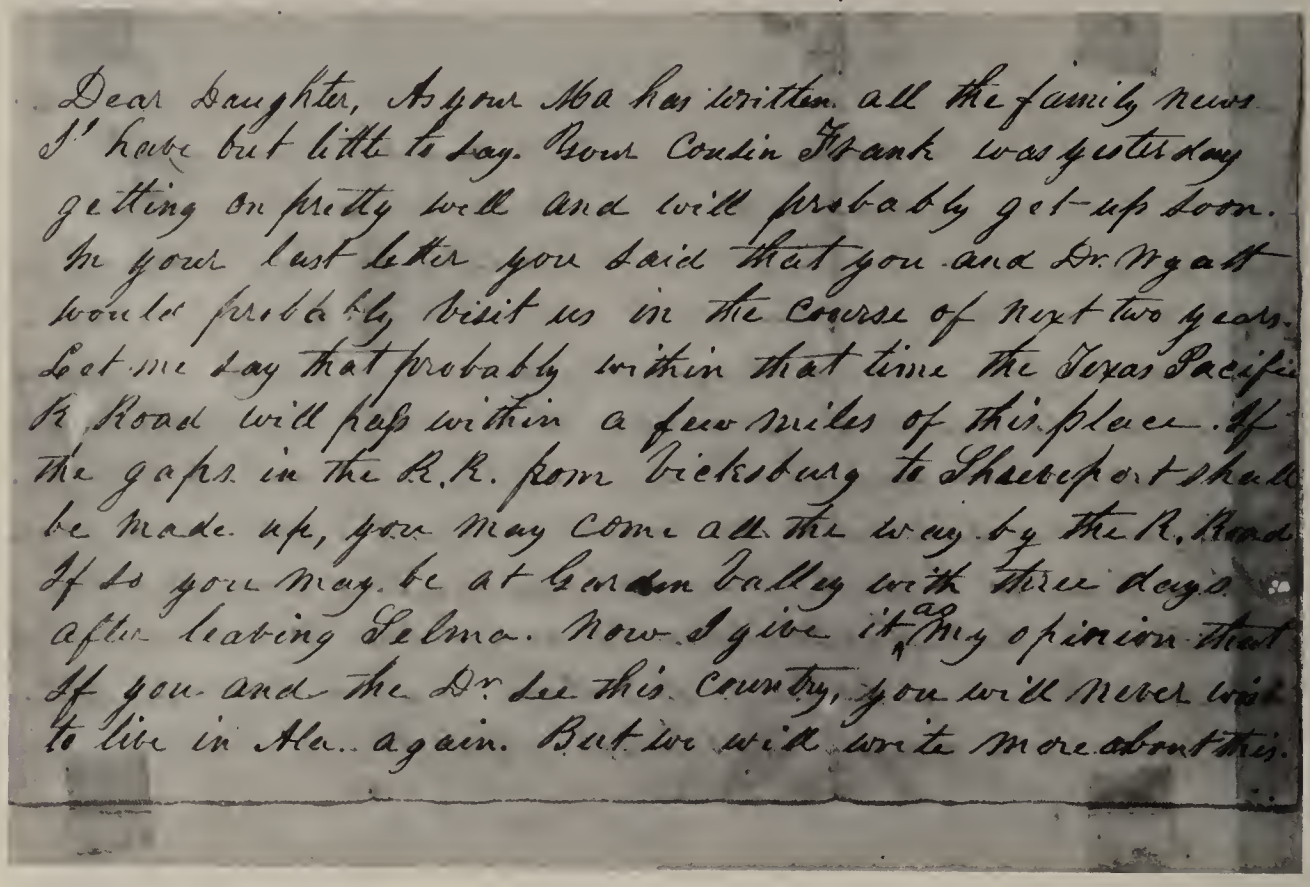
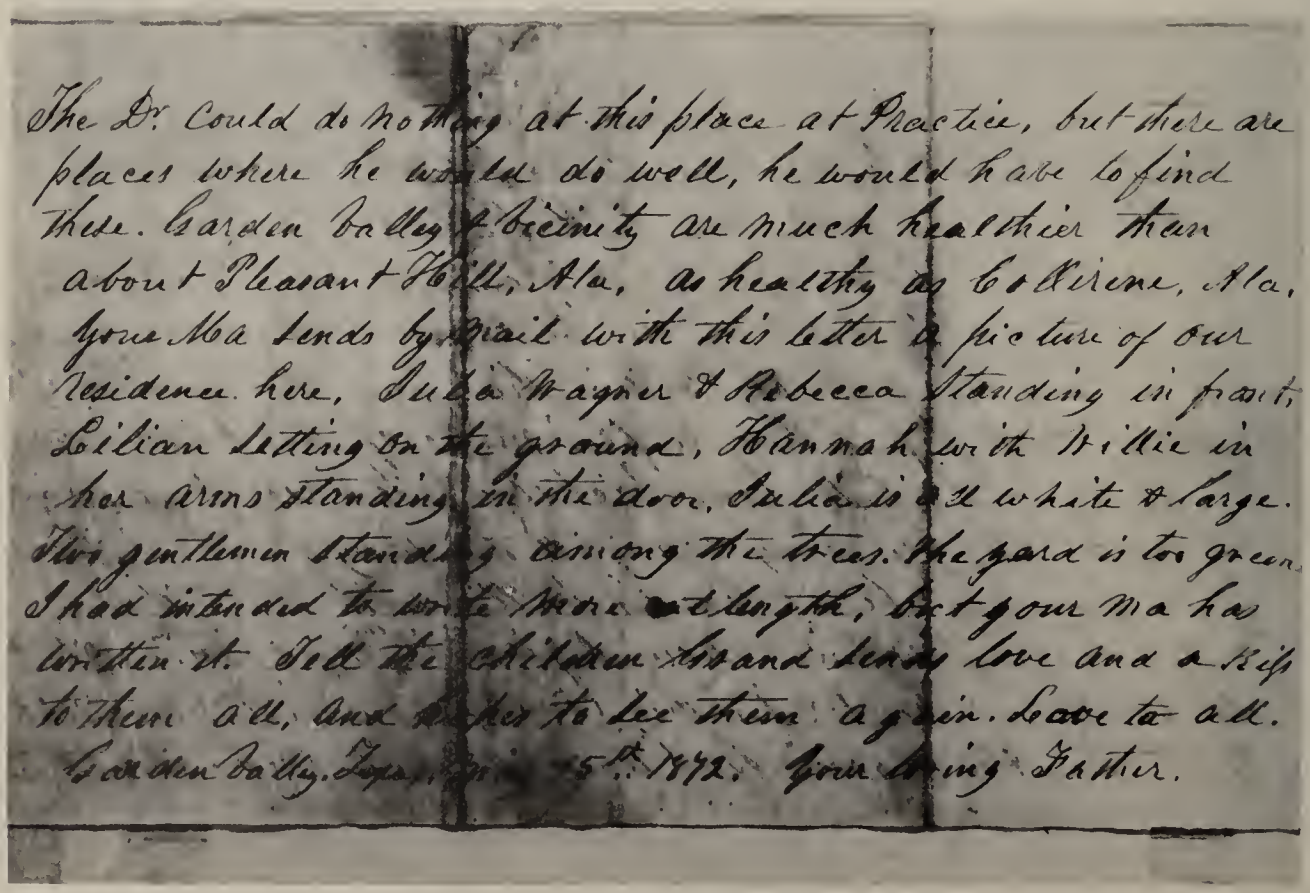
A letter written by Dr. David Peebles, Jr. to his daughter Melinda Welch Peebles, wife of Dr. Wyatt Washington Golsan. Dated May 15, 1872.



Dear Daughter, As your Ma has written all the family news I have but little to say. Your Cousin Frank was yesterday getting on pretty well and will probably get up soon. In your last letter you said that you and Dr. Wyatt would probably visit us in the course of next two years. Let me say that probably within that time the Texas Pacific R. Road will pass within a few miles of this place. If the gaps in the R.R. from Vicksburg to Shreveport shall be made up, you may come all the way by the R. Road. If so you may be at Garden Valley with three days after leaving Selma. Now I give it as my opinion that if you and the Dr. see this country, you will never wish to live in Ala. again. But we will write more about this.



The Dr. could do nothing at this place at Practice, but there are places where he would do well, he would have to find these. Garden Valley & vicinity are much healthier than about Pleasant Hill, Ala, as healthy as Collirene, Ala. Your Ma sends by mail with this letter a picture of our residence here, Julia Wagner & Rebecca standing in front, Lilian setting on the ground, Hannah with Willie in her arms standing in the door, Julia is all white & large. Two gentlemen standing among the trees. The yard is too green. I had intended to write more at length, but your ma has written it. Tell the children to and send love and a kiss to them all, and [illegible] to see them again. Love to all.
Garden Valley, Texas, May 15th 1872. Your loving Father.

A box probably carved from wood and covered with bark, that was possessed by Melinda W. Peebles Golsan, and likely handed down from earlier days. A jewel was set in the top of the box originally. It may have been a jewel box.

FAMILY OF ZACHARIAH GHOLSTON AND NANCY GILBERT

ZACHARIAH GHOLSTON, son of Dabney Gholston and Elizabeth Pulliam, was born in Wilkes County, Georgia, about 1790. He was aged 59 years in 1850, in DeKalb County, Georgia, and his brother, Benjamin, was aged 58 years in Gwinnett County. Zachariah Gholston inherited a legacy in 1798 from his grandfather, John Pulliam, Sr., of Abbeville County, South Carolina, whose Will was dated May 2, 1798 (See Appendix). Dabney Gholston was appointed guardian over his three older children in regard to the legacy from John Pulliam, Sr.

Zachariah Gholston was a large property owner and had many slaves. His plantation was located in the present DeKalb County, Georgia, but he had resided in Madison and Gwinnett Counties. The family estimates that he owned 3,000 acres of land and that he owned more than 100 slaves. He represented Madison County in the Georgia Assembly from 1820 to 1826, and represented Gwinnett County from 1830 to 1834. His residence in DeKalb County was near Decatur (a suburb of Atlanta, now incorporated as Avondale).

On Nov. 22, 1816 Zachariah Gholston was married to Nancy Gilbert, of Madison County, Georgia, who was born in 1802, a daughter of John Gilbert and Mary Strickland. The Gilbert family moved from North Carolina to Franklin County, Georgia in 1769. Family history asserts that John Gilbert returned to North Carolina before the Revolution, where he was married before the age of 21 years. This first wife died without leaving children—none that are known to the family in Georgia. He served in the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War (See Georgia Roster of Revolutionary Soldiers, pages 336 and 341) and drew in the land lottery. After the Revolution he settled again in Georgia, about 1782 or 1783, to care for his mother, a fact that is brought out in his Will which he made in 1803, during the illness from which he recovered, his mother then living with him. He made provision for her comfort and maintenance, but she died before he. John Gilbert owned much land in original Franklin County, but as the counties were divided his land extended into the new counties. However, his residence remained in Franklin County, where he died, but his descendants are scattered in a number of counties in Georgia. The children of John Gilbert and Mary Strickland were: 1. James Gilbert, who married a Miss Eberhardt in 1811; 2. William Gilbert, who married his cousin, Priscilla Gilbert; 3. John Gilbert, who died without children in 1832; 4. Elizabeth Gilbert who married a Mr. Kinnings; 5. Nancy Gilbert, born 1802, married Zachariah Gholston in 1816. John Gilbert and Mary Strickland were married on December 1, 1787, and he died after 1818. The Gilbert line, according to the family, has been traced back to a Sir Humphrey Gilbert of Great Britain.

Mary Strickland was a daughter of Jacob Strickland of Franklin County, Georgia, who married a widow, Fathie Myers. He had lived in Guilford County, North Carolina, but settled on Rocky Comfort Creek in Franklin County, Georgia, where he died in 1804, leaving a will. His father was Jacob Strickland of Nash County, North Carolina, whose will was proved in 1790, and this latter Jacob Strickland was a son of Matthew Strickland, Jr., who lived and died in Isle of Wight County, Virginia. Matthew Strickland, Sr., father of Matthew Strickland, Jr., married Elizabeth Loreen of Liverpool, England, and settled in Maryland in 1679 (Ray Research, Volume 31, pages 16-17).

Nancy Gilbert Gholston died in 1846 and Zachariah Gholston died in 1854. Both were buried in the old family cemetery on their plantation. They had nine children. A descendant of Zachariah Gholston was one, EMMA JOHNSON, likely a granddaughter, and probably a daughter of either Emeline or Ellen, who were children of Zachariah. Emma Johnson was married to a Mr. Johnson, and they settled in Phoenix, Arizona, where Emma Johnson died several years ago. Her daughters were Essie Johnson Edwards and Nell Johnson Etheridge. She had a son, Harry Johnson, who resided at Fresno, California, and she had another son, Dr. James Louis Johnson, who is presently a physician at Phoenix, Arizona and resides at 5715 Exeter Boulevard in Phoenix, Arizona in 1957.

Another descendant of Zachariah Gholston is believed to be Miss Daisy Allen of 304 East Eighth Street, Rome, Georgia.

FAMILY OF (DR.) CLARENCE EDWARD HUTCHINSON AND MARGUERITE SKINNER

(DR.) CLARENCE EDWARD HUTCHINSON, son of Samuel Bush Hutchinson and Eula Capele Pou, was born January 17, 1882, at Pensacola, Florida. He was raised in Pensacola, where he graduated from the Pensacola High School in 1898, and from Southern University at Greensboro, Alabama in 1902. He belonged to the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He then attended Tulane University in the School of Medicine from which he graduated at New Orleans with his M. D. degree in 1905, at the age of 23 years. He received a post graduate course in Surgery in Austria. During World War I he was a Naval Officer and was in charge of the United States Naval Hospital at Pensacola, Florida. He had served his internship at Charity Hospital and Touro Infirmary, and was appointed House Surgeon at Touro after a competitive examination, and later he served as Superintendent of that hospital—at the time he was the youngest superintendent of a hospital in the United States. He spent several months abroad working under Dr. Lorenzo in Vienna and also at the Chelsea Hospital in London. After returning to Pensacola he opened the Pensacola Sanitorium toward the end of 1908. He had played an important part in the Yellow Fever Epidemic in New Orleans in 1905, as the following two letters from (Dr.) Clarence E. Hutchinson at New Orleans to his sister, Miss Eulalie Hutchinson, at Pensacola, will testify:

New Orleans, Sept. 8th, 1905

My Dear Sis:

Another week finds us all well and still escaping the fever. We were talking today at the dinner table and remarked how extra-ordinary it would be for all of us to pass through the epidemic without one of us falling out. So far not a single case has developed in the hospital and not a day passes without our coming in direct contact and handling yellow fever cases. Isn't this a striking proof of the mosquito theory? Still our record of not losing a case stands and all of our new recent cases are doing finely. We have so far treated seven of the marine hospital doctors.

Things in Pensacola are lively. Uncle Terrill sent me a letter from Uncle Argus telling all about the onset and scare. We are beginning to feel and act down here just as if an ordinary epidemic of measles, etc., were among us instead of yellow fever. Yellow Jack is not what it used to be and I prophesy this to be the last epidemic in America. There may be a few imported cases but it will never gain a foot-hold.

New Orleans will be practically rebuilt, in fact the process is well under way. At present there are 13,688 blocks in the city whose gutters do not drain and are stagnant. Its a wonder the whole city has not died out before. I saw an announcement of Nell Robert's marriage in the paper. I wrote her today. There is absolutely no news. How I wish I were in Pensacola to help the fight there. I believe I could be of much service after my experience here. They certainly ought to be able to handle it there very easily. Just think of the difference between N. O. and Pensacola.

Remember me with love to all the folks. May you all keep well. I am then,

As Ever
Brother"

New Orleans, April 18, 1907

My Dear Sis:

In the great rush of work that followed my appointment, I found no time in which to tell you the important news. But you heard it just the same and I'm so glad that you join hearing in my success. It is the proudest moment of my life.

The most gratifying thing of all to me is to know I won it in every sense of the word "win"—no pull. No politics has entered into it—nothing but these hard days in and days out that has put me where I am. A little less than two years ago I walked into Touro Infirmary to take the competitive examination. That day I didn't know a soul connected with the institution—not even the clerk, nor a single doctor.

One year later they made me senior house officer and today they have given me the highest honor in their power.

When the matter was first brought before me, I asked for a month to consider. I had planned to go to Pensacola and see you all. But my plans were changed and I was asked to take charge at once. They forced Mr. Ellis to resign. Since last Wednesday I have checked over $10,000.00 of accounts and am just beginning to see daylight.

Now I will tell you the conditions upon which I accepted the position—this is strictly confidential.

My proposition is to take over the management for 3 or 4 months on trial. If at the end of that time I am satisfied I will enter into a contract for one year. No contract between us shall be made or be binding over one year and each year that I should stay. A new contract must be brought up.

My salary for the months of trial shall be $150.00 per month and all expenses. They shall furnish me for the time a bed-room, a parlor and a private bath for my apartments. Each year that I should remain, my salary shall be raised $500.00 a year and they agree to furnish everything—even laundry.

My medical work goes on uninterrupted and the wards are open to me to do such work as I see fit.

It looked too good to turn down— it is one chance in a thousand. All my friends seem to join me in my success. I have gotten dozens of telegrams and letters in the last few days. I surely do appreciate it. So many of my old class mates have sent me beautiful letters.

Early in the summer I shall take a vacation and then we can talk over the details of these things better. There are lots of things I want to talk over. For instance, How would you like to come to N. O. to live?

But for the time being we will just let things go along as they are and see how they run.

I want to thank all my Pensacola friends and relatives who seem so interested in me. By the way, the "Picayune" Society Column gave me a very pretty write-up. I have only one copy and want to keep it so will reproduce it for you—

"Dr. Hutchinson's Recent Appointment"

"That the Touro Infirmary should call Dr. Clarence Hutchinson to guide this great institution in its enormous work, is a glowing virtue to the energy, ability and untiring application of this young physician.

A little less than two years ago, after having won the competitive examination for Asst. House Surgeon, Dr. Hutchinson "entered upon his service in the Touro as a complete stranger.

A few days later the Yellow Fever of 1905 began and his original investigations of the Mosquito transmission of the disease attracted considerable attention in Medical Circles.

Since then his path has been marked by continued promotions. He was Senior House Officer at the time of being elected superintendent.

The Touro Infirmary in its new $500,000.00 home stands among the foremost hospitals of the country. With its 200 beds, it caters to all classes, about half its capacity being devoted to charity work and the suites of its private department fill every wish of the millionaire. Its clinics treat nearly 3,000 patients a month.

Dr. Hutchinson has always been popular and prominent in the social world and his host of friends are congratulating him on being, beyond a doubt the youngest Hospital Superintendent in the U. S. today."

I appreciated this so much you may have it republished in the Journal's Society column if you wish.

Well I must say goodbye for this time. Believe me.

'BROTHER' "

(Dr.) Clarence E. Hutchinson afterwards practiced his profession in Pensacola, and was considered the outstanding surgeon in the South. He was married on September 2, 1909, to Marguerite Skinner, daughter of Ebenezer Hubbard Skinner, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin and Marguerite Osthaus, of Hildesheim, Germany, by whom he had three daughters. He died at Ocean Springs (Gulf Hills), Mississippi on April 24, 1932, and was buried in St. John's Cemetery at Pensacola.

FAMILY OF REESE HOWELL McKINNEY AND NANCY EUGENIA WHITE

NANCY EUGENIA WHITE, daughter of Joseph Rankin White and Harriet Gholston, was born March 10, 1844 in Alabama. Her birth date is given as March 10, 1841 on her tombstone, but this is probably an error as to the year. In the 1850 census of Talladega County, Alabama she is listed with her parents as a child aged seven years and her birthplace is given as Alabama being the first child of the family born in Alabama—the older children having been born in Georgia. She was raised in Talladega County (and perhaps other sections of the state), where she was married about 1865 to Reese Howell McKinney, who was born in 1835 in Lincoln County, Tennessee, a son of Charles McKinney, born 1801 in North Carolina, died before 1895, and of Elizabeth Howell a daughter of Reese Howell and Martha Collins. His parents were pioneers to Talladega County, Alabama from Lincoln County, Tennessee. Reese Howell McKinney and his wife resided at Howell's Cove in Talladega County where they raised ten children. He died in Talladega County in 1918, and she had died in the same county on October 22, 1900. During the Civil War, Reese Howell McKinney served in Company H, 25th Alabama Infantry in the Confederate States Army.

FAMILY OF ANGUS MURPHY McMILLAN AND MATTIE EMMA POU

MATTIE EMMA POU, daughter of Francis Gavin Pou and Eliza Emma Robinson, was born at Autaugaville, Autauga County, Alabama, September 6, 1869. She was raised in Pensacola, Florida. On December 12, 1888, she was married to Angus Murphy McMillan, who was born in Santa Rosa County, Florida in 1864, a son of Neil Cuyler McMillan and Catherine Murphy Salter, of Santa Rosa County, Florida. Angus Murphy McMillan was a prominent citizen and civic leader of Escambia County, Florida. His grandfather, Duncan McMillan, came to America in 1785. His parents lived in a hospitable home on the banks of the Escambia River, opposite Bluff Springs in Escambia County. After the reverses of the Civil War they moved to Milton. Angus Murphy McMillan received his education at Milton in the public schools. He settled in Pensacola in 1879 as a boy and was first employed as a clerk in the firm of Frater and Monroe, and later established himself with the firm of Frater and Roberts. Subsequently he was associated with J. A. Hall and N. C. McMillan in the drygoods business. In 1892 he was elected Tax Assessor; he was re-elected in 1894 to serve in the same capacity. In 1896, one of the youngest men ever to hold this position, he was elected as Clerk of the Circuit Court. He held this important position with much credit and at the time of his death in 1919, he was Clerk of the Court of Record, also a most responsible office. Angus McMillan not only inspired confidence, but won a devotion from his friends that laid upon him civic responsibilities which he never failed to discharge in the social, as well as in business and public life. He had the gift of oratory added to his courteous bearing and affable manner, and was one of the best known public speakers of his time. Of his substance he gave generously and freely, and churches, schools and public buildings and enterprises obtained his support as readily as did the many charities to which he contributed with a free hand. A man of much business ability as well as having great administrative genius, in taking over the office as Clerk of the Circuit Court, he at once installed a modern system of records, making reports and documents dating back to territorial days of 1822 as easily accessible as those of his own day. His large business interests, his connection with public enterprises, and his natural inclination towards progress made him a strong advocate for all kinds af city and county development, where this was within the means of the people, and he was one of the first promoters of a road to Magnolia Bluff, which today has culminated in a great scenic highway, one of the most beautiful in the country. The life of Angus M. McMillan was so intimately connected with every movement for progress of his section of the State, that it would be impossible to write the history of Escambia County, and not include him. He was a devout member of the First Methodist Church of Pensacola. He served as Sunday School Superintendent and as steward and trustee in an official capacity. He represented his church in every one of her councils from the local church to the General Conference. He was largely instrumental in organizing the Pensacola City Mission, out of which came the Gadsen Street Methodist Church, which became one of the best in the city. He served as secretary and treasurer of the building committee in the building of the new Palafox Methodist church, now the First Methodist Church. His death was on March 6, 1919, at Pensacola, and his wife died November 19, 1934. They had six children.

FAMILY OF (REV.) EDWARD H. MOORE AND CAROLINE GOLSAN

CAROLINE GOLSAN, daughter of Emanuel Golsan and Catherine Stoudenmire, was born about 1818-19. She was married in Autauga County, Alabama, February 11, 1836, to (Rev.) Edward H. Moore, who was born August 20, 1810, in Oglethorpe County, Georgia. He was licensed to preach by the Tuscaloosa Circuit Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Church, South, and became a charter member of the Alabama Conference in 1832, and was assigned to the Alabama Circuit along the Alabama River. He was assigned to Centreville in 1833, to Washington (then a thriving town in Autauga County) in 1834, to Talladega in 1835, and back to Centreville in 1839. In 1837 he was assigned to Marengo Circuit in Marengo County, and in 1838 to Carrollton. In 1840 he settled in Autauga County more permanently, where he followed planting and evidently continued as a Methodist Minister. His marriage was performed by (Rev.) Greenbury Garrett, one of the prominent early Methodist Ministers of the vicinity. Five children are known, but there may have been others that died young, or that do not appear in the records. Relatives say that this family settled in Arkansas.

Of Barnwell, Alberta, Canada.

FAMILY OF BISHOP LAWRENCE PETER PETERSON AND MINNIE BELLE GOLSAN

MINNIE BELLE GOLSAN, daughter of Lewis Englebert Golsan and Margaret Emma Cox, was born January 15, 1880, at Autaugaville, Autauga County, Alabama. She was reared on her father's farm near Autaugaville and was educated in Autauga County. In 1897 her father's family was converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and Minnie Belle Golsan was baptized a member of the Church on February 2, 1897. She fell in love with one of the Missionaries who was laboring in Alabama, Elder Lawrence Peter Peterson, of Provo, Utah. Later, on December 22, 1899, they were married in the Salt Lake Temple in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Elder Lawrence Peter Peterson was born at Provo, Utah, on April 12, 1873, a son of Anders Peterson and Eliza Margaret Krough. He had been baptized a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on May 13, 1882, and thereafter from 1891 until 1893 was advanced in the Aaronic Priesthood, and on November 5, 1893, he was ordained an Elder in the Priesthood. He was ordained a Seventy on September 11, 1896, at which time he was also set apart for a mission to the Southern States by Apostle Heber J. Grant. He served as a missionary in the Southern States Mission for two and one-half years, working in the South Alabama Conference, where he completed a very successful mission. He attended the schools at Provo, Utah, and after his marriage he resided at Provo until 1902. In 1902, Lawrence Peterson and his family, and his brothers and sisters and their families decided to migrate to Canada, as they had heard glowing reports of rich land which could be attained by merely homesteading upon it. They settled first at Raymond in the Province of Alberta, and then filed for a homestead at Barnwell. As it was necessary to spend six months of each year on their homestead, the families spent their summer months at Barnwell and their winter months at Raymond. In December, 1908, the children of Lawrence P. Peterson and Minnie Belle Golsan Peterson contracted measles and in a weakened condition from nursing the children through the illness, Minnie Belle Golsan Peterson was stricken with the disease and complications set in and she passed away on December 9, 1908, leaving four small children (two others had died as infants). After the death of his first wife, Lawrence P. Peterson remarried on December 22, 1909, in the Salt Lake Temple, to Lucy Aspinwall.

Lawrence Peter Peterson held many civic and church positions and was instrumental in the progress of the community. He served as Secretary and then President of the Y.M.M.I.A. of his Ward; as Superintendent of the Ward Sunday School Board. Later he was ordained Bishop of the Barnwell Ward, and served as Bishop for nine years. He served on the High Council of his Stake for many years. He was chairman of the Irrigation Board which brought irrigation to the Taber District, and he represented Taber Constituency in the Provincial Legislature for eleven years. He died at Kathryn, Alberta, Canada on September 7, 1951. His interest in education and public community service has been carried on by his family.

The Pou family is of Spanish descent. It was and is an illustrious family and many representatives of the family have attained ranks as statesmen, soldiers, civil, political and church officials, etc. The Pou lineage coming from Catalonia is prominent and is as ancient as the Catalan tongue, in which the word "Pou" means "a well", or source of drinking water. From there have come numerous families of this surname, who have spread in almost all the provinces of Spain and in the New World. One of these illustrious families established itself in the Balearic Island, when King Alonso the 3rd of Aragon conquered King James the 2nd on the Island of Mallorcain in 1285—Pedro Pou was one of the guards who defended the castle of Alaro.

Bartolom'e Pou, noted Theologian was a member of the Coates (Senate) in 1363, and was summoned by King Pedro the 4th of Aragon as representative to the principal state of Majorca.

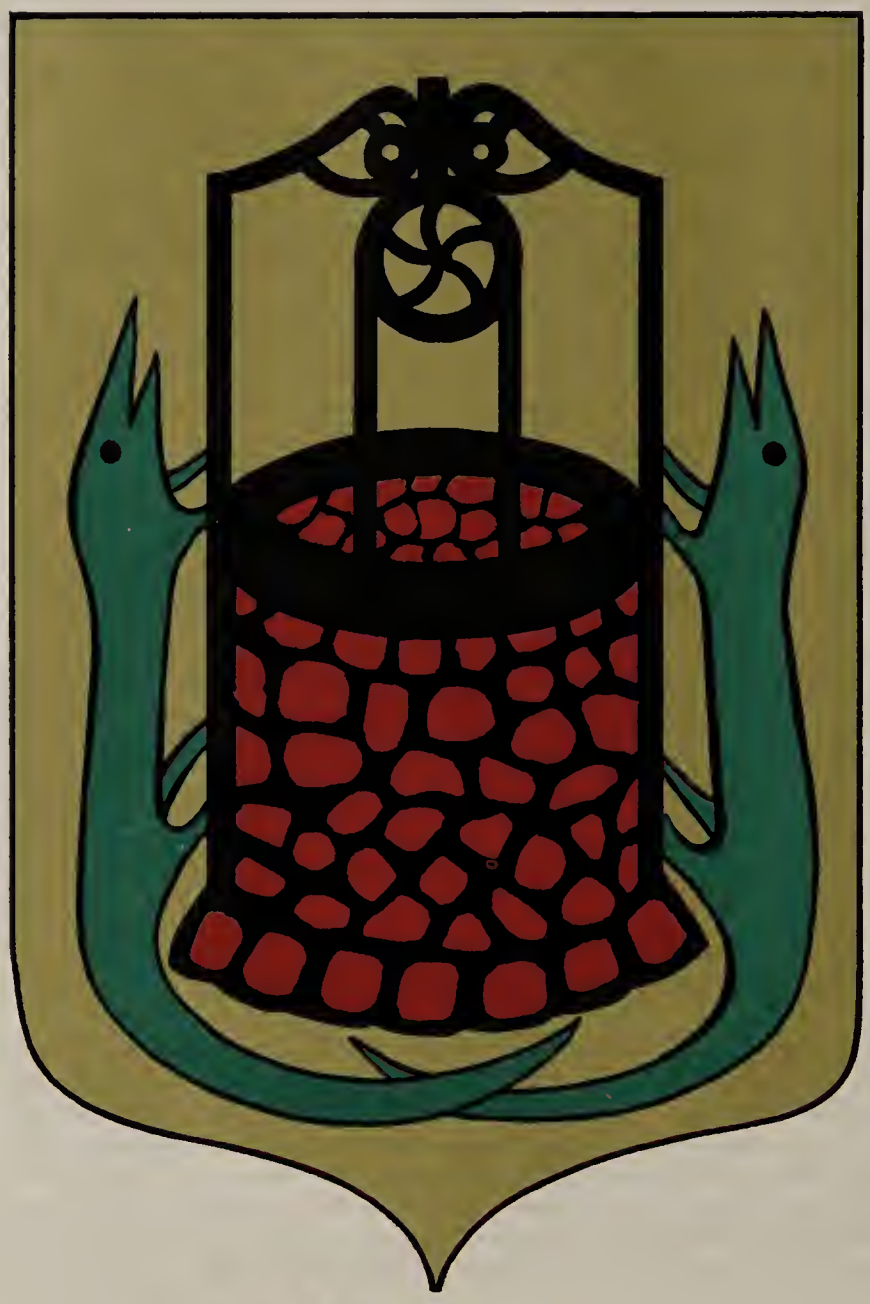
Don James Pou y Bernard, doctor of laws, wise and virtuous man, and exemplary priest, was judge of the tribune of Rota for the crown of Aragon, was Canon of the Holy Roman Church of Palina, and was Archbishop of Bar perfect of curcienleam; was also protector of Poland, and was Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church, called Santa Maria in via lata. To the celebrated council that met at Trent, he was one of the legates of his Holiness. The cardinal of Santa Flora tried several times to have him elected Pope, but one doctor tenaciously opposed such exalted promotion, in spite of the fact, that excepting the tiara he would have exceeded to the wishes of many princes of Europe. He died in Rome on April 26, 1563.

Don Martin Pou in 1708, was juror of the City and Kingdom of Majorca.

Father Bartholom'e Pou, Jesuit, gifted with rare talents, extraordinary memory, and great penetration, and perspicacity, and untiring application to study, shone in the sciences, excelling chiefly in the Latin and Greek tongues, and in philosophy and theology. He was pious, most moderate in his habits, and very candid. This worthy eniment sage died April 17, 1802.

In 1898, Francisco Pou, Captain of the warship "Calleo", entered Manilla harbor, not knowing war had been declared between the United States and Spain. He was surrounded by Dewey's fleet and surrendered his ship. He was tried by Court Martial, under the Spanish law, which forbade Spaniards to surrender a ship. He was convicted upon his return to Spain.

POU COAT OF ARMS



Pou

THE POUS OF SCOTLAND

The Pou family of Scotland, evidently left Spain for political, religious or other reasons, and emigrated to France. After a residence of one or more generations, they became citizens of France, and abandoned their mother tongue (Spanish) and acquired the French language. For this reason, when they left France, thence to the British Isles, they recorded the description of the Pou Coat of Arms in the French language in Edinburgh, Scotland, at the Court of Lord Lyon H. M. Register House. The History of French Protestantism indicates that the Pous or Pows were French Hugenots, who fled to the British Isles during 1565-1700. The name was originally de Pou or de Pow.

Robert Pou, a notary in Eyemouth, Berwickshire, in 1625, was the father of the Minister of Chrinside.

Gavin Pou, Merchant of Glasgow, was admitted a Burgess at the desire of John Craig, late Treasurer, on September 6, 1715.

Gavin Pou, barber apprentice and surgeon, to John Robertson, was admitted a Burgess, on September 11 1733.

POU COAT OF ARMS

Golden Field, a Red Curbstone of a Well, a Green Lizard on each side with the gesture of climbing up the same.

The Pou Arms is on view in the public Library at 42nd Street and 5th Avenue in New York City, because of its antiquity, and may also be viewed at the Hispania Museum in New York City. The Arms has significance of the meaning of the name "POU" which means "A WELL" in the ancient Catalan tongue.

THE POU FAMILY IN AMERICA

FAMILY OF PHILLIP POU AND URSULA MURENO

The ancestor of the Pou family in America was PHILLIP POU, of Scotland. It is said that he fled from Spain to France, and from France to Scotland for political reasons, and it would appear from the records that he resided at Glasgow. His wife was named URSULA MURENO, who is said to have been an Italian noblewoman, who was closely related to the Royal Family of Italy.

At the time of their marriage, Eliza Emma Robinson Pou was given a slave girl by the name of Bama, from her father Lewis Golsan Robinson. This slave was loved by the family, and remained with members of the family as long as she lived. She was first owned by a Colonel House of Wetumpka, Alabama, and went by the name of "Bama House". She was of Indian and negro blood, and was married to a negro man by the name of O'Bannon. "Bama" lived with Francis Gavin Pou and Eliza Emma Robinson Pou at Autaugaville until after the Civil War, and then moved with the family to Pensacola, where she also lived with Frank Robinson Pou from the time of his marriage with Norma Etta Childerson, until the time of her death—Bama House O'Bannon died in April, 1917.

FAMILY OF FRANK ROBINSON POU AND NORMA ETTA CHILDERSON

FRANK ROBINSON POU, son of Francis Gavin Pou and Eliza Emma Robinson, was born at Autaugaville, Autauga County, Alabama, December 15, 1865. He was raised and educated at Pensacola, Florida, and attended the "Old Southern University" at Greensboro, Alabama in 1882. He was a member of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. During his early years he conducted a man's clothing store at Pensacola, but disposed of this business and established the Pou Funeral Home at Pensacola, acquired from his brother-in-law, Samuel Bush Hutchinson. In this latter business he was very successful. His charity was widespread and it was asserted that his check book was rarely kept inactive when appeals were made to him. His business became one of the finest in West Florida, and later was acquired by others of the family. His heart was big and receptive, and there are hundreds who remember him for his liberal response to their pleas for assistance. He became one of Pensacola's first city commissioners upon the adoption of the commission form of government. He became a candidate for election at the very earnest solicitation of many friends. His vote was a great testimonial of friends, and since he received such a larger vote than the other two who were elected at the time, he was entitled and served through the four-year term. He was a successful candidate for two elections, serving three years each time, his last term to have expired shortly after his death. He had married at Pensacola on January 2, 1899, to Norma Etta Childerson, who was born at Montgomery, Alabama, January 18, 1880, a daughter of Thomas Jefferson Childerson, who was born June 25, 1839, at Cedar Bluff, Alabama, and of Mary Rebecca Preston who had been born July 21, 1853, at Hannibal, Missouri.

Commissioner Frank Robinson Pou died at Pensacola, at the age of 58 years, on December 10, 1923, following an illness of about a week. At the time of his death the Mayor of Pensacola ordered the municipal building closed for two days as a mark of respect, and all flags of the city were at half-mast. He was a most valued citizen, widely beloved and esteemed, and one of Pensacola's most successful men. He was a devout member of the Methodist Church, and fraternally was affiliated with the Woodmen of the World in which he was the first Consul Commander of the famous Old Hickory Camp No. 21, and who erected a monument to his memory. He was also affiliated with the Knights of Pythias, with the Odd Fellows, and with the International Longshoremen's Association and Volunteer Firemen's Association. His widow survives him and they were the parents of two daughters.

FAMILY OF (DR.) EDWIN HUNT ROBINSON AND JEROMIE KNIGHT

(DR.) EDWIN HUNT ROBINSON, son of Lewis Golsan Robinson and Mary Ann Whetstone, was born in Robinson Springs, Alabama, October 22, 1827. He was reared on his father's plantation near Rocky Mount in Autauga County, and was given good educational advantages, including Latin, Greek and French. He read medicine with his uncle, (Dr.) John A. Whetstone, and in 1849 he graduated from the Medical College at Memphis, Tennessee, and afterwards practiced his profession in Elmore County, Alabama. He was a very temporate man and consequently was well preserved and healthy, not having lost twenty days from his profession on account of sickness in all of his years of practice. He used neither tobacco nor intoxicating drinks. His services at home during the Civil War days were too valuable to permit of his going to war. He was a member of the Elmore County Medical Society. He also took a lively interest in the politics of his party, but never aspired to an office. Dr. Edwin Hunt Robinson was married on November 10, 1859, to Jeromie Knight, a daughter of Walter Knight and Rachael Leysath, natives of Orangeburg County, South Carolina. His wife was born in 1829. Dr. Robinson owned in different tracts nearly 1700 acres of land in Elmore County. He served for a number of years as worshipful master of Hampden-Sidney Lodge, at Robinson Springs, No. 67. His wife and children were Methodists, while he leaned to the Universalist belief. Dr. Robinson died November 22, 1916 and was buried at Robinson Springs.

Two log Houses served as places of worship until 1845 when the present building was made possible by new wealthy settlers. In 1939 American Methodist United and this Church became The Methodist Church of Robinson Springs, Alabama. The slave gallery still stands intact evidencing the fact that the Church for 107 years has gloriously guided all mankind to christian living. Charter Members: Rev. Peyton Bibb, Martha Bibb, James Robinson, William Zeigler, George Spigener, Lewis G. Robinson, Alexander McKeithen, Mary A. Robinson, Benjamin Cain, Sr., Ezekiel Cooper, Mrs. Ezekiel Cooper.

The following Robinson families were residing in Orangeburg District in 1790:

ANTHONY ROBINSON:
2 males over 16; 4 males under 16; 1 female; 2 slaves.

The Robinsons of Orangeburg probably all descend from one JOSEPH ROBINSON, who with his wife, ANNE, were residing in the District before 1741. There are records of birth of at least two sons, William and Anthony. Other children, or close relatives, were: GEORGE ROBINSON, who served as a Grand Juror in 1774 as a Justice of the Peace in 1776; as an Inquirer and Collector of taxes in 1779; as a member of a Commission to divide Orangeburg District in 1783; JOHN ROBINSON, who was married about 1748 to Isabel Butcher, and was a member of a commission to keep roads in repair in 1778; MARY ROBINSON, a child, admitted to the church on Easterday, 1758. It is likely that one of the Robinson's, listed above, living in Orangeburg District in 1790, was the husband of one of the daughters of Major Lewis Golsan and Elizabeth Stehely, his wife, and therefore was the father of Lewis Golsan Robinson, and of others.

WILLIAM ROBINSON, son of Joseph Robinson and Anne, his wife, was christened on July 5, 1741. He was a prominent citizen of Orangeburg and served as an inquirer and collector in 1777 and 1778; and served in the legislature in 1781. Among his children was JOSEPH ROBINSON, who was living in 1840, and was father of Joseph William Robinson, who was married on June 30, 1832, to Emily Madeline Culler, born January 30, 1819, daughter of Jacob Culler and Rachel Maria Zeigler; of Joseph Robinson, who served as Clerk of the Court in Orangeburg County; of James Robinson who married Mildred Drucilla Rumph, granddaughter of David Rumph and Rachel Susan Hooks.

ANTHONY ROBINSON, son of Joseph and Anne Robinson, was born August 23, 1752 in Orangeburg District (see above for his family in 1790).

FAMILY OF WILLIAM KNIGHT ROBINSON AND ANNA MAUDE REESE

WLLIAM KNIGHT ROBINSON, son of William Lawrence Robinson and Elizabeth Knight, was born September 6, 1860, in Autauga County, Alabama. He was engaged in the undertaking and embalming business at Pensacola, Florida for forty-two years. He was reared on his father's farm, and early took a hand in the activities thereof, having begun plowing at the age of twelve years. His school advantages were meager, only going to school about six months in his life. He possessed, however, energy and ambition and thus equipped he left home when twenty-one years of age and settled at Pensacola, where for more than six years he was a clerk in a furniture store. In 1887 he entered the undertaking business with an associate, and ten years later went into business for himself, and for over thirty years conducted an up-to-date undertaking and embalming establishment, outfitted with the finest equipment obtainable. He was an expert embalmer, having a thorough knowledge of this important phase of the business, gained through years of practical experience.

William Knight Robinson resided at Pensacola, Florida for forty-eight years (and longer) and changed jobs only once, and his splendid success was largely due to the fact that he stayed with his work and had excellent ability for managing, but a kindly nature and sympathetic interest in his business. He was affiliated with the Masonic Order. In June, 1888, he was married to Miss Anna Maude Reese, a member of a prominent Pensacola family. They reared a family of five children and have many grandchildren.

FAMILY OF CHRISTIAN WILBUR RUMPH AND ALBERTA LANEY

CHRISTIAN WILBUR RUMPH, son of (Dr.) James David Rumph and Caroline Margaret Rumph, was born in Orangeburg District, South Carolina August 13, 1843. His father settled in Alabama in 1854, first in Barbour County, and later in Bullock County, where he made his home. Christian Wilbur Rumph attended Perote Academy during his youth. He was studious and strove for the best in all things, making use of all his opportunities. He lived in a progressive and cultured community, which had a marked influence on his life. At the age of sixteen years he and his younger brother were placed in the care of their preceptor, F. T. Chase, whose school, at the outbreak of the Civil War, helped greatly in forming the historic First Alabama Regiment. Christian Wilbur Rumph served for one year with the Perote Guards, Company C, and afterwards he joined Company B, Fifty-first Alabama Cavalry. He was a sergeant under John T. Morgan, who operated in Kentucky and Tennessee. He was wounded at Murphysboro, was in a raid up the Cumberland River when several gun boats were captured; was in the battle of Bentonville, and was taken prisoner at Shelbyville. He was confined for awhile in the penitentiary at Nashville, and later was removed to Camp Chase, Fort Delaware, thence to Point Lookout. He suffered extremely during his eighteen months of imprisonment. On February 22, 1864, he was exchanged and he rejoined his Company at Columbia, South Carolina. Peace was soon afterward declared, and he returned to the old Barbour County Plantation with very little to begin life anew. He was undaunted by defeat and the conditions as he found them, but rather he settled down with determination to progress. He forged his way to the front in farming and in the mercantile business, and within a few years was one of Alabama's wealthy and influential men.

Christian Wilbur Rumph was married, December 17, 1873, to Alberta Laney, who was born July 8, 1852, a daughter of Charles D. Laney and Eliza Crossley, and he made his home in Perote, Bullock County. He served his people as a delegate to State Conventions. At one time he was Chairman of the County Executive Committee; later he served in the State Senate, where he was on the following committees: Temperance, Finance and Federal Relations. He was a Mason of high standing and was very religiously inclined. He served as a Sunday School Superintendent for fifteen years, and represented the Methodist Church in important conferences. He believed in the advancement of education and was constantly working for the betterment of the Community and State.

He died at his home in Perote, Alabama, May 27, 1898, and was buried in the Perote Cemetery. His wife died February 17, 1910, and was buried in the same cemetery. There were eleven children born to this couple.

FAMILY OF THOMAS HAMILTON SIMMS AND DAISEY AURELIA GOLSAN

DAISEY AURELIA GOLSAN, daughter of (Judge) Wyatt George Mallard Golsan and Susan Catharine Withers, was born near Autaugaville, Autauga County, Alabama in 1866 (she was aged 4 years in 1870). She was raised in the vicinity of Prattville. On September 12, 1889, at Bessemer, Alabama, she was married to Thomas Hamilton Simms, who was born January 16, 1866, in Albemarle County, Virginia, a son of John Thomas Edward Simms and Sarah Elizabeth Early. Thomas Hamilton Simms, who became an Executive, received his early education in the public schools of his native county, later attending the Fisherman Military Academy of Virginia. He went to Marion, Alabama, when he was nineteen years of age, along with Dr. W. D. Taylor, a pharmacist, now deceased, where both young men obtained work with H. H. Hurt and Company, grocers and druggists. After five years he was sent by the firm to Bessemer, Alabama to establish a branch there. He left the firm temporarily to become city clerk of Bessemer, which position he held for three years. He was then offered a place as paymaster with the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, and accepted it, later being given the management of the coal production department. This necessitated his removal to Birmingham, where he afterwards made his home. His affiliation with the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company lasted for a great many years and covered the administrations of Presidents Bacon and Bowron. Other avenues of effort engaged his attention and he became a member of the Copeland Brick Company. He also organized the Jefferson Brick and Supply Company, which he headed as president, and afterward became identified with the Brick Selling Corporation, with which he remained until his death. He was very successful in all of his activities and made a name that will remain a permanent guiding light for the emulation of rising generations. He was endowed with a brilliant intellect and was a great organizer and an effective executive, and he conducted his business affairs with such regard for the rights of others that he won the full esteem of his associates in promoting the general welfare of the community through cooperation of constructive and productive effort. He had many friends, and was a most worthy citizen. He was a Democrat, and served as an alderman of Birmingham for a number of years. He was a Mason and was active as a member of the Rotary Club of Birmingham. His death occurred in Birmingham on February 19, 1923.

FAMILY OF THOMAS TRAVIS STALLWORTH AND MARTHA WYATT GHOLSTON

MARTHA WYATT GHOLSTON, daughter of Leonard Henley Gholston and Nancy Howard, was born March 26, 1832, in Montgomery County, Alabama. She was raised in Montgomery County (now Bullock County) on her father's farm, and was married in Montgomery County on October 11, 1849, to Thomas Travis Stallworth.

Thomas Travis Stallworth was born January 28, 1830, a son of James C. Stallworth and Maria Elizabeth Pope. He was a grandson of Thomas Stallworth and Jane Thornton on his father's side, and a grandson of Elijah Pope and Catherine Travis, on his mother's side. Catherine Travis, his grandmother, was a daughter of Barrett Travis and his wife, Anne, and therefore, a sister to Mark Travis, the father of Col. William Barrett Travis of Alamo fame.

After their marriage, Thomas Travis Stallworth and his wife moved to Texas and settled on a farm at Brazoria, where they had three children and where he died on May 3, 1857, from malaria fever, at the young age of 27 years, which was a great tragedy to this happy family. The young widow, with her three children, returned to Alabama to live with her relatives. After the Civil War she was remarried to her second husband, Joel Burgess Wagner, a farmer and Confederate Veteran, and a native of Salisbury, North Carolina, by which marriage there were no children. They settled on a farm at Frost Bridge, Wayne County, Mississippi, where the three children were reared and married. They lived with Hugh Dabney Stallworth, her youngest son, when he moved to Meridian, Mississippi.

Martha Gholston Stallworth Wagner died on her birthday on March 26, 1895, and is buried in the Stinson Cemetery, five miles south of Meridian. Joel Burgess Wagner died about 1896, and is buried at Daleville, Mississippi, having been born in 1814.

LUCY GHOLSON, daughter of Anthony Gholson and Jane, his wife, was born in Virginia, of Spotsylvania and Orange Counties. She was married to a Mr. Stapp (members of this family spelled the name Step and Stapp—her father, Anthony Gholson, Sr. refers to her as Lucy Step in his deed (see appendix). Her husband was almost certainly of the same family as Joshua Stapp, Sr. of Orange County, and may have been James Stapp). This Stapp family moved to Adair County, Kentucky and later were in Garrard County. It is almost certain that Gholson Stapp who lived in both Adair and Garrard Counties, and made his last Will and Testament in Garrard County on December 7, 1802, was one of her children. Other Stapps residing in these and perhaps other counties in Kentucky were probably other children or other descendants. (See family of Gholson and Rachael Stapp).

FAMILY OF COL. MICAH TAUL AND DOROTHY GHOLSON

DOROTHY GHOLSON, daughter of Anthony Gholson and Elizabeth , was born in Botetourt County, Virginia, about 1786. She moved with her father's family into Kentucky in 1801, and they settled in Wayne County. That was in the fall of 1801, and they settled five miles northeast of Monticello. During the next Spring, her brother, John Gholson and Dorothy passed Isaac West's house where Micah Taul was boarding. It was a damp, cool evening and Dorothy was "wrapped up in a large blue cloak, her face veiled and an umbrella over her". Micah Taul had never seen her before, but he remarked to his brother Jonathan that "that young lady" was to be his wife. A few days afterward he saw her at a marriage—that of Abel Schrewsbury to Tebitha Van Hoagan, and fell in love with her. In six days thereafter they were married, on May 20, 1802. He was only seventeen and she was sixteen years of age. Said he, "of course we were a very young couple, too young. I am in favor of early marriages, but it is possible to marry at too early an age. I thought seriously on the subject at the time, young as I was, but I ranked amongst men, was the clerk of two courts, had a license to practice law which I had obtained in the preceeding month of March from Samuel McDowell and John Allen, two of the judges of the District Court of Kentucky." Micah Taul was born in Montgomery County, Maryland on May 14, 1785, son of Arthur Thomas Taul and Mary Anne Johnson. He was the youngest of six sons born to them. In the year 1787 the family moved to Kentucky, and settled in Fayette County. Micah was two years old, but old enough to remember that in coming down the Ohio in a boat he fell into the river and was rescued by his father, and that two of their Negroes were drowned by the overturning of a canoe. His parents were Baptists. His education was limited, as at that day little opportunity was offered, even in Fayette County. He attended the county school where he learned reading, writing and cyphering, and was taught the Bible and spelling. Micah Taul was intelligent and was fond of going to school and was ahead in his classes. At the age of thirteen years he started working in the office of Capt. David Bullock, then the Clerk of the Clark County Court. He became an excellent clerk. At the age of fifteen years he was offered the clerkship of Floyd County, but refused. However, he soon thereafter became Clerk of the Circuit Court of Wayne County, and kept that office at his residence half a mile from the courthouse, and did all the writing himself until the fall of 1807, when Daniel Mays entered the office.

Micah Taul was elected Captain of a Company of Volunteers which he led in the War of 1812, during 1812-13 (company from Wayne County.), and later he was successful in raising another company from the county and vicinity and they marched into Ohio to Urbana. There Micah Taul was appointed Colonel of the 7th Regiment at the age of 28 years, being the youngest colonel in the State. The Regiment was composed of six companies, one of them being commanded by his brother-in-law, Capt. James Gholson. In 1814, after returning to his home from the War, Col. Micah Taul was elected to Congress of the United States from Kentucky. After his services as congressman were completed, he returned to Kentucky from Washington, and began to practice law. He practiced in a number of places in Wayne County and vicinity, but later settled at Winchester in Franklin County, Tennessee. His wife, Dorothy Gholson Taul, died at Winchester, Tennessee in December, 1827. Afterwards he remarried and had two children by his second wife, and later retired to a farm. He and his first wife were the parents of four children. Micah Taul was a brilliant lawyer and participated in many interesting and important cases during his life, but had tragic moments with the deaths of his children. During his last years, he lived on his farm at Mardisville, Talladega County, Alabama, where he died May 27, 1850. He had served in Congress from March 5, 1815 until March 3, 1817. His wife, Dorothy Gholson Taul was a small, delicate person, weighing less than 100 pounds, but she was intellectually equal to her husband, and read many books, in which she kept up with her husband.

CHILDREN OF (COL.) MICAH TAUL AND DOROTHY GHOLSON

1. THOMAS PAYNE TAUL, born March 7, 1803, Wayne County, Kentucky at Monticello; raised in Wayne County; attended Mr. Wilson's School in Jessamine until 1818, then entered the Transylvania University from which he graduated in 1821 as a scholar and an excellent orator. He studied law and received a license to practice in 1824 and became a very popular and successful young member of his profession. He tried many important cases. He was married on March 7, 1827, to Caroline P. Anderson, daughter of Col. William P. Anderson, and they had one stillborn female child in 1828, and his wife died soon after the birth. Before her death, his wife deeded her husband a lot of land in Nashville, Tennessee, which provoked some of her relatives into bitterness against the Taul family. Because of failing health, Thomas Payne Taul went to Cuba, to Florida, and elsewhere during the winter of 1828 and 1829. However, before he left, he had been provoked by a drunken man, and had been forced to shoot the man in self defense. The man died, which caused much excitement against Thomas P. Taul, and in the Spring of 1829 he returned to Winchester, Tennessee to stand trial. Before the end of the trial, he was murdered by his brother-in-law Rufus K. Anderson, in August 1829. Anderson was sought for the murder and was tried, but escaped; after several other killings he was finally killed in Texas by the law.
2. ALGERNON SIDNEY TAUL, second son, was born in October 1804, at Monticello, Wayne County, Kentucky. He attended Mr. Wilson's School at Jessamine until 1818, when he entered the Transylvania University as a freshman, and graduated from the University in 1822. He studied law and was granted a license to practice, but was never able to commence. He became ill with a disease from which he died in May 1826, unmarried.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN GHOLSON OF EVANT, CORYELL COUNTY, TEXAS:

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN GHOLSON, son of Albert G. Gholson and Elydia Anderson, was born November 17, 1842, in Robertson County, Texas (now Falls County) (see page 228). At the age of seven years he removed with his parents to Madison County, Tennessee, where they remained until 1832, when they settled in Texas and stopped in Robertson's colony. Albert G. Gholson joined the Texas army in 1835, and participated in several engagements before the final notable one, San Jacinto. He was a Lieutenant in Captain Tom Barron's company. Having performed his part in the freeing of Texas from the grasp of Santa Ana, he retired to civil pursuits in Robertson county. In 1843, on account of Indian troubles and family sickness, he moved to Harrison county. Later he located at Blue Ridge, Limestone county, and later in Falls county, but moved again to McLennan county, twelve miles north of Waco, in what is now Gholson's valley. Here he remained only three years, and then he moved into Mills county. In 1858 he settled in the lower part of Coryell county, where he was killed in 1860. Despite his roving, he succeeded in accumulating a fortune. He was a surveyor. The father of Albert G. Gholson, Colonel Samuel Gholson, was a Colonel in the War of 1812, and was engaged in merchandising and was connected with the Santa Fe trade. He died in Harrison county, July 4, 1852. His wife was Mary Ann Slayton, daughter of a well-to-do Kentucky farmer. Five children were born to them, the subject's father being the youngest and one of the two who reared families. The subject's mother was Elydia Anderson, daughter of William Anderson of South Carolina. Her father died in Gonzales county, Texas in 1866.

Benjamin Franklin Gholson was educated in running steers instead of spending his youthful days studying the three R's in a log-cabin schoolhouse. In 1855 he passed through Langford's Cove, then a wilderness, inhabited only by Asa Langford and "Uncle Jimmy" Carter, two gentlemen who were highly respected.

In 1856 the Indians began investigating the location of the various white settlers along the streams, preparatory for an attack the next year upon the settlers, at a time agreed upon in a council of all the tribes in the far West. Indians could be seen reconnoitering the country. A complete mental plan of this whole country was made and the point of attack carefully located. Nine tribes were supposed to have been represented at the council of war. All, however, except two tribes, refused to join the coalition. These two tribes made their own plans and conducted the war from 1857 to 1873, committing murders, kidnapping children, stealing stock, etc. The first persons killed in this community were old man Renfroe and his son. By a count kept by "Uncle Jimmy" Carter, forty-eight men of his acquaintance met their death at the hands of the red men. During all of these years Benjamin Franklin Gholson was identified more or less with the ranging service. From 1857 to 1862 he was found, almost altogether, on the frontier, enduring hardships in order to protect the women and children. In 1862 he enlisted in the Second Regiment of Texas Cavalry, under Colonel Pyron, of San Antonio. About the first fight he was engaged in was the retaking of Galveston. He was with the forces that operated in eastern Texas and Louisiana. When Colonel Pyron was wounded the regiment disbanded. They were called together again however, and did some good service before the surrender.

At the close of the war the subject returned home and took up his old occupation, becoming one of the leading and best known cow-men in the West. He became engaged in the stock business on an extensive scale, but about 1873 he closed out most of his operations; he owned a large farm in Lampasas county and a half interest in a large stock ranch in another area. He also owned half interest in a drug store at Evant.

Benjamin Franklin Gholson was married on July 18, 1862 to Jane Adaline Langford, daughter of Asa Langford, Sr. and Eliza McDonald.

ANCESTRY OF WILLIE BOND GOLSAN, WIFE OF MALLORY WASHINGTON GOLSAN:

WILLIE BOND, daughter of (Captain) John Franklin Bond and Frances Caroline Brown, was born October 25, 1868, near Prattville, Autauga County, Alabama. Her father, John Franklin Bond, was born in St. Louis, Missouri, March 1, 1832. His parents passed away when he was a child, and he was left in the care of an uncle, with whom he was raised. According to tradition, he left home at an early age and was employed on Mississippi River boats. Soon after the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the First Battalion of Alabama Artillery, of the Confederate States Army, and was appointed 2nd Lieutenant of Company D, subsequently Company C, on March 1, 1861. On July 28, 1862 he was promoted to First Lieutenant, and was transferred to Company F, of the same Battalion, on the same date. On March 2, 1863, he was transferred to Company B, that Battalion and signs muster rolls as Commanding the Company. Union Prisoner of War Records show that he was captured at Blakely, Alabama on April 9, 1865, and imprisoned at Ship Island, Mississippi, and that he was received for exchange at Camp Townsend, May 6, 1865, by the Confederate Authorities. He was surrendered by Lieutenant General R. Taylor, C.S.A., and paroled at Meridian, Mississippi, on May 11, 1865. War records show his residence as being in Autauga County, Alabama.

During the war, while stationed in Alabama, he became acquainted with Frances Caroline Brown, of Prattville, to whom he was married at Prattville on April 14, 1864. After the war he returned to Prattville, where he and his wife lived and where he established a saddle shop. They raised a family of three children, two sons and one daughter. Because of conditions in the Southland after the close of the war, he decided to travel to the West, in an effort to make a new start. He could not persuade his wife to go with him, so he set out alone, expecting to return for his family after he had made a start in the West. In a letter to his family in Prattville, dated September 22nd, 1873, from Trinidad, Colorado, he makes the following declaration of his travels and successes: "I have made about $7,000.00, but have it all in cattle, which I hope to sell within the next thirty-five days for cash . . . Since leaving Alabama I have been several times in the Eastern States, and passed once through Mississippi from New Orleans to St Louis, and have been in all of the Western Territories, except Montana — in California, New Mexico, old Mexico, Oregon and Washington Territory. In fact I have been almost all of the time on the move. I have made and lost not less than $25,000.00, and have now cattle which will bring me in the neighborhood of from $7,000.00 to $10,000.00. Twice the Indians stole my cattle and killed two of my men once and wounded myself very badly, but thanks to God I am still alive and perhaps for a good purpose . . . Please answer this and let me know just how the Folks all are; how Uncle Rich, Ma, Pa, Fannie and the little Darlings are. I would be oh so glad to hear from you all, each and everyone. I have lived all this time only to make money enough to make Fannie and the babies comfortable. In all of my thoughts, trials and travels I have had only that in view. Kiss my little darlings."

Records at Trinidad, Colorado indicate that he owned a saddle shop in Trinidad. He wrote again to his family from New York City on March 7th, 1878. There were probably many other letters that were written, but only a few of them were preserved. With all of his efforts he seemed unable to persuade his family to settle in the West, and the last record that has been found of him was at Trinidad on December 20, 1879 in an estate transaction. He had sisters named Penina and Lucretia, but others of his relatives are unknown.

Frances Caroline Brown, wife of John Franklin Bond, was born near Prattville, Alabama on April 15, 1847. She was raised in a comfortable country home on her father's plantation, and received her education in the public schools at Prattville. The Brown home was one of religious training and culture. Her father, Arthur Brown, was a wealthy planter and owned a large plantation in the vicinity of Prattville. He was an early pioneer of Autauga County, settling there in 1820 with his brother, Elzey Brown, from Lenoir County, North Carolina. Arthur Brown was born in Lenoir County, North Carolina, February 5, 1802, a son of Richard Brown and Elizabeth, his wife, and his brother Elzey was about two years older, born about 1800. Their father, Richard Brown, died in North Carolina on May 3, 1804, leaving his widow and minor children, and the widow was remarried to one, Thomas Gray of Lenoir County, by whom she had at least one daughter, Mary Gray, born about 1806, in North Carolina, who married Bray Rogers, and raised a family. Elzey Brown, brother of Arthur, was married to Margaret Edwards, and he settled in Coosa County, Alabama, where he raised a large family, and left many descendants. He died on January 11, 1847, leaving nine minor children as follows: Martha P. Brown, James Brown, William Brown, Arthur P. Brown, John Wesley Brown, Elizabeth Brown, Margaret Brown, Elsey Brown and Charles S. Brown. Of these, Martha P. Brown was married in 1850 to Isaac Simmons.

It is believed that Richard Brown of Lenoir County, North Carolina, the father of Arthur and Elzey Brown, was a son of Richard Brown, Sr. and Frances Sexton, his wife; a grandson of John Brown and Jane, his wife of Lunenberg County, Virginia; a grandson of Archelaus Sexton; a great-grandson of Edward Brown, by his wife, a Miss Brown, who were early emigrants to Virginia from Great Britain.

Arthur Brown was married twice. His first wife was Mary Ann Caroline Griffith, who was born in South Carolina, September 14, 1809, and died at Prattville on November 16, 1840, by whom he had six children: 1. William Marion Brown, born January 4, 1830; died June 11, 1845. 2. Elizabeth Ann Brown, born June 27, 1832; died October 7, 1902. 3. Richard Wright Brown, born October 5, 1833; died December 10, 1873; married Callie Goodson. 4. Abram James Brown, born April 13, 1835; died June 2, 1845. 5. John Fletcher Brown, born January 1, 1837 died April 20, 1850. 6. Charles Wesley Brown, born January 21, 1839; died November 30, 1864. All were born at Prattville, and two of them served in the Confederate States Army during the Civil War: Richard Wright Brown and Charles Wesley Brown; the latter was killed.

The second wife of Arthur Brown was Ann Maria Killett, to whom he was married at Prattville on January 29, 1841. She was born in North Carolina on September 16, 1820, a daughter of John and Elizabeth Ann Killett of North Carolina.. Her parents were early pioneers of Autauga County. John Killett was born in North Carolina on October 28, 1783, and his wife was born November 6, 1802. They were married about 1819, and raised a large family, giving birth to thirteen children as follows: 1. Ann Maria Killett, born September 16, 1820, married 1st John A. Woods, 2nd Arthur Brown. 2. Marcus Cicero Killett, born July 29, 1822; married Sarah Ann Hale. 3. James Monroe Killett, born October 5, 1824, married Sarah McRight. 4. Alvin E. Killett, born October 2, 1826; died April 5, 1847. 5. Elsie I. Killett, born April 1, 1827, married John Davis. 6. Mary Frances Killett, born April 15, 1829; married 1st John L. McRight, 2nd Elias Ford; 3rd Henry Cook. 7. Kiziah M. Killett, born December 28, 1831, married John Pearce. 8. Elizabeth Ann Killett, born April 29, 1833; married 1st John Pearce, 2nd James R. Chandler. 9. Martial G. Killett, born August 22, 1837. 10. John Washington Killett, born March 31, 1835; married Vianna Martin. 11. Susan E. Killett, born April 5, 1839, married James Long. 12. Martha A. Killett, born April 18, 1842, married Green B. Pinkston. 13. Harriet E. Killett, born December 26, 1844. There are many descendants.

Ann Maria Killett had one infant by her first marriage, that probably died unnamed. By her second husband, Arthur Brown, she was the mother of four children: 1. Elzey Franklin Brown, born November 9, 1841; married Elmina Sanford, by whom there was one infant that died; he died as a prisoner of War during service in the Confederate States Army at Chicago, Illinois, September 4, 1862. 2. Arthur Pinkney Brown, born 16th day of ....., 1843, served in the Confederate States Army, and died a prisoner of war at Vicksburg, Mississippi, September 24, 1862. 3. Harriet Jane Brown, born December 5, 1845, died April 22, 1846. 4. Frances Caroline Brown, born April 15, 1847, married Capt. John Franklin Bond.

Arthur Brown died at Prattville on January 19, 1872, and his widow, Ann Maria Killett Brown died also at Prattville on November 3, 1885. He left a large estate. The following obituary notice is taken from a Prattville newspaper:

"ARTHUR BROWN DEAD

"Brother Arthur Brown died at his residence near Prattville, Autauga County, Alabama, January 19, 1872. He was born in North Carolina, February 5, 1802, and at his death had reached nearly threescore and ten years.

"He came to Alabama in 1820, almost without a dollar, and commenced the improvement of the farm on which he lived more than fifty years, and where he ended his early pilgrimage. Having the advantages of a virgin soil, blessed with health and the smiles of Providence, he accumulated a handsome fortune. He was twice married — in his youth to Miss Mary Griffeth, after whose death he was married to Miss Maria Killett, who still survives him. He sustained the character of an honest and upright citizen, a humble and consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the peaceable fellowship of which he had lived for thirty-five years. His piety was a quiet and unostentatious character. He had humble views of his own religious attainments. His disease, being that of cancer, had the effect to produce great depression of spirits, yet he ever manifested much pleasure in devotional exercises.

"A few days before his death he concluded the final settlement of all his temporal business, even to the payment of his physician's bill, which, being assured, was much to the satisfaction of all of his family. He then committed all to God and said: 'I am now ready to go.' In this calm frame of mind he awaited the Master's call, which was not long delayed."

Frances Caroline Brown Bond died at Prattville on January 3, 1887, leaving behind her two children, one son having preceeded her.

John Killett died at Prattville at the age of ninety years on January 8, 1874.

11. to 14. Four other children.

FAMILY OF JAMES GOLSON AND MINERVA ETTA RANKINS (WIDOW CHAMBERS):

JAMES GOLSON, son of Acquilla Golson and Jennie Burgess, was born September 21, 1836, probably in Georgia. He and his brother Thomas, moved from Georgia to Texas by ox team in 1868. They left Georgia on October 28, 1868, and arrived at Dallas three months later, where they remained for a year and followed farming, and then settled in McLennan County, Texas. James Golson and his family remained in McLennan County for fourteen years, and then removed to Coleman County, settling at Burkett. He was married to Minerva Etta Rankins, a widow Chambers, by whom he had seven children. They were married in Polk County, Georgia on August 25, 1864. James Golson died on March 29, 1915.

FAMILY OF JAMES GOLSON AND MINERVA ETTA RANKINS (WIDOW CHAMBERS):

1. EDMUND CHAMBERS GOLSON, born Nov. 14, 1859, probably in Georgia.
2. EUGENE GOLSON, born 1866, probably in Georgia.
3. JAMES WADE GOLSON, born October 28, 1867, near Cave Spring, Georgia. He was taken to Texas at the age of one year, where he was raised, living in McLennan and Coleman counties. He died in 1951 at the age of 85 years. His first marriage was in May, 1894, to Mollie Clark, who died October 10, 1910. He was married secondly, on November 11, 1911, to Mrs. Viola West White, by whom he had one daughter: NANCY JIM GOLSON, wife of E. E. McKinney, of Abilene, Texas. Mrs. Viola West White Golson was the mother of Mrs. John B. Warren, Jr., of Coleman, Texas by her former marriage.
4. CHARLES BRUCE GOLSON, born July 3, 1875, in McLennan County, Texas; raised in the area of Coleman County; married and left two sons: 1. WADE MOUZON GOLSON of Victorville, California, and 2. WARREN C. GOLSON, a school teacher, of Apple Valley, California.
5. BILLY GOLSON, born and died in 1878, in McLennan County, Texas.

7. FRANK GOLSON, born October 9, 1884, in Coleman County, Texas; died October 12, 1935.

Note: A further effort will be made to trace the ancestry of this family. It was first thought that the line, because of the present spelling of the surname used by descendants, was descended from Major Lewis Golsan of Orangeburg District, S. C. (see page 516). However, later findings indicate the family of Acquilla Golson (or Goldston) was from Tennessee and that he may have been a grandson of Capt. Charles Goldston of Chatham County, North Carolina (see his family on page 127).

FAMILIES AND PEDIGREES IN ENGLAND
ANCESTRY OF DR. THEODORE GULSTON (GOULSTON)

1. RALPH De GULSTON (OR GOLSTON), the first of the family of whom record has been discovered up to our present writing, is mentioned in connection with the building of Conway Castle in 1283. Reference: Bag of Wales, No. 46 at Westminster chapter-house.
2. JOHN GULSTON, of The Mewstone, about 1300, was probably son of Ralph de Gulston (above). He married Marjory, and they had many sons and daughters, several of whom probably settled near Aldenham, Herts.
3. SIR RALPH GULSTON, KT., an esquire at the battle of Crecy, August 26, 1346, in which he distinguished himself; after the fight he held the helmet of the King of Bohemia while the Prince of Wales took therefrom the three ostrich feathers for his personal crest. Presently Ralph Gulston was knighted by the Prince, receiving the small feathers remaining for his own cognizance. As Sir Ralph rose from the ground under the weight of his new honours and the heavy helmet of the Bohemian king, a learned by-stander, in the fashion of that day, punningly exclaimed, "Crescit sub pondere virtus", which has ever since been retained as the motto of his descendants. Sir Ralph Gulston married Mary Crispin.
4. EDWARD CRISPIN GULSTON, born 1341, son of Ralph Gulston and Mary Crispin, married Mary Floyd.
5. RALPH CRISPIN GULSTON, born 1376, son of Edward Crispin Gulston and Mary Floyd, married Jane Goldstone, daughter of Joseph Goldstone, whose son, Thomas Goldstone was Prior of Canterbury Cathedral.

He was known as Prior Thomas Gulston, and held the benefice of Prior of Canterbury for 24 years, 8 months and 16 days. He was sent by King Henry VII to France as Ambassador to Charles, King of France.
7. JOHN GOLDSTONE GULSTON, born 1430, elder son of Joseph Goldstone Gulston and Cicely Mowbray, married Maude Mowbray.
8. WILLIAM GULSTON, son of John Goldstone Gulston and Maude Mowbray, married Pricely Yatton.
9. THOMAS GULSTON, ESQ., of Wymondham, County, Leicester, born 1475, son of William Gulston and Pricely Yatton; married Jane.

    1. JOHN GULSTON, ESQ., of Widdihal (now Widdiall), Herts., eldest son and heir, was a Counsellor-at-law, of Gray's Inn; had arms granted to him by William Camden; married Jane Ketterich, who died in 1630, at the age of 89 years, daughter of Richard Ketterich of South Mimms, Middlesex, and had by her eleven children: a. DR. THEODORE GULSTON (GOULSTON), M.D.

It appears very possible that Dr. Theodore Gulston (Goulston) may have been a close relative to the early Goulston, Gulston, Gholson, Gholston, Golsan settlers in America, and that the above lineage, and those shown by the photostats which follow, is that of the American descendants with their various forms of spelling.

He was a prominent physician and Scholar, and was a son of Dr. William Gulston, D. D., rector of Wymondham Parish in Leicestershire, by Elizabeth, his wife. Dr. Theodore Gulston was born in Wymondham in 1572. He entered Merton College, Oxford, and was elected a fellow in 1596, and graduated with M.A. on July 8, 1600, and with an M.D. degree on April 30, 1610. He had before practiced at Wymondham, and after taking his final degree settled as a physician in the parish of St. Martin-extra-Ludgate in London, and was admitted a fellow of the College of Physicians on December 29, 1611. He was elected censor in 1615, 1616, 1625 and 1626. In 1619 he published in London "Versio Latina et Paraphrasis in Aristotelis Rhetoricam" with a dedication to Prince Charles in Latin prose, and his notes and Latin version were reprinted in the edition of the Greek text published at Cambridge in 1696. In 1623 he published "Aristotelis de Poetica liber Latine conversus et analytica methode illustratus", with a dedication in Latin verse to Prince Charles. He also wrote "Versio, variae lectiones, et annotationes criticae in opuscula varia Galeni" which was published in 1640, with a preface by his friend Thomas Gataker. He had in his own time, a well-earned reputation for general learning and a considerable practice as a physician. He was a prominent member of the Virginia Company, and in 1616, he frequently entertained Sir Thomas Dale and Uttomakin, the latter being Chief Powhatan's Counsellor, who had been sent to England. On June 14, 1619, Dr. Goulston was appointed on the committee of the Virginia Company in regard to the college. On December 15, 1619, he bought ten shares of land in Virginia from various persons. He was made one of the King's Council for the Company in England, on July 8, 1620 and on July 26, 1621, he recommended Dr. John Potts as "Physician Generall" to succeed Dr. Lawrence Bohun (who had died) to the Company in Virginia. Dr. Goulston was a distinguished Greek and Latin scholar and translated several works from Greek to Latin. He was married to Helen Sotherton, daughter of George Sotherton, a merchant-tailor and a Member of Parliament of London, but evidently did not leave children, as in his last Will and Testament, dated April 26, 1632, and probated June 1, 1632, he left his property to his parents and to his brothers and sisters and their in-laws and children, etc. His Will is recorded in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury for 1632, Audley, bundle 64, and the following is an abstract of the same, which is followed by a photostat copy of the original recording:

wife from this place. She was the dau. of Henry ap Gwilym, after whose name it is supposed Court Henry was called. The grounds and surrounding woods bear an aspect of antiquity.

GRIFFITHS, The Rev. John, of Llandeilo, Carmarthenshire.

Doctor in Divinity; Vicar of Llandeilo-fawr; Rural Dean; Diocesan Inspector of Schools; member of the Council of the Carmarthen Training College, and Surrogate of the Diocese of St. David's; author of sermons and tracts of various kinds; ed. at St. David's College, Lampeter; grad. B.D. in 1859, and D.D. in 1869, which latter honour was conferred by his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury as a mark of respect and recognition of his merits as a Welsh clergyman and theologian.

Residence: The Vicarage, Llandeilo, S. Wales.

Note.—The Rev. Dr. Griffiths is one of those representatives of the Established Church in Wales who constitute at once its grace and its strength; and it has been for some time naturally expected that his high character, eminent abilities as a preacher, and conciliatory and judicious behaviour, would lead to his appointment as one of the chief pastors of that Church. He is descended from that good old stock, the family of James Howel, the celebrated author of the Epistolæ Ho-Elianæ, and many other works of great intrinsic interest (see Howel, James), and of Thomas Howell, D.D., Lord Bishop of Bristol in the time of the Commonwealth. In times gone by, Wales not only found bishops of the type of Morgan, Parry, Goodman, Davies, for herself, but sent many of her sons to preside with distinction over English sees. Of the number were Howell, of Bristol; earlier, Williams, Abp. of Canterbury; later, Lloyd, of Oxford. For a long series of years the mistake has been committed of appointing Englishmen only to Welsh sees, as if that were a likely means of conciliating an already much estranged people to the Establishment. Barring the recent appointment of Bp. Hughes, there has been a sad want of comprehension of the genius, temper, and needs of the Welsh people. Dr. Thirlwall might do better at Canterbury than at St. David's; but he no sooner had the charge of this diocese placed upon him than he made earnest efforts to obliterate the wall which a different nationality and language had built between him and the people by learning their speech, and qualifying himself not only to perform rites and ceremonies, but to teach, convince, and comfort. Bp. Thirlwall has therefore by approaching gained the sympathy and affection of the Welsh, as he has by his learning gained the admiration of all men. It is known to all who know anything to purpose, that, other qualifications not being overlooked, scriptural learning and ministerial talent are chief requisites for a bishop in Wales. Schoolmasters, arithmeticians, annotators of Greek plays, may do in England; in Wales, divines and preachers are demanded, and the preachers should be men whose mother tongue is the speech of the people.

LINEAGE.

The family of Gulston of Dirleton enjoys one of the most ancient and distinguished lineages in the Principality, having, like many others of the commoners of Wales and England, as clear a right to the rank and title of nobility as a well-ascertained descent can confer. The following pedigrees show kinship with past royal houses both of England and Scotland, and with several of the noble houses of both countries.

We give first the Stepney-Gulston pedigree, which goes up in direct line male to Sir Ralph Gulston, who was made a knight on the field of Cressy by the Black Prince, A.D. 1346, a pedigree which includes in its progress a large number of distinguished names.

The second pedigree shows the royal descent of the Gulstons, and the common derivation of this family and that of Stepney (see Cowell-Stepney of Llanelly) from the Ruthvens, Earls of Gowrie, King Henry VII. of England, and King Edward IV. of England,—the former through an elder, the latter through a younger daughter of Sir Thomas Stepney, Bart.

Mr. Gulston is senior representative of the families of Gulston of Wymondham, co. Leicester, of Widdihill, Herts, and of Knuston Hall, Northampton; of the Lloyds of Danyrallt; of Vandyke, the celebrated limner; of the unfortunate Earl of Gowrie, Ruthvens and Halyburtons of Dirleton, N.B.; of the Vaughans of Derwydd, and of Sir Harry Vaughan of Ty-Gwyn, Carm.; and, as certified by Sir Charles Young, Garter King of Arms, one of the representatives of the Vaughans of Golden Grove, Philipps of Picton Castle, Mansel of Muddlescomb, &c.

ALAN JAMES GULSTON, Esq., now of Dirleton, Tygwyn, and Derwydd, Carmarthenshire. (For marriage, issue, &c., &c., see the pedigree and introduction above.)

Notes.—Among the spots of historic interest on Mr. Gulston's estates are Derwydd, an ancient mansion, renewed in time of Henry VII.; British and other graves at Llwynbeddau (the wood by the graves), near Carreg-cennen Castle; the Field (partly on estate) of the Battle of Rhyd-y-Saeson (the Saxons' Ford), between Edward I. and the Welsh; a Druid stone in the grounds at Dirleton; a barrow at Rhandir-ymryson, i.e., the "spot or place of contention."

Among distinguished members of this family in past time may be named—

Sir Ralph Gulston, who was a "man-at-arms" at the battle of Cressy, and after the battle of Cressy held the helmet of the King of Bohemia, while the Prince of Wales took therefrom for his own crest the three ostrich feathers; he was knighted, and received as his crest the smaller feathers left in the helmet. As he rose up under the weight of new honours and of the king's heavy helmet, a learned man who was standing by, aiming at a pun (then as now common in many mottoes), exclaimed, "Crescit sub pondere virtus," which has ever since been the motto of the Gulstons. He was knighted on 26th August, 1346.

Thomas Goldstone Gulston, commonly called "Prior Thomas Goldstone," the second prior of that name; Prior of Canterbury twenty-four years eight months and sixteen days; b. 1442, and d. 1517; his tomb is in Canterbury Cathedral. See Somers' Canterbury for the following quotation:—"Thomas Goldstone was a man who had the Prince's favour; for Henry the Seventh sent him ambassador to Charles, the French king; he continued prior almost twenty-five years. Weaver has curtailed his epitaph."

Joseph Gulston, Dean of Chichester, and chaplain and almoner to King Charles I. "The Gulstons, through their thorough devotion to King Charles I. and to the Royal cause, and more especially by the attachment and constant attendance on King Charles I. by Joseph Gulston, his almoner; who also preached before him and was with him during his cruel imprisonment at Carisbrook Castle in the Isle of Wight (J. Gulston, on Sunday, 12th Nov., 1648 preached to King Charles in Carisbrook Castle; his text was, 'You shall swear by me in truth, judgment, and righteousness'), through this devotion to the king, I say, the Gulstons lost all landed property and the greater part of their valuables; but the Rev. Joseph Gulston's son (also by name Joseph Gulston) did, by successful expeditions and honest and far-sighted ventures to foreign parts, restore the fortunes of his house" (see Peck's Desiderata Curiosa, 403).

Doctor Theodore Gulston, an eminent physician and author, A.D. 1596, d. A.D. 1632; was founder of the Gulstonian Lectures (anatomy, &c.), still continued at the College of Physicians.

Joseph Addison, the celebrated author (of the Spectator, &c., &c.).

George Stepney, b. 1663, buried in Westminster Abbey A.D. 1707, an author and well-known poet. In 1692 he was sent as envoy to the Elector of Brandenburg, and in the same character, the year following, to the Emperor; in 1694 to the Elector of Saxony, and two years after to the Electors of Mentz, Cologne, &c., and the Congress of Frankfort; he was employed in several other embassies, and in 1706 to the States-General. He was very successful, which occasioned his constant employment in the most weighty affairs.

Joseph Gulston, M.P. for Poole, in 1768 began, and lived to complete, an unrivalled collection of books and prints, a collection famous to this day (see "Nicholl's Illustrations of the Literary History of the XVIIIth Century").

Sir John Stepney, 7th Baronet, sometime M.P. for the town of Monmouth, and First Minister to the Court of Dresden, and also to Berlin.

Sir Thomas Stepney, 8th Baronet. "By the death of Sir Thomas Stepney (see Millar's Biogr. Sketches) a vacuum will long be felt by that class of loungers of the old school who at the meridian hour daily saunter on the steps of Brooks's and its neighbouring pavement; and even the quiet, unknown, but observing pedestrian, who periodically perambulates the district of the Court, will for a time be sensible of the absence of this original and eccentric character, so totally unlike the cut of the present day, and whose constant habits had rendered his presence so familiar to him. This gentleman's person was as well known in St. James's Street as the golden cross on the top of St. Paul's Cathedral, and it had not more variety in its appearance in winter or summer,—in a bleak frost or a burning sun it had the same thin covering."

Talbot Gwynne (Josepha Gulston), the well-known authoress of "School for Fathers," "Young Singleton," "School for Dreamers," "Silas Barnstarke," and many other novels.

The Gulstons can also prove a direct lineal descent from Rodri Mawr (Roderic the Great), King of all Wales; and

Through the Grandmother of Henry VII. of England, the Gulstons are kindred to the Royal Family of France.

Joseph Addison's mother was Jane Gulston, of this family, and Alan James Gulston, Esq., of Llwyn-y-berllan, Carmarthenshire, is the senior co-representative of Sir Anthony Van Dyck, the celebrated Painter, as well as of the Ruthvens, Earls of Gowrie.

Sir Anthony Vandyke's children, according to his pedigree, stood in proximity to the throne, which is thus explained by Burnet in speaking of the Gowry Conspiracy.

"One thing which none of the historians have taken notice of, and might have induced the Earl of Gowry to have wished to put King James out of the way, he stood next to the succession to the crown of England; for King Henry VII.'s daughter, that was married to King James IV., did, after his death, marry Douglass, Earl of Angus; but they could not agree, so by a procontract from Rome, the marriage was voided with a clause in favour of the issue since born, under a marriage de facto and bona fide. Lady Margaret Douglass was the child so provided for. I did peruse the original Bull, confirming the divorce. After that, the Queen Dowager married one Francis Steward, and had by him a son called Lord Methuen by King James V. In the patent he is called 'Frater noster uterinus.' He had only a daughter, who was mother or grandmother to the Earl of Gowry, so that by this he might be glad to put the King out of the way, that so he might stand next to the succession of the crown of England. He had a brother then a child, who, when he grew up and found he could not carry the name of Ruthven, which, by an Act made after this conspiracy, none might carry, he went and lived beyond the sea, and it was given out that he had the Philosopher's stone. He had two sons, who died without issue, and one daughter, married to Sir Anthony Vandyke, the famous picture drawer."

REFERENCE: ANNALS OF SMITH OF CANTLEY, BALBY, AND DONCASTER, COUNTY YORK, BY HENRY ECROYD SMITH, PAGES, 50 TO 56:

GULSTONE OR GULSTON OF WYMONDHAM, co. LEICESTER; KNUSTON, co. KENT; KNOWLE, co. DORSET; DERWYDD AND DANYRALLT, co. CARMARTHEN.

ARMS.—Granted by Camden.—Argent, 2 bars nebulée gules, over all a bend sable charged with 3 plates.
CREST.—Won upon the field of Crécy.—An ostrich-wing of 5 feathers, 3 argent, 2 gules, over all a bend sable charged with 3 plates.
MOTTO.—Originated on the field of Crécy.—Crescit sub pondere virtus.

The present Stepney-Gulston family bear upwards of forty quarterings on their coat of arms, as the Senior representatives of Gulston, Stepney, Lloyd, Vaughan, Ruthven (Earls of Gowrie), Halybarton of Dirleton, Van d'Eyck; also one of the representatives of Vaughan of Golden Grove, Philipps of Picton, Mansell of Middlescomb, &c. In short, it enjoys one of the most ancient and distinguished lineages in the kingdom; and possesses, like many other families in England and Wales, as clear a right to the rank and title of nobility as a well ascertained descent can confer.

THE first of the family of whom record has been discovered up to our present writing is—

RALPH DE GULSTON, (or Golston), who is mentioned in connection with the building of Conway Castle, in 1283, Bag of Wales, No. 46, at Westminster chapter-house. The next of whom we have any notice is—

JOHN GULSTON, of The Mewstone, cir. 1300, probably son to the above; by Marjory, his wife, he had many sons and daughters, several of whom are said to have settled near Aldenham, Co. Herts.

Sir Ralph Gulston, Kt., an esquire at the battle of Crécy (26 Aug. 1346), in which he distinguished himself; after the fight he held the helmet of the King of Bohemia whilst the Prince of Wales took therefrom the three ostrich feathers for his personal crest. Presently Ralph Gulston was knighted by the Prince, receiving the small feathers remaining for his own cognizance. As Sir Ralph rose from the ground under the weight of his new honours and the heavy helmet of the Bohemian king, a learned by-stander, in the fashion of that day, punningly exclaimed. "Crescit sub pondere virtus," which has ever since been retained as the motto of his descendants, see Annals and Antiqs. of Wales, by Thomas Nicholas, M.A., Ph.D. Sir Ralph had issue by Mary Crispin, his wife—

EDWARD CRISPIN GULSTON, born 1341; mar. Mary Floyd; issue—

RALPH CRISPIN GULSTON, born 1376; mar. Jane Goldstone, dau. of Joseph Goldstone, esq., (whose son Thomas was Prior of Canterbury Cathedral. See Gostling's City of Canty., 8vo., p. 196), issue—

JOSEPH GOLDSTONE GULSTON, of Leicestershire, born 1402; mar. Cicely Mowbray, issue, besides a son and heir, of whom presently—

Thomas Goldstone Gulston, born 1442; died 1517; known as Prior Thomas Gulston, and held the benefice of Prior of Canterbury for 24 years 8 months and 16 days, see Somer's Canterbury; sent by Henry VII. as Ambassador to Charles, King of France, see Weaver's Monasticon; Gostling's Canty., p. 71; and Glossary of Terms used in Heraldry; Oxford, 1847, p. 264. Weaver has curtailed his epitaph.

JOHN GOLDSTONE GULSTON, elder son and heir, born 1430; mar. Maude Mowbray, issue—

WILLIAM GULSTON, mar. Pricely Yatton, issue—

THOMAS GULSTON, ESQ., of Wymondham, Co. Leicester, born 1475; had issue, by Jane, his wife, a son—

WILLIAM GULSTON, D.D., Abbot and Rector of Wymondham, 1538; born 1495; died 1560; see Weaver's Monas., and Nicholl's Leices.; he mar. Susan Morton, having issue—

THOMAS GULSTON, ESQ., of Wymondham, died 1581; mar. and had issue—

WILLIAM GULSTON, D.D., Rector of Wymondham, in 1584; mar. Elizabeth . . . and had issue, beside John, son and heir, of whom presently—

II. William Gulston, Rector of Wymondham, died 1644, s.p.

III. Theodore Gulston, M.D., died 1632, s.p.; an eminent physician and author, founded at the Royal College of Physicians, London, the Lectures on Anatomy, still extant, under the designation of "The Gulstonian Lectures." He mar. Helen, dau. of George Southerton; she endowed St. John's College, Oxford, with the living of Bardwell, co. Suffolk, and died 1637.

IV. Nathaniel Gulston, D.D., died 1647; mar. and had issue—

a Eustace Budgell, the well-known author, born 1685;

b Rev. Gilbert Budgell.

c William Budgell, M.A., Fellow of New Coll., Oxon., died 1723.

a Dau. died unmar.

b Elizabeth Budgell, born 1738; became the second wife of Rear-Admiral Thomas Graves, issue—William Graves, a Master in Chancery; Thomas Graves, R.N., who mar. 1771, Elizabeth Williams, and in 1794, was created Baron Graves, of Gravesend, co. Londonderry, Ireland, and had issue—(see Burke's Peerage.)

i Jane Gulston, mar. Rev. Launcelot Addison, D.D., whose father, of the same name, had held a living in Westmoreland. The younger Launcelot was a clergyman of good repute, but originally of very slender means. Through the patronage of Joseph Williamson he obtained the living of Milston, near Ambrosebury, co. Wilts., and subsequently rose to the dignity of Dean of Lichfield and Archdeacon of Salisbury. (Tickell, in his Life of Addison, makes him Archdeacon of Coventry). He had issue by Jane Gulston, his wife, six children, of whom the eldest, Jane, born 1671, died young; the second was eldest son—

1 Joseph Addison, the Poet, and Prince of English Essayists, born on May-day, 1672, at his father's parsonage, Milston; educated at the Charter-house, along with Richard Steele, his future friend and literary associate; entered Queen's Coll., Oxford, æt. 15;—when 22, addressed his first published verses "To Mr. Dryden," under date 2 June, 1693;—graduated the same year, but abandoned the clerical profession. Appointed an Excise Commissioner of Appeal and Under Secretary of State; attended the Marquis of Wharton to Ireland in 1709, and made Keeper of the Records there; purchased the mansion and estate of Bilton, near Rugby for £10,000, and retired there after marriage, 9 Aug. 1716, with Charlotte, Countess Dowager of Warwick and Holland, at the church of St. Edward the King and Martyr, Lombard Street, London. In 1713, appointed one of the Lords of Trade, and on the accession of George I. in the following year, Secretary of State to the Lords of the Regency. Died at Holland House, Kensington Gore, 17 June. 1719, leaving issue by the Dowager Countess, an only daughter, Charlotte, who was of rather weak intellect; she inherited, upon her mother's decease, the Bilton estate, and died unmarried in 1797, at the advanced age of about 80. Addison, that polished master of the English language, besides his Poems, Travels, Biographies, and celebrated Essays, left an unfinished work behind him, Evidences of the Christian Religion. His remains were interred in a vault, Poets' Corner, Westminster Abbey. His portrait, ably limned by Sir Godfrey Kneller, (Kit-Cat Club), as also by Dahl, has been popularised by the rendering of numerous excellent engravers, and admirably reproduced, quite recently, by the photographic art.

2 Gulston Addison, younger brother of the poet, born 1673; Governor of Fort St. George, in the East Indies. 1 Jane Addison, see above.

ii Frances Gulston, died 20 Mar. 1704; mar. 16 Sep. 1645, as second wife, to Sir Edward Atkyns, Baron of the Exchequer, see Lyson's London, II., p. 502.

iii Elizabeth Gulston.

We now revert to the head of the family—

Peck, in his Desiderata Curiosa, records one of this Chaplain's sermons during Charles's durance in Carisbrook Castle, preached on Sunday, 12 Nov., 1648, from the text "You shall swear by me in truth, judgment, and righteousness." The Gulston family, in common with others which were strongly attached to the king,

JOSEPH GULSTON, ESQ., of Ealing Grove and Knoll, co. Dorset, eldest son and heir, born in London, 16 VII. 1745; died 1786; mar. 4 VII. 1767, Elizabetha Bridgetta Stepney, eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Stepney, 6th Bart. of Prendergast, by his wife, Elizabeth Lloyd, heiress of Derwydd and Danyrallt, see p. 61. According to Scottish law, Elizabetha Bridgetta Stepney was sole heiress to the honours held by the Ruthvens, Earls of Gowrie; and on the death of her brother, Sir Thomas Stepney, the last baronet, in 1825, all his entailed estates and Scotch honours passed to his grand-nephew (and her grandson), Joseph Gulston, of Knuston Hall. She was born 1750; died 1780; was clever with the graver, and etched limnings of several members of her family and others. Grainger in a note to his 4th vol., p. 140, after complimenting some amateur artists on their productions, thus concludes—"Mrs. Elizabetha Bridgetta Gulston, wife of Jos. Gulston, Esq., of Ealing Grove, Midd., particularly the portraits of Dr. Francis Courayer after Hamilton, and the second which she has done of Mr. Gulston after the same painter." We append from his Catalogue of Engraved Brit. Portraits, Henry Bromley's description of the Gulston examples—pp. 344, 437,—

LETTER FROM MRS. FLORENCE GOLSON BATEMAN, WETUMPKA, ALABAMA

311 Government Street
Wetumpka, Alabama
January 15, 1958

Mr. James M. Black
Salt Lake City,
Utah

My dear Mr. Black:

My sister, Miss Frances Golson, received a letter yesterday from a cousin, Mrs. H. L. Golson, of Fort Deposit, Alabama. She enclosed a letter from you addressed to Mr. W. K. Golson (deceased) and dated September 23, 1957.

My sister and I are very much interested in your search for information concerning the Golson family and shall be glad to pass on to you the information that we have—however, it is very limited.

We have some family records in a Bible that once belonged to my grandfather, John Golson of Butler County and his wife, Lucinda Knight Golson. The records begin with my great grandfather, John Golsan, born Dec. 24, 1782; married May 12, 1803, to Ann Larey, born, July 4, 1785.

If you have not already published your book and would still like to have a copy of our records, we would be glad to have typed copies made for you if you wish to incur the expense.

The oldest records (presumably from great grandfather's Bible) cover four pages and included all of his children and a number of slaves. There are three and one-half pages from another Bible (presumed to be grandfather's Bible) which include all of his children, births, marriages and deaths. Of course we have the records of our immediate family. We are the children of Howell Rose Golson.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) FLORENCE GOLSON BATEMAN

LETTER FROM NATHANIEL C. BULLOCK TO DR. LEWIS T. BULLOCK

GHOLSTON: (Written in 1938)

In Seventeen Hundred and Seventy Nine at Halifax, County of Halifax, State of Virginia, the Last Will and Testament of Anthony Gholston, deceased, was probated and admitted to record, Will Book I, page 270. The heirs at law given were: Wife, Mary - Sons: John, Joseph and Dabney. Daughters: Eunecy, Seuky, Sarah Powell, Ann Flemin, Mary Jones and Betty Jones.

Dabney Gholston, his son, was born in Halifax County, Virginia, and received his early education in that State. Tradition says that he came to Georgia when he was in his early teens. This we know, when the county of Madison was established, soon after, on April 25, 1812, he executed a Power of Attorney constituting and appointing his brother Joseph's wife, Mary (her name was Frances) his lawful attorney in fact, recorded in Deed Book A, page 3 - Clerk's office Superior Court of this county. It is not known where nor whom he first married (married Elizabeth Pulliam); the children of first marriage were: Zachariah, Nancy Sission, Elizabeth Strickland (she was by second marriage), Benjamin, and Leonard Gholston (he was by 2nd marriage). His second wife was Mary Bullock, daughter of Nathaniel and Mary Hawkins Bullock, and sister of Hawkins Bullock, Revolutionary soldier. To this union was born the following children: Nathaniel, Richard, John, William and James (also Elizabeth and Leonard), and a daughter, Harlow Gholston Strickland. The family has been prominent in the development of the business, agricultural, civic and political affairs of the county. Zachariah Gholston served continuously as legislator, 1819-1826. Richard Gholston was for a number of years Clerk of the Superior Court and Clerk of the Court of Ordinary.

James Gholston organized and was Captain of one of the three Companies that went from this county in the Civil War 1860-65, and it was said of him that no braver soldier ever entered upon a battlefield. He married Polly Daniel; was senator from the 30th Senatorial district, 1865-66. None of his immediate family are living in the county at present. A grandson, Dabney Gholston, also organized and was Captain of one of the three companies that went from this county, Civil War, 1860-65; and he like his uncle was a brave and gallant soldier and officer.

Nathaniel Gholston married Bethanie Jarrell on March 10, 1825, - he was a large planter, slave owner, and father of thirteen children who lived to maturity. Sons: M. D. L., Joe, Benie and Bee Gholston, all of whom fought for the Southern cause, War of 1860-65, and all of whom, except M. D. L. Gholston left the State and went to Mississippi soon after the war. Daughters: Mary (Polly) White, Betsy Freeman-David, Bethanie Simmons, Frances Long, Harlow Griffeth, Lou S. Thompson-Bullock, Lou Wynn-Collier, L. Tishie Arnold Comer.

John Gholston and Elizabeth Williford were married Jan. 28, 1826. Sons: W. D., W. W., Jack, and William Gholston. Daughters: Emerly Barnett, Mary David, Hulda Smith and Mit Landers.

William (Bill) D. Gholston and Nancy Daniel, daughter of Capt. James Daniel, were married April 29, 1847. They had only one son, J. P. Gholston, late of said county, farmer, merchant, business man, Representative from this county 1888-89, and State Senator 1892-93. A daughter: Mrs. Mollie Carrington.

Harlow Gholston and Willis Strickland wer married Jan. 18, 1826. Daughters: Harriett Thompson, Mary Groves, Eliza Moon, Salency Strickland, Sarah Strickland, Lizzie McCurdy. One son, K. D. Strickland, late of said county, deceased. Willis Strickland was very prominent in the affairs of the county, having served as the first ordinary for four years, legislator, 1857, 1858, 1859, 1860. (Original records indicate that there are some few errors in some of the above statements JMB).

LETTERS FROM HUGH CLAYTON CULLER, "THE OAKS", ORANGEBURG, SOUTH CAROLINA

Orangeburg, S. C.
April 8, 1934

Mr. James M. Black
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Mr. Black,

Your letter of March 31, received a few days ago, and it gives me pleasure to help you in any way I can in regard to your family history.

I am sending you the proof of a book I published several years ago entitled "A History of the Culler Family." In it you will find all the information you may wish in regard to the descendants of my grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Inabnit Culler. In Chapter III you will find the names of all her children. Further on in the book, an entire chapter is devoted to each of her children.

I am sorry that I cannot give you any information concerning the Golson, Miller, Pou and Stehely lines, except that I could furnish you the names and addresses of several people who might be able to tell you. Mrs. Shellie Robinson, St. Matthews, S. C. was a Miss Golson before marriage. Probably she could tell you something. Mrs. Hortense Smith, Walterboro, South Carolina is a descendant of Col. John Lewis Golson.

My grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Inabnit Culler, had a number of brothers and sisters. Some of them were half-brothers and half-sisters, though, therefore I'll inquire the names of all of her brothers and sisters and send you their names later. I don't know near so much about her side of the family as you do, therefore I am thankful to receive what you sent.

After you have received the information you wish from the proof that I'm sending you, please return it for I wish to keep it.

Sincerely yours,
Hugh C. Culler

Mr. James M. Black
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Mr. Black,

I have been delayed in getting the data for you, but I believe, at last, I have what you want.

My grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Inabnit Culler had only one whole brother and two whole sisters, but quite a number of half brothers and sisters, who were not descendants of Major Lewis Golson.

The names of the whole brother and the two sisters were: Dr. John Inabnit, Drusilla, and Mary Inabnit.

Dr. John Inabnit left here and moved to Texas, about 1840. He returned on a visit about forty years later. He was twice married. His first wife was from Alabama or Mississippi and there were seven or eight children by this marriage. His second wife was a widow—a Mrs. Patterson, who, formerly of Spartanburg, S. C., was on a visit to Texas where they met and were married. There were two children by this marriage: Walker and Hayne Inabnit.

About eight years ago, a son of Dr. John Inabnit, advertised in the Orangeburg papers in order to get in touch with relatives here. His name is Dr. Orville Inabnit, of Corsicana, Texas. He is a druggist of that city. However, he may be dead now. You might write him though. Perhaps some of his relatives will recieve the letter and give you much more information than I could give—the names of the brothers and sisters, for instance, and their descendants.

Mary Inabnit, Grandmother's sister, was also twice married. She married two brothers. First to Dave Riley and their children were Fletcher, Jane, Elizabeth and James Riley. I know the descendants of only one of these children—Elizabeth. She married Sam Boylston. Children: Lura, Brantley and Sam. Lura married Stacy Inabnit. Children: Sam, May, Ethel, Lula, Elbert, Carrie, Elizabeth, Ruby, George and Byron. They are all married and living elsewhere. I think Mr. George Inabnit of Bamberg, S. C. can give you the names of all his in-laws and their children. Brantley Boylston married Betty Spigener. Children: Wesley, Maynard, Harry, and several others. I think Mr. Harry Boylston lives at Blackville, S. C. Perhaps he can give you further information. Sam Boylston: I don't remember whom he married, but I think they have three sons: Clyde, Russell and ———. I think they live at Blackville, S. C. also.

Grandmother's sister, Mary Inabnit, married Daniel Riley the second time. Children: Rhett and Carrie. I don't know whom Rhett married, but a descendant of his, Fletcher Smoak, lives in Orangeburg, S. C. Perhaps he can tell you something. Carrie married George Boylston. A daughter, Mrs. George Hair, of Bamberg, S. C., can tell you about her family.

Jane Riley, daughter of Mary Inabnit and her first husband, Dave Riley, married Postell Golson. Fletcher, her brother, married Martha Golson. James Riley, his brother, died unmarried.

I am told that Mrs. Julia Stack, St. Matthews, S. C. is a descendant of one of these, and that she can tell you quite a bit of family history, although she is very old.

Drusilla Inabnit, Grandmother's sister, married Lewis Robinson. Children: Lulu, Hessie, Pearle, Agnes, Alrona, Ovid and Norman, Jr.

Jim married twice. First to a Miss Gaffney. His second wife was Elizabeth Smoak. Lewis married Lizzie Walsh. Melvin married Cora Houser. Minerva married Ab Wannamaker. Linda married Joe Hooker.

If you care to follow their descendants further, I think the following people could tell you: Mrs. Warren Culler (Hessie Robinson), Orangeburg, S. C. is a daughter of Norman Robinson. Mrs. Edna Felder, St. Matthews, S. C. is a daughter of Melvin Robinson. Mrs. Ed Adams, Star Route, North, S. C., is a daughter of Lewis Robinson. Mrs. Ernest Hodges, Orangeburg, S. C., is a daughter of Jim Robinson.

I don't know any of the descendants of Minerva and Linda Robinson, but any of the above named people, perhaps could tell you.

I won't attempt to name all the descendants of my grandmother's sisters and brothers. In the first place, I do not know them. And, I fear it would fill a volume, if you knew all their names.

I thank you for the praise you bestowed upon my book proof. The book itself has four illustrations, including the Koller (Culler) coat-of-arms. I am glad that it has been written, but, I don't think I'd care to write another. It takes a great deal of time and trouble. But I enjoyed it. I felt it my duty to do so. Only one hundred copies were sold (that was the number published). I sold them at a cost of publication and charged nothing for my services and for the little expense of collecting and compiling the data. I felt it a privilege to be able to contribute that much to the family.

I presume you, too, expect to publish your data in book form. I should like to see a copy of it when it is completed.

If you're ever in this part of the country please call to see me. I shall be glad to meet you.

I wish you success with your history, and if I can be of further service, just let me know. I can surely appreciate to the fullest what you're doing.

Sincerly,

H. C. Culler

P.S. I received the proof last week. Thanks.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOHN PARKER CUNNINGHAM, GARDEN CITY, NEW YORK

103 Kenwood Road
Garden City, New York

Mr. James M. Black
2731 Loran Heights Drive
Salt Lake City 9, Utah

Dear Mr. Black:

You will remember I promised to send some data on my Gholdston and White lines for your book.

Some members of my family have the same fault of not writing promptly as many other people you and I come into contact with while gathering data. I suppose they are involved in other projects of their own.

Since I have a couple of letters from a lady interested in Gholstons of Kentucky, I am sending them on to you to copy the data and if you will return them for my files I shall appreciate it as I wish to keep them.

Also I have from a genealogical research source, in Washington, D. C., the following: (not my direct line however)

1 - A William Gholson was pensioned for Rev. War service in 10th Virginia Regiment S.35966. This William Gholson was in Caldwell County, Kentucky when he applied for the pension July 24, 1820 - aged 62 yrs. and resident of said county. Enlisted 1777 in 10th Va. Line as shown in his original Declaration May 25, 1818 - Rec. pension on original claim - Declaration shows personal property and also that he had rec'd. $30.00 due him from T. C. Gholson. He was a teacher in a small country school — had one son, Richard D. Gholson, aged 16. He died Jan. 2, 1837, leaving one son and one daughter—unnamed.

2 - A William Gholson claimed a pension for service in Va. Continental Line but claim rejected R.4097. Applied Oct. 19, 1842 - Greenup County, Ky., aged 80 — Enlisted 1779 in Va. Line under Capt. Henry Palding and Capt. Jos. Prior in Col. Wm. Preston's Reg. - Discharged 1781 - was Sergeant one year. Lived in Botetourt County, Town of Fincastle, Virginia - was in the battle of Wells Mills and Crossed Blue Ridge at Flower Gap to the Yadkin River in N. C. - discharged 1782 - then moved to Byrant's Station, Ky. to serve as Indian Spy for 96 days - and returned to Va. to help his father move to Ky. - claim rejected and he died Sept. 19, 1843 in Greenup County, Ky. His wife died previously and he had 3 children - Elizabeth Rigg, James H. Gholson and Cynthia Gholson. (James Gholson lived in Lawrence County, Ohio and 2 daughters in Greenup Co., Ky.)

That is all I have on these two families but it may tie in with your data. I had thought that my g.g. grandfather, Zachariah (wife Nancy Gilbert) might have service records in the War of 1812, but none has been found.

Do you have Rev. Service Record of John Gilbert, father of Nancy Gholston the wife of Zachariah Gholston?

Do you know if Jacob Strickland was the father of Nancy Gilbert's mother, Mary Strickland, who married John Gilbert? I believe he must have been . . . . . Thank you again for your help and I hope I can help you in some small way.

Sincerely,

ANNE HARRIS CUNNINGHAM

"Copy of a letter in Wayne County, Kentucky, History:

Monticello, Ky. Sept. 30, 1898

Dear Cousin Mary (Cecil Cantrill):

It gives us great pleasure to get your letter and to know that Mr. Norman enjoyed his trip to this hill country of Gholson memories. You said in your letter sent by him, you wanted us to investigate the dates and records bearing on the Gholson history.

Mr. Norman didn't give me time to make many investigations, he was here such a short time and we were just delighted with him. He is indeed a gentleman, and Ma says he reminds her so much of her grandfather, John Gholson. He was a very dignified, handsome gentleman and had the same culture.

Anthony Gholson came here from Virginia - settled at Steubenville and gave the Baptists a church and burying ground. His bones rest there and we called upon his spirit to tell us all these things you wanted to know, but he slept on and the grass waved gently over his unmarked grave. Isn't that too shabby on his descendants? We met a man who had helped tear down the old Gholson church. He said it was all built with pegs instead of nails.

Anthony G. had a great many slaves and seemed to be rich, though Norman says he was disinherited. His children were Kitty, Dolly, Mollie and Sallie (who died in Va.) and James, John, Benjamin and Sam. John was Ma's grandfather, his daughter, Ann Gholson being Ma's mother. She married Mr. Hussey from Dublin, Ireland and moved to Indiana and Ma was raised there. Kitty married Bartholomew Hayden and their daughter Julia Hayden Buster was your grandmother—Mother to Sara Buster and Cecil and first cousin to Ma's mother, Ann Gholson.

Susan Golson McBeath was sister to Ma's mother — her children are Linna Berry, in California, Sue Madsen, Louisville, Ky., Lizzie Stoddard of Nappa, Calif. and Loretta Huffaker, Wheatland, Calif.

Sam Gholson was very wild and did a great many naughty things and Ma says everytime she inquires about the Gholsons, they tell about Sam.

Micah Taul married Ma's Aunt, Dorothy Gholson, and was the 1st Clerk of Wayne County. He wrote a very fine hand.

John Gholson was out hunting in the woods of Virginia, met a party of girls who were lost. He took them home and one became his wife, a case of love at first sight. She says they were elegant people and wouldn't work, but loved to hunt. I am disgusted for them not marking Anthony's grave. Julia Hayden Buster's mother (Kitty) died and left two children, and Anthony Gholson took them to his home and raised them. Jim Buster, her son, is now in South Carolina.

I am very much interested in the Gholson family — One of my cousins and I sent to Dublin and had Grandfather Hussey's family traced.

Anthony Gholson was the last Trustee this town ever had.

Signed: ADA H.

(I don't know who was the author of this letter — but you see its quite old)

"This is the way I have it — as far as my notes are concerned:

Kitty Gholson m. Bartholomew Hayden.
Dorothy Gholson m. Micah Taul 5/22/1802.
Sallie or Sara Gholson m. Isaac Chrisman.
Mollie or Mary Gholson m. Joseph Chrisman.

There was a sister, Nancy, who attended Dorothy Taul in her last illness, 1827 - Winchester, Tenn. This accounts for 5 daughters. A son John is mentioned. A James Gholson was Captain under Col. Taul at Battle of Thames, Oct. 5, 1813.

There was a private Samuel Gholson in Capt. Adam Vichery's Company - also Ben Gholson is mentioned as having been a clerk for a merchant Joseph Beard - in Monticello, Ky., about 1800.

Sincerely,
Lula Borchardt

P.S. According to the Buster Bible - Julia Gholson Hayden!! I suppose her pet name was Kitty (marriage bonds give her name, Catherine Gholson in Botetourt Co., Va. JMB)

Nov. 5, 1957 - Wed.

"My dear Mrs. Cunningham:

I've found some more notes in my desk which I overlooked when writing you before. I hope they won't add to your confusion - or should I say tend to confuse you? I'm just assuming that anyone interested in family trees find many confusing dates, names, etc.

I think I forgot to mention that in "100 years of Wayne County" it was stated, and correctly I'm sure, that Micah Taul, Joseph Chrisman and Isaac Chrisman married sisters.

Now today I found a note I had copied from a record book somewhere in Kentucky, stating that Joseph Chrisman married Mary Gholson. I do not have the date. I also have this name of a man who is also interested, but I've never written him. I found his query at the Filson library:

James Wood Mayle
5 - W. 65th St.
New York, N. Y.

Dorothy Gholson was the youngest dau. of Anthony Gholson. She was married to Micah Taul late in the year 1801. He was 17 and she was younger. Hence her date of birth must have been about 1785 or 86.

She died in Winchester, Tenn. in 1827. Her sister, Nancy Gholson, cared for her in her final illness.

Nancy would be the 5th daughter, in addition to Mollie, Dolly, Kitty, Sallie. Sallie, I suppose, being the Sarah who married Isaac Chrisman, thus becoming my great, great grandmother.

Micah Taul named the town Monticello for Jefferson's home.

A James Gholson served in Taul's regiment, War of 1812 - probably his brother-in-law.

The letter I have copied was to a Mrs. Mary Cecil Cantrill, Georgetown, Ky., who is also a descendant thru Kitty Gholson who married Bartholomew Hayden.

I do not find a Dabney, perhaps it was middle name of James or Benjamin or Sam.

This is all there is regarding Gholson's in my book. I hope it won't tend to add confusion.

You asked for names and people I may have contacted. Most of my research has been regarding Heydt family, Chrisman and Barrier.

Harriett Simpson Arnow, who is also a descendant of Gholson thru Sara, who married Isaac Chrisman — I have written and visited her mother, but she is so old and it's difficult for her to write — and Harriett is so very busy, I've never written her. She's writing another book now - a historical novel of Wayne County during the Civil War.

Another man is Rev. John S. Dick, Williamsburg, Ky. — but I doubt that he would be of much help — no more than is contained in the enclosed notes.

I'm going to DesMoines to the library soon and if I find anything more I'll send it along.

Time to go to church now, but I did want to get this in the mail. Please excuse handwriting. Better next time,

Lu Borchardt

Oct. 27, 1957

Dear Mrs. Cunningham:

Your nice letter came yesterday, and you know of course, how delighted I was to receive it.

The Gholson line is my latest interest — I have been doing a lot of work on other lines, and they've all been very interesting.

The Joist Heydt line I have back prior to 1700 — he from Strassburg - his wife from France. He was the first white settler in the Shenandoah Valley in 1730. We visited there, Winchester, Va., this summer — a delightful experience. Visiting relatives still in the old homes built at that time was really a thrill.

A Heydt (Hite) daughter married a Jacob Chrisman. Their son, Abraham had a son, Isaac, who married a Sara Gholson (dau. of Anthony) about 1800-1809. I have been in correspondence with a Baptist Minister at Williamsburg, Ky., who is also a descendant and he gave me some information. Do you have access to a library where you might get "A Century of Wayne C., Ky." by Augustus Johnson? In it is quite an account of the family which I will copy and send to you.

My line is from Sara Gholson whose dau. Susan m. a Baptist Minister, Richard Barrier. She was my great-great grandmother. My family came to Iowa right after the War Between the States. I've been interested in family history for a long time, and am now in the process of compiling a sort of journal—am not sure that it will ever be finished.

The fact that a book has been written about the Gholson family is interesting. I'd like to obtain one if possible. . . . . .

Are you familiar with Harriette Simson Arnow, the author of "The Doll Maker" and Hunter's Horn"? She is a descendant too, and I have visited her mother in Ky. on two occasions. Also there was a book "Long Meadows" by Minnie Hite Moody, pub. in 1941, and is the story of the Hite family — a very interesting historical novel.

Today is Sunday and a beautiful Autumn day — the sun is brilliant, the trees are in gorgeous color — have you ever been in Iowa? My husband is a salesman for a packing house. In 3 years he will retire — we have two children, and five grandchildren. Just now I find myself deep in dolls, doll clothes, knitting, etc. for Christmas, which we plan to spend in Dayton, Ohio with our daughter and family. Our son-in law is a Lieut. Col. in the AFC there. Our son is an engineer with the John Deere Company.

Thank you so much for writing me. I hope my information will be of help to you.

Sincerely,

Mrs. W. H. Borchardt

LETTERS FROM MRS. ERMA POU FORSTER OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA

Pensacola, Fla.
Pou Station - Bayshore
July 7, 1934

Mr. James M. Black
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Mr. Black,

Your letter to my father (Frank R. Pou) was received a few days ago. My father died ten years ago, but I believe I can give you as much information as he could in regard to relatives of the Golson and Pou families.

My great-grandmother was Rachel Golson who married John Pou of Autaugaville, Ala. Two sons came to Pensacola, Fla. in 1868: My grandfather, Francis Gavin Pou and his brother Lewis Alexander Pou. Another brother Joe and several sisters, Sally, Clara and others lived and died in Montgomery, Ala.

A daughter of Sally Pou deJarnette, is now living near me here, and I am writing her sister in Montgomery for copies of records of the family out of my great grandmother Rachel Golson Pou family Bible.

When I receive this information, I will copy, and send on to you.

Joe Pou my grandfather's brother who died in Montgomery, has a living son, William Pou and several sisters now living in Tampa, Fla.

In my next letter to you, I will send names, dates of birth and death of the descendants of John and Rachel Pou. I understand these are all in the Bible, I spoke of.

On my mother's last visit to New York she had luncheon with Dr. Robert Pou, the specialist. He told her interesting things of the histories of the Pou family. She also visited Arthur Pew in Atlanta, Ga. He told her he had changed his name from Pou to Pew for business reasons.

It would be the greatest pleasure to me to receive anything you could let me have on our family history.

It is wonderful that you have records that go back as far as 1265 in Spain.

An officer, Lt. Pou, from Spain; called on my father while on a visit here, years ago.

My sister Capitola Pou Scarritt, last year met a Major Golson, U.S.A. He was most sure that we were related to him.

If there are any questions that you would like to ask, I will gladly answer them.

Sincerely,

Erma Pou Forster

(Note: A good many letters followed and a very complete record of the descendants of John Wesley Pou and Rachel Golsan resulted.)

August 9, 1934

Dear Mr. Black:

Am sending this copy from John W. Pou family Bible. It is the only one I have, so will you please return same. You will notice where the date of death of Phillip Gavin Pou — William David Pou, also Martha Whetstone Golsan and Lewis Golsan are different from your record.

Sincerely,

ERMA POU FORSTER

Dear Mr. Black:

I want to apologize for not answering your kind letter of June 8, 1934 sooner. I am myself now working on the history of the Gholston family and am wondering if you will be so kind as to give me the information that you have gotten up.

I have not been able so far to trace the older generation but am able to get the younger ones. Since I have just started this work I have not much on the family but I am in touch with some people in Georgia who are also working on the Gholston family and believe that I can get a lot of information from them.

I am enclosing you a copy of the information I now have and would appreciate any further information that you might have to offer me, and I will give you all the information that I am able to get in the future.

Most sincerely,

(Miss) Maude Gholston

P. S. Does the Gholston family have any sort of Coat of Arms?

(Received much information on this family from Miss Maude Gholston and her relatives, among them, Mr. Thomas M. Gholston, El Dorada, Arkansas)

Dear Sir:

I saw your article in the newspaper about your wanting to receive information concerning family history facts of anyone by the name of Golsan, Gholson, Golson or Gholston. I am a member of the Golson family myself, and I have been eager to know about my ancestors myself.

This is the information my father gives me: My grandfather, James A. Golson, came from the State of South Carolina when he was about ten years of age, accompanied by my great-grandfather and one of his brothers and their families, this was about the year 1850-1852. My grandfather enlisted in the civil war when he was sixteen years old and served two years. My great grandfather's name was Sam and he had a brother named John. My father, Ben, having three brothers Mack, Leander P. and Jim Tom and several sisters, was reared in South Alabama. I have a great many relatives at Fort Deposit, Alabama.

My people tell me that these families of Golson descended from the Dutch. I have six brothers, all in South Alabama with the exception of two which are in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Please send me information from any of these families which you collect.

Yours truly,

MISS EVELYN GOLSON

Dear Mr. Black:

My husband, Lewis, has prepared to the best of his ability information which he feels will help you in your book. In addition, I am forwarding your letter, on to Louise, the sister, in Dallas, asking that she write you all the information she has. Carroll Golsan, also, has only the one child, Betty Jean—but she is married and has one or two children—here again Raymond Golsan could furnish you the information.
Royal Golsan has the one child, Jeannie Lee, who is now married and has one child. I am asking Louise to furnish you with information on birth date, etc.

Louise Golsan White has one child, Damaris, who is now married. I am asking her to forward you information on birthday, etc. here.

Mrs. Lillian Gilmer, nee Lillian Golsan, who is my husband's aunt, and about 80 years of age, could give a great deal of information. Her address—Mrs. Lillian Gilmer, 310 — 9 Court West, Birmingham, Ala.

Rushing to get this in the mail—want one of the books. Lots of good luck to you.

Mr. James Black
Salt Lake City, Utah

Your letter received a few days ago — was glad to get it, but I cannot tell you but little about the Golson's very far back. I expect to see my mother who is 84 years old and very active soon. She can tell us a good deal—then I will write you again. There are a good many Golsons here but all descended from 2 brothers — my Grandfather and his Brother whose names were John & Lewis. I am 62 years old, have 3 sons here, one in Gen. mdse, one in Automobile Business, the other in Gas & Oil & Groceries.

My business is General merchandise and am mayor of the town. I also farm and have got a great big pecan grove. Still it takes my best to make a living. I had a letter from cousin Ida Twombly yesterday which I am enclosing and you will hear from me again as soon as I see Mama.

When this is completed I will be glad to see a copy.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours sincerely,

My dear Mr. Golsan,

I have just received the information from my mother and therefore am sending it on to you. I hope this may be of some help to you, and also that I may be able to get in touch with all information regarding my family—you see I have three children, and want them to know a bit also about their family.

I therefore would certainly appreciate any information you may give me, or put me in touch with any information I may obtain.

This is my information:

Doctor William Lewis Golsan — (My Grandfather)
Born: North Carolina
Married: Mattie Belle Richardson of Eutaw County, Alabama. They then moved to Fairfield, Texas — where he practiced medicine, and in later life was Postmaster —in Llano, Texas —

Four Children were born to them:

Katherine: married to Col. W. H. H. Miller, an attorney in Austin, Texas.
Alice: married to Professor James Richey of Baylor University, Waco, Tex.
Walter Wellington: (my father) married Frances R. Haggerty of Denver, Colorado. (Bond Broker)
Oscar Franklin: married Rossie Green, of Waco, Texas. (Newspaperman and cattleman, Llano, Texas).

I would like all this information, in regard to being able to join the "Daughters of the American Revolution" — and be proud of these ancestors, that so gallantly fought to make this country a peaceful national for the generations to come — not for the menace of a Red flat — and that is why I am so proud to be able to be of those roots —On my Grandfather's side (both mother's and father's) we are of this dear old country of many generations.

Thanking you so kindly, for all the information you so far have given me, and do express my thanks to your niece, Miss Betty Golsan, for which I am most grateful.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Black:

Just recently I received a letter from Mrs. May S. Engstrom, 63 Westland Avenue, West Hartford, Conn., asking about her possible connection to the Golson family. I attach hereto a copy of her lineage as much as she knows about it.

I would greatly appreciate it if you would see if this checks into any of the data that you have. I have compared it with part of your information that I have, but can find no connection.

The only thing in my data that offers a clue is the Elizabeth Golsan who was one of six children of Charles Golsan. Charles Golsan, who was born after the census of 1790, married a Rumph. Charles was the son of (John Lewis Golsan) . . . . . .

I am inclined to doubt the statement that Mrs. Engstrom made to the effect that Elizabeth Golsan born in 1809 was born in Butler County, Alabama, as that date is before the heavy migration took place. However, there might be an exception. I am inclined to think that while she may have been one of the South Carolina group she may have gone along with another branch of the family.

What is your idea?

Since I last wrote you my application has been accepted by the Sons of the American Revolution, and thus confirms the research made in tying in the Alabama family into the South Carolina family. I am sure that will be of interest to you.

With regards,

Very truly yours,

CAMP — GOLSAN LINE: May S. Engstrom, daughter of Dr. Samuel Jackson Steiner and Charlotte Massey McCall, son of Mrs. Margaret Matilda Camp Steiner and Joseph Steiner, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Golson Camp, born 1809, died 1898, moved to Butler County, Alabama. So I think Elizabeth Golsan must have been born in Butler County (unlikely).

Dear Mr. Black:

I read in the daily newspaper last Sunday that you wish to receive information concerning the Golson family history. I am a descendant of the Golsons of Alabama, also. My father's name was John McNeil Golson. His father's name is William or Willard (Warren) M. Golson. I have forgotten his first name exactly but it is one of the two names. If I am not mistaken he was born in Alabama. If my father were living, I could give you more complete information but as a substitute I am sending you addresses of a few of my relatives. I'm sure they will gladly give you information concerning our family history.

I am also sending some information that I have gathered regarding the history. If in anyway I can assist you through correspondence I will gladly do so. Please write to the persons whose addresses I am sending. Per haps they can help you also.

Office of Registrar April 10, 1941

Mr. James M. Black
349 Hampton Avenue

Dear Mr. Black:

Your letter of March 29 was received some days ago.

I find that Dr. Wyatt Washington Golsan, of Autaugaville, Alabama, graduated from the Medical College of the State of South Carolina on March 4, 1854. He choose "Catamenia" as the subject of his graduating thesis and this may be examined in our library at any time. Dr. Golsan was a member of the committee selected from the senior class which met March 9, 1854 to draw up a letter expressing the appreciation of the class toward those of the faculty who had "so satisfactorily recapitulated the lectures delivered to the class," a copy of which appears in the catalogue for the session 1853-54. Dr. Golsan's preceptor was Dr. J. W. Golsan, of Autaugaville.

I hope I have been able to help you.

Yours very sincerely,

LETTER FROM MRS. HARRIET N. NOBLE, SMITHFIELD, UTAH:

SMITHFIELD, UTAH
MARCH 23, 1955

Dear Mr. Black:

If my memory serves me right, you were in Richmond a couple of years ago, attending a Genealogy Convention. In conversation with you, you discovered we were both working on the Gholson lines.

Enclosed you will find a copy of a letter I received the other day from a lady in Missouri. How I located this woman is another genealogical miracle. At any rate I feel that I should mail this to you just in case. I have long since discovered that every clue is a potential lead and should not be discarded.

Very sincerely,

MRS. HARRIET N. NOBLE

P.S. Should you be interested the lady is Mrs. J. Frank Thompson, 1206 Rollins, Columbia, Missouri. Incidentally, she tells me she is connected with the Historical Society of Utah.

Extracts from Letter of Mrs. J. Frank Thompson:

"Census of Cape Girardeau County, Missouri, 1860;

Louisa " , 23, female, Illinois.

House 1341: Madison Gholston, 25, Farmer, b. Ill.

"Census of Cape Girardeau County Missouri, 1850:

"Census of Bollinger County, Missouri, 1880:

House 193: William Boatner, 70, Farmer, b. S.C., mother b. S.C.,; father b. S.C.
Louise " (2nd wife, nee Gholson), 42, b. Ill., father and mother born in Kentucky.
Charles Boatner, 25, son, b. Missouri.
John " , 11, son, b. Missouri.
Emma " , 9, dau., born Missouri.
Jefferson ") These were other children

"I added these Gholson names just to show you that there were Gholsons there. This last Sarah L., wife of William Johnson, was my step-grandmother; she was Sarah Leasasha Gholson, daughter of John Gholson, born in Virginia. I do not know the county, but I might be able to find out. After Johnson died she married my grandfather, Dr. J. C. Farmer. T. Gholson is Talitha Morton who married John Gholson, Sr., and the mother of Sarah L. Johnson.

"I don't know who the Wilson and Revis people are. I have heard my mother talk of "little Mary," but cannot place her.

"Talitha Morton married John Gholson, and they had this Sarah Lasha Gholson, and John Gholson, Jr., who was Mrs. Tetley's grandfather. This John Gholson married Margaret Ellis and had Sarah, who married a McFarland, and Ellis Gholson, who was Mrs. Tetley's father. You will notice your Louise was born in Illinois; also Harriet Gholston's (sometimes spelled that way) children were all born in Illinois.

"Illinois is just across the river from the Cape. I believe you will finally get them straightened out. There is a woman who used to live at Fredericktown, if I can just find out where she lives, who might know. I will try to find her and also try to get John Gholson's will, and see if I can find Louisa's marriage record."

Mr. James Mallory Black
1137 South 3rd East
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Mr. Black:

Your letter of the 27th came to hand and at present am doing all I can to find out all of Lt. John Lewis Golson descendants, of whom I descended. Major Lewis Golson is my third great grandfather. He is buried within 2 miles of our home; A few year ago the D. A. R.'s erected a tomb in his honor.

Am sending you a name and address of which I think will be of help to you: Mr. Page Golson, 30 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Letter follows.

Sincerely,
MRS. SHELLIE J. ROBINSON

St. Matthews, S. C.
May 5, 1934

Dear Mr. Black,

Enlosed you will find records of Major Lewis Golson and some of his descendants. I have no record of his ancestors, as he came from England here, I have a first cousin now living here, that has an old mortgage written up by the Major and this paper shows that he was before settling in this country some Justice of Peace of the "High King of England".

I have no record of Wyatt and Emanuel, reported here that they must have moved to Louisiana.

Write Mr. Frank Inabnit, Wolfton, S.C., as to Elizabeth and Jacob Inabnit. Also write Mr. Charles Golson, Jamison, S. C., as to records of his ancestors. Write Mrs. F. C. Cain, this place as to Ann Baxter Pou. I am sorry but I cannot find any information as to John Rumph's descendants. If you will get in touch with Mr. Page Golsan, 30 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y. I am sure he can be of great help to you, for he is writing up the Golson family, also, and just recently since advertising your letter he wrote here asking if any one could furnish your name and address, of which I gladly presented your letter to the other party he had written.

I assure you, your letter was a pleasant surprise, and it is a great pleasure for me to furnish you the enclosed information. Regreting very much my inability to furnish all. If I can be of further service to you let me know.

In completing the History please let me know the charges for a copy, as I certainly would like to have one.

If convenient at any time to visit with us, we will be glad to have you.

Mr. James M. Black
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Mr. Black:

About two weeks ago I received your most interesting letter. I am sorry to have been so long in replying, but was trying to get together as much information on Golsan family as possible. I am inclosing original record (of which a part is gone) from Grandfather Gasper Golsan's Bible (Please return to me when you have finished with it). One whole page of it is gone.

You will observe I have failed to give some dates I didn't know, possibly some useless ones, as I know so little about such, but I am interested and hope to hear more from you when you have this work finished. Mrs. Ida Pou Twombly (our cousin) has a picture of some of the Pous, and one of Aunt Rachel Golsan Northington. Mrs. Twombly's address is Braggs, Ala. We have a cousin, Sam Golson, Ft. Deposit, Ala., possibly he might be able to give you some information. All good wishes to you and yours, from

LETTERS FROM EUGENIA SANDERSON WATERS OF MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

Lomax Sanderson
Prattville, Ala.

L. A. Sanderson
Montgomery, Ala.

SANDERSON AND SANDERSON
Attorneys at Law
Prattville, Alabama

Feb. 16, 1937

Dear Mr. Black:

I read your letter in the Montgomery Advertiser and as my grandmother was a member of the Golson family I may be able to contribute a few facts. She was Dora Golson and she married Thomas Sanderson, a planter, of Pintlala — 18 miles from Montgomery. She was born in Ft. Deposit, Ala. This community is made up almost entirely of Golson's and their relatives. The first Golson as far as I know was John Golson, my great-grandfather, who with some others of his family (I think) moved to the settlement of Ft. Deposit, from somewhere in South Carolina. John Golson had a good many children, several of which are still living. Among these are Judge John Golson of Greenville, Ala., Dr. Henry Golson of Ft. Deposit. If you write either of these men they probably can tell you a great deal more about this branch of the family. Miss Netty Miller of Greenville is also a member of the Golson family and can probably tell you some facts. Another well-known Golson is Mrs. Florence Bateman of Wetumpka, Ala., who is a well-known blind musician and there is also Miss Frances Golson and Hunter Golson, editor of the Wetumpka, Ala. newspaper.

A queer characteristic I have noticed about my Golson relatives is the fact that almost all of them have only one good eye. I wonder if you have noticed anything of this sort.

I'm sure you can get a great deal of information from these names I've given you. However, if you don't, write me and I'll get it up for you as I'm very interested in your record. Write me for other information you might need as I probably can find it out for you. Also, I should like information about obtaining a copy of your book.

Yours truly,

MISS EUGENIA SANDERSON

Montgomery, Ala.
September. 18, 1944

Dear Mr. Black:

Received your letter of July 21, 1944, addressed to Miss Eugenia Sanderson — 1264 So. Court St., Montgomery, Ala. I am now Mrs. William Waters but still at the same address. I have often wondered why I never heard any more concerning the book which I knew you were working on and am glad to hear from you and that you are once more compiling the history of the Golson family.

From what I have been able to gather, your information about my great-grandfather, John S. Golson, who married Lucinda Knight is entirely correct. I really have very little data for you except the enclosed chart of my immediate family but would be glad to help you in any way I could. If there is anything else I can find out for you, let me know and I would be glad to try.

I suggest that you contact Mrs. Cecil Hawkins, Ft. Deposit, Ala., as far as I know, she has quite a few records on the Golson family as she is a member.

Hope you will let me know how your history is coming along.

Yours truly,

EUGENIA SANDERSON WATERS

BATEMAN, MRS. WINTON WADKINS

GEORGIA COMPOSERS BY HELEN KNOX SPAIN

MRS. WINTON WADKINS BATEMAN, SINGER, TEACHER, COMPOSER, IS CLAIMED BY ALABAMA AND GEORGIA.

Georgia Park, Ga., has been her home for a number of years preceded by the childhood days in Wetumpka, Ala.

Her musical talent was noticeable even when a small child, and before her twelfth year she was improvising songs and piano pieces for her own amusement, but it was not until she had gone far into the study of the theory of music that she began composing seriously.

After the fundamental training in her home town, she continued her study of music in Nashville, Montgomery and Cincinnati. It was during the years at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, the voice work under Dr. Furry Lulek and Dan Beddoe, composition under Ralph Lyford and Dr. Edgar Stillman Kelley, that she won two scholarships, became a member of the Upsilon Chapter of the Mu Phi Epsilon Honor Sorority, was graduated in voice as a member of the artist class of Mr. Beddoe, and received the honor of being awarded a diploma in composition.

She won with her "A Spring Symphony", while in manuscript, the $100. prize offered by the Ohio Music Teacher's association.

She was concertized throughout the East, West and South.

There were four valued influences in the earlier days of her career, that of Walter Golde, eminent coach; John C. Freund, founder of "Musical America"; Mr. Coghill, music publisher; and Will Allen Dromgoole, poet. Her mother, Mrs. Howell Rose Golson, was her constant companion. Romance played a beautiful part along the way for Florence Golson was married to her childhood sweetheart, Winton W. Bateman, soon after her graduation.

Mrs. Bateman continues to use her maiden name when writing. She composes mostly for the solo voice and choruses for women's voices. Her songs are in great demand in England as well as the United States.

Her published works are: "Rest". "The Bird with a Broken Wing", "Little Boy Blue", "A Message", "A Kiss from Columbine"; among the choral works, "A Spring Symphony", "Night"; Piano pieces. "Perverse", "Pensice", and "Gay".

Her hobby is music—to write music, to sing music, to play music. She finds a fascination in home-making, reads incessantly, likes dancing and the theater.

FORSTER, ARTHUR E.

NAVY HONORS A. E. FORSTER

MASTER MECHANIC LAUDED BY CAPTAIN (PICTURE)

Arthur E. Forster, master mechanic of the overhaul and repair department at the Naval Air station, received a letter of commendation for his 30 years' service Monday from Capt. R. K. Gaines, commanding officer of NAS.

The commendation was presented at a special ceremony staged in Captain Gaines' office at 11:30 a.m.

Forster became a civilian employe of the Navy in 1916 and became master mechanic in 1919. He has watched and helped the naval air service grow from flying box kites to the modern streamlined jets.

In his letter of commendation Captain Gaines wrote:

"Your continuous service for over 32 years as a civilian employe, 30 years of which have been as a master of the overhaul and repair department, is a record of achievement of which you have every right to be proud—it is a record which has been unequalled by any other master throughout the service, and the navy department owes you a debt of gratitude for the many splendid achievements which you have contributed to the Navy during your career.

"Among the outstanding achievements for which you were responsible have been your contributions to the civilian training program, including apprentice training, supervisory training, and vocational training. Among the earlier high points of your supervisory career were the supervision by you of the construction of the first airplane built by the Navy at Pensacola, the McDonald 152, and the supervising by you of the assembling of the first Navy blimp at Pensacola, the old ND-1. You were also present and assisted in supervising the installation of the first catapult on a Navy ship, the USS North Carolina.

"Since 1916, when you first became a part of the naval service, our Navy has grown to be the greatest sea-power in the world. By your many years of devoted duty as a civilian employe of the United States Navy you have made an important contribution toward this remarkable achievement.

"Your service has extended through two great world wars in which this station so creditably acquitted itself. This would not have been possible without the whole-hearted co-operation of you and your fellow workers.

"On behalf of the entire naval service I wish to express my sincere appreciation for your long and faithful devotion to duty. "R. K. GAINES."

GOLSON, DANIEL FLETCHER

MR. FLETCHER GOLSON DIES ON MONDAY NIGHT:

Mr. Fletcher Golson, prominent farmer residing five miles west of Autaugaville, died in a Selma hospital, Monday night, shortly after 8 o'clock. He was carried to the hospital, Sunday, when, after only a fews days illness, it was decided his condition was serious.

The death of this good man came as a shock to many of his friends throughout the county who knew nothing of his illness. Only last week he had visited Prattville, apparently in good health and cheerful. Upon his visits to Prattville, he seldom failed to call by the Progress office with his pleasant smile and cheerful greeting, and as we talked with him last week we commented on his long and useful life. His modest nature however, prevented his realizing that credit was due him for the splendid life he had lived—and he always came back with the statement that he felt "it is every man's duty to try to live as near right as possible."

The deceased was born in September 1854, near Milton, and spent his entire life in Autauga County. In December, 1885, he was married to Miss Jessie Bates, also of Milton, and only last month this couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. In addition to the widow, Mr. Golson is survived by two sons, Otis E. Golson of Autaugaville, Douglas Golson, of Jackson, Miss., and three daughters: Mrs. Fred Woodruff, who resides with her parents; Mrs. James Jelks, Pompano, Florida, and Mrs. T. B. Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi.

Funeral services were held from Ivy Creek Church, Mulberry, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

His brother, John Golson, attended the funeral.

FLORENCE GOLSON, ALABAMA ARTIST

The Courier's article in part follows:

"Walter Golde called up the Musical Courier office the other day and suggested that someone be sent up to have a talk with the young and talented American Composer and singer, Florence Golson. The writer was only too glad to comply with this request, for Miss Golson is well known to him, not only by reason of her work and her many enviable successes, but because Mr. Coghill, general manager and director of the publishing house of John Church Company, is an enthusiastic admirer of her talent and has frequently spoken of it in the highest terms.

"Miss Golson is blind. That it is not a handicap, musically speaking, is perfectly clear. She seems to live in a realm of sound, and to be, because the distraction of sight is denied her, all the more sensitive to everything in the domain of music. She composes by making things out mentally, or at the piano, and then dictates them, note by note, to an assistant who writes them down.

"Under the management of Charles Drake, Miss Golson will give recitals during the coming season, appearing as a singer of programs consisting of the standard repertory and partly of her own compositions. She should be successful, for she has a pleasing voice which she uses well, and her interpretations indicate as might be expected, a sterling musicianship."

GOLSON, JOHN BELL AND FAMILY

G R A C I O U S N E S S O F A U T A U G A

A N T E — B E L L U M L A N D M A R K R E V I V E D . . .

By Kate Harris (Journal Staff Writer)

(Four Pictures, showing one outside view of home and three inside views—see family record of John Bell Golsan for two of these).

One of Autauga County's oldest homes is again taking its place in gracious living—the result of the work and dreams of a young couple who "couldn't bear to see the old place run down."

Mrs. Phillip Gidiere, the former "Bobby" Johnson, whose grandfather, John Bell Golson, bought the magnificent ante-bellum structure from John Alexander in 1894, is the third generation of her family to reside in the house.

Located a few miles east of Prattville on the Robinson Springs School Road, the home, approximately 140 years old, is known throughout the area for its unusual obseratory atop the third story.

Offering a generous view of the surrounding country-side, the observatory, according to stories of the period, was built so that the first owners, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Pope, would have an unbroken view of their plantation fields and slaves working in them.

The house originally was built on the Henry Wilson Place at a date between 1815 and 1820, but around 1832 was moved six miles east to its present location.

In 1880 the house and plantation were sold to Alexander, who in turn, sold it to Golson.

When the property was inherited by Mrs. Gidiere's mother, Mrs. O. A. Johnson, who was settled in New Orleans, she had no thought but to put the house on the market.

About that time, however, Gidiere, who was in the real estate business, but had been serving a stint in the service, returned home.

Realizing immediately the value of the place, he bought it from Mrs. Johnson, and he, his wife and son, Bill, Jr., moved to Prattville. Mrs. Johnson now also lives with them.

"It was in a sad state of decay, "Mrs. Gidiere remembers. "A portion had been rented to persons who carelessly let the logs roll out of the fireplace one day and burn a hole through one of the floors. The house just needed everything done to it."

That was 10 years ago and today the Gidieres, though still with many plans not yet completed, have done wonders in restoring to the place its former grandeur.

Photographs show: One of the Gidiere's registered Weimaraners before the living room hearth, the mantle of which is hand made and has been said by an architect to be one of the most authentic in this section.

Prize package of the place, however, is a rare, circular unsupported staircase, three stories in height.

Bill, Jr. (in one picture) looks over a map, published in 1852, which was found in the attic and shows the United States territories.

Upper left (picture), the house exterior. Many of the original windows are still intact. Imprints on several of the panes are said by older members of the family to have been made by leaves that fell on the warm glass when it was put out to dry under the trees by slaves.

The entrance door, decorated above, by 13 handmade glass panels representing the 13 colonies, was once barricaded with a heavy iron bar at night. Rooms are 22 by 22 feet and the central hall is 44 by 14 feet. Interior walls are of solid plaster a foot thick.

Extensive remodeling is under way on the second floor in quarters now occupied by Mrs. Johnson. The third floor, undivided by walls, was used in early days as a banquet hall and ballroom. Floors throughout the house are heart pine in random width boards.

GOLSON, HOWELL ROSE AND FAMILY

A HISTORY OF WETUMPKA By Elizabeth Porter

In 1896 there came to Wetumpka a gentleman who coined the phrase, "Watch Wetumpka Grow," and who did his part to make Wetumpka a growing town. Howell Rose Golson came to Wetumpka from Lowndes County. However, he was born in Elmore County in 1857, having moved away quite young. He was engaged in the law practice in Fort Deposit and continued his practice of law when he came here. In 1898 he bought The Wetumpka Democrat and changed the name to The Weekly Herald. About 1930 the named was changed to The Wetumpka Herald. He was, as far as is known, the first publisher of a weekly newspaper to have a modern linotype machine. Mr. Golson was a very strong Democrat and was a leader in his party. He had many friends who grieved deeply when he, in an automobile accident, met his death on September 21, 1916.

His daughter, Miss Frances Golson, who had inherited his talents as a newspaper writer and his executive ability as a publisher, took over her father's work and became editor and publisher of The Wetumpka Herald.

In 1932, Miss Golson sold her interests in the paper to her brother, Howell Hunter Golson. Hunter Golson had studied law, but his love for newspaper work finally caused him to adopt the newspaper work as his life's profession. He began to edit The Abbeville Herald in 1918. From Abbeville he went to Birmingham where he established The Birmingham Independent, but on Miss Golson's decision to sell The Wetumpka Herald, he decided to buy this newspaper and come back to Wetumpka to make his home. His wife was a great help to him in all of his work, as she, too, was interested in newspaper work. Under Mr. Golson's management The Wetumpka Herald and The Wetumpka Printing Company became an outstanding newspaper and newspaper plant, doing much of the State printing work.

In 1936, Winton W. Bateman, and Mrs. Bateman, the former Florence Golson, returned to Wetumpka from College Park, Georgia, where they had resided since their marriage in 1923, and Mr. Bateman and Miss Frances Golson bought a half interest in The Wetumpka Printing Company, publishers of The Wetumpka Herald. Mr. Bateman became business manager of the company. He devoted much of his time to the management of the business details, and by his affable manner won many friends for the paper. Mr. Bateman became seriously ill in 1941, and in June, 1942, death came to him.

William H. Golson, the son of Hunter Golson, gave up his work as Editor of the Tallassee Tribune and came to Wetumpka to become associated with his father in the newspaper work. This association continued until his father's death in May, 1946. Hunter Golson carried on the traditions of his father in the newspaper work and now William H. Golson is carrying on the traditions of his father in the work.

A new stream-lined plant has, within the last few years, been built on the hill on which Hunter Golson had planned to build. The Wetumpka Herald, now more than a half century old, is something in which each citizen of Wetumpka feels a deep interest and pride in the high standards maintained by this newspaper family, each one gifted in the work. At the time Miss Frances Golson was editor, she was the only woman in the State editing a newspaper. She was highly complimented by her colleagues for her outstanding work as an editor and as a worthy member of "The Fourth Estate."

GOLSON, MISS MARGARET

BIRMINGHAM GIRL IS ENGAGED A NEW YORK SOLOIST (PICTURE)
MISS MARGARET GOLSON

Word comes from New York City of the success being attained in that city by a Birmingham girl, Miss Margaret E. Golson, who has just been engaged as soprano soloist of St. Andrew's Church, where Theodore Beech is the organist. Miss Golson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert P. Golson, of Bessemer; graduated from the Sophie-Newcomb College of New Orleans with the degree of Bachelor of Music, and taught for two years at Ensley High School. She also studied here with Walter Vaughan and is now studying under Oscar Seagle in New York. Her remarkable progress is best proved by the fact that this large and fashionable Fifth Avenue Church has selected her as its soprano soloist.

BESSEMER ARTIST WILL BE HEARD IN SONG RECITAL AT HER NATIVE CITY (PICTURE)

Margaret Golson will have home coming after two years of study. There is more than mere sentiment in the home-coming of Margaret Golson, to her native city, Bessemer, where this talented young woman will give a concert Thursday evening for the benefit of Trinity Episcopal Church. For there is pride, and a pardonable amount, too, if you should ask, in this fair daughter of Alabama, whose forbearers have been a part and parcel of the growth of Birmingham's twin sister since its beginning.

Margaret Golson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert P. Golson, is also the niece of Mrs. Isaac Perkins and Mrs. W. H. Dennis, and she is a cousin of Mrs. Maurice Lackey, now of Mobile, formerly of Bessemer and Birmingham . . . . . .

GOLSON, MOUNT E.

MOUNT E. GOLSON KILLED IN ACTION

Telegram Announcing Death Received by Parents Here Last Friday.
Met Death on September 15th.

Last Friday, Dr. R. M. Golson, of Prattville, received a telegram from the War Department announcing the death of his son, Mount E. Golson, who was killed in action in France on September 15th. No further particulars are at hand.

This young soldier, the champion of American Liberty, was born 22 years ago, on the 21st of last August. He enlisted in the army on June 13th, 1917, and was trained at Fort Oglethorpe. He went to France with the regular army and served his country bravely. He saw clearly his duties of life and faced them fearlessly—a martyr to German ambition and cruelty. "A greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his friends."

Our boys are making the supreme sacrifice and are trying to follow in the footsteps of Him who made the greatest of sacrifices to save the world.

The deepest sympathy of hundreds of friends are with Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Golson, in the hours when they so keenly feel the sorrows of the great war.

CARD OF THANKS

Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Golson ask the Progress to express to their many friends their appreciation for their kind and sympathetic expressions in their great sorrow over the loss of a son in France.

GOLSAN, LIEUTENANT ROBERT GASPER

Died at the residence of his mother in the neighborhood of Autaugaville, Alabama, on the evening of the 24th October, 1862, of a fatal wound received in the battle of Boonesborough, Lieut. Robert G. Golsan, aged 24 years, 8 months, 5 days.

Thus has fallen a martyr to the cause of Southern liberty and independence. Another of the good, the gifted and noble of the sons of Alabama, in the springtime of his youth, and in the bright career of his fame and usefulness. At first call of his country for volunteers to meet and drive back the ruthless and sanguinary invaders of our beloved South, young Golson was among the first to enroll his name as a volunteer in Autauga Rifles, 6th Regiment Alabama Volunteers. The deceased was elected 3rd Lieutenant of his company, which office he held at the time of his death. He was wounded in the battle of Seven Pines, but had so far recovered as to be able, in absence of General Pou, who was wounded and disabled in the fearful and bloody battle of Boonsborough, until he received the fatal wound that has consigned him to a soldier's honored grave.

It is truly melancholy and heart rending to witness the sad havoc made among the gallant youth of our own land, the flower of the country, by this unnatural and unholy war, forced upon us by a blood thirsty relentless and despotic foe.

Robert G. Golsan was one among the best and most promising young men of the country by his hightoned and chivalrous bearing, blended with the kindest and most courteous manners. He was not only respected, but beloved by everyone who formed his acquaintance; in every relation of life he discharged his duties faithfully. As a son he was dutiful, as a brother he was affectionate, as a friend he was kind, cordial and considerate, as a soldier cool, brave, and undaunted, and he has nobly illustrated his valor and patriotism by pouring out his life's blood on the ensanguined battlefield in defence of our homes, alters, rights and firesides of this country. But, with all his high and noble qualities as a man and a soldier, he is gone to the silent grave, and sleeps that sleep that knows no waking until the resurrection morn when the trump of God shall wake his slumbering dust, and bid his body rise and bloom through ceaseless ages of a vast never ending eternity. Etc.

GOLSON, WILBERT PENDLETON

We regret exceedingly that owing to the illness of our publisher, we can only give even this week, a cursory notice of the lamented death of Will P. Golson, which sad event occurred at his home in this town last Saturday evening, December 20, 1884. He was engaged in North or South Carolina in connection with his agency of the Pratt Gin Company at the beginning of the fatal attack, which has left, sore and desolate, many hearts that loved and admired him.

The deceased was a son of Judge Wyatt G. M. Golson and was born and reared in the county of Autauga. About ten or twelve years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Nora Whelan, who as his devoted wife, together with three or four children, survive him.

At one time the deceased was clerk of the Probate and county courts during his father's administration as Judge of said courts. He was then clerk of the Circuit Court and afterwards County Solicitor. It may be truly said of him that he faithfully fulfilled every public trust and brought no reproach upon his good name as a true and capable officer. Whatever praise may be awarded to him in his relations to the public, may be certainly emphasized in his character as a private citizen. He was a true man in every walk of life. He was ever true and manly as a son, as a brother, as a husband and as a father. Now that he has gone we shall regret his loss for a long, long time, but by none so much will he be missed as by his little family, to whom he was attached by ties stronger than "hooks of steel". We tender to his bereaved wife and stricken children, besides to other relatives, our sincere sympathy in the great calamity which has especially befallen them.

The deceased was a valued member of the masonic and Knights of Honor fraternities in this town, and all mourn the loss of his fraternal cooperation and companionship. Etc.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY DR. WYATT W. GOLSON BEFORE THE INDEPENDENCE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY (He was President of the County Agr. Society):

Ladies and Gentlemen: —

You have heard an able address this evening on agriculture, by Major Cory, and as we have enlisted ourselves in the cause of this noble calling, we should be wide awake, and learn and teach all we can on the subject, for by agriculture all the hungry of all classes have to be fed, and all the material for clothing have to be produced by the agriculturalist; hence a great responsibility rests upon us as a class. God has said, "the world shall be peopled," and who can prevent? It will be so, and mother earth, by science and knowledge, must be made more productive. Gold has gifted us with investigating minds, and we should use our efforts to make improvements in every way and style of economical agriculture. By uniting we can speedily arrive at the acme of style and plan. All of our soil will be needed sometime in the future to support the world, therefore we should now commence plans of leveling and saving our soil. The grand support of the World can be made with a great deal less and more pleasant labor. We should unite our efforts to discover the plans. There is no better way than forming ourselves into societies. The better plans we construct, the more time we will have for mental culture, and the more mentality and sociality we have amongst us, the happier people will be and the nearer christians we will become. We should try all things that look reasonable, and hold fast to that which is good and report to our brethren when we meet. I am satisfied if we all strive to do our duty, gentlemen, the day of our future meetings will be looked forward to with pleasure. All will be glad to relate their experiences in matters that they know will improve their brother farmers. There is no telling the amount of good that will result from faithfully carrying out the intent of our organization. Some members are more successful in some things pertaining to agriculture than others are. Let those who are wiser in one thing than others are, impart their wisdom to them, and all will be wise alike. We have some as good farmers in our midst as can be found anywhere, and we desire to learn their plans. Let us not cease to strive, gentlemen, until we succeed with any and excell most of the sections. We have a variety of soil adapted to most anything. Our part of the county is held in derision by a few people who are ignorant of its real worth, though it has been highly favored by divine providence. Scarcely anything that is needful for man or beast and pleasant to his eye, but what can be produced on our lands. I can see nothing but blessings around us. Our children are endowed with bright minds; all have plenty of brains and all that is needed is to cultivate them, and it devolves upon us to do it in the right way. The farmers need more education than any other class of men. They need not a parrot-like kind of literary education, but one of pure natural science; common-sence science. You, gentlemen, are far above average men in intellect. All you have to do is use it with confidence. I know what I speak. Be bold and teach one another what you know. Your meetings here will soon rid you of the excitement and embarrassment of speaking to an audience, and all will be emboldened to tell what they know.

The body for investigating fruit, of which I am a member, is making active efforts to be prepared to make an accurate and instructive report on the subject, which I trust will prove to be of some value in the future. I insist gentlemen, upon every member doing his full duty. I know we will be much benefited thereby. I have several plots which I have arranged for experiment. I am keeping my plans that I may report the success of each.

Now gentlemen, may we all be crowned with success in all our efforts to do good, and all have peace and plenty at the close of the year, and I trust that we may feel that we are bettered by our organization, and in the future we may hand down something good to our children, resulting from our uniting in brotherhood here. As we have commenced in the right way and spirit, so let us continue, and never think of failure. I am determined to use all my influence and efforts to make it a success. May that be the determination of you all, and I hope there is a brighter and happier day for us all, when life will be more pleasant and our troubles few; our children will then love home, and family ties will not be broken, whole families and neighborhoods will be united, there will be no tears for the departing one for all will love home; children, and neighbors will linger around the hearthstone, and all will be friends of long ago.

GOLSON, JUDGE WYATT G. M.

DEATH OF JUDGE W. G. M. GOLSON

Our community was very much shocked on Sunday evening last, when it was announced that this well known citizen of Autauga was dead. Although it was generally known among his friends that his health for the last several years was somewhat impaired and precarious, yet the suddenness of the fatal attack which bore him from the scenes of earth, made the sad intelligence particularly startling and poignant. Judge Golson had about seen his "three score and ten" when he took final leave from the shores of time, having, we believe, been born in Autauga county and spent the most of, if not all of his entire life in its limits. He was a man of great courage, strong convictions and indomnitable determination, but, withal, his heart possessed much of the milk of human kindness. Among the memories which will survive him will be many grateful recollections of kind words spoken and generous deeds done by him. The remembrance of these causes sincere sorrow, in contemplation of his death, among a large number of relatives and friends.

The deceased was a leading and influential member of the Republican party, by whose suffranges he was made Probate Judge of Autauga County, which office he held from 1868 to 1874. He subsequently filled one term in the Senatorial branch of the General Assembly of the State, and only a short while ago he served for a brief period as United States Marshal for the Southern District of Alabama by appointment of U. S. District Judge Bruce. He leaves a wife and several children who lament the death of a kind husband and devoted father. To all the immediately bereaved we tender our sincere sympathy. Peace to the eternal sleep of Judge Wyatt Golson!

The Board of Revenue adjourned on last Monday evening to attend the funeral of Judge Golson.

GRESHAM, TOLBERT

Tolbert Gresham, son of John and Sarah (Golson) Gresham, was born near Autaugaville, Ala., August 18, 1858, and died September 10, 1925. Soon after he was born his father moved into Lowndes county and settled near Whitehall, where Tolbert was reared to young manhood. He attended college at Howard while that institute was at Marion, Ala., and while he was a student there he united with the Baptist church under the ministry of Dr. Hawthorne. On April 14, 1887, he was married to Miss Argyra E. Golson, and to this union were born ten children of whom nine survive.

In 1902, soon after the death of one of his small children he changed his church relations to that of the Methodist church at Autaugaville and remained a faithful member there till death called him to the church triumphant.

He was for several years postmaster at Autaugaville and he filled that position most satisfactory to all concerned. In fact whatever he did, he did it well.

On the morning of September 10, he went to the office, as his custom was, to set the house in order for his day's work. Just a few minutes later his daughter, who assisted him in the office, entered and found him dead on the floor. His work was ended. He had been called from labor to refreshment.

Brother Gresham was a good citizen, a true Christian, one who showed reverence for his Savior and devotion to his church. His home life as a father and husband was beautiful, tender and loving. He so walked before them in a heavenly direction that wife and children may know the way, and walking in his footsteps may meet him where tears and parting will be no more. Good-bye, Brother Gresham. — C. Bates, a former pastor.

NORTHINGTON, SAMUEL

SAMUEL NORTHINGTON BREAKS HIS NECK BY JUMP; DEATH RESULT OF HIGH DIVE

Youth Was One of Happy House Party At The Residence of Mr. J. B. Bell

Samuel Northington, aged 18, the youngest son of Capt. and Mrs. W. T. Northington, met his death last Thursday morning, as the result of a high dive from a bath house in the pond. The accident occurred at 10:30 o'clock and young Northington died at noon, despite medical aid. The young man's neck was broken.

Northington was one of the guests at a house party at the home of Mr. J. B. Bell. Eight or ten couples were enjoying the hospitality of that home, and that morning they came down to the pond to take a swim. All were in the pond, when young Northington dived from the bath house into water about four feet deep. He remained under water longer than his companions thought safe, and when a bubble was seen to rise, Miss Adelaide Bell, his cousin, dived down to find why he had not come to the surface. She discovered that the young man's head was apparently fastened to the bottom of the creek. The body was brought out and carried ashore, when he was found to be motionless and almost dead. Medical aid was summoned and the work of resuscitation was begun, but it was apparent that there was more than simply water troubling the all but lifeless form.

The victim was never able to move a muscle of his body after he was removed from the water, and while he became conscious for awhile and recognized what was going on about him, he could not speak. It was especially sad for the members of the house party with whom he was, but a few moments before, one of the happiest among them.

The family of Capt. and Mrs. W. T. Northington is one of the most prominent in the State. The deceased was a brother of Merrill P. Northington and Mrs. A. A. Walker, of Birmingham, Mrs. J. D. McQueen of Eutaw, Dr. E. G. Northington, U.S.A., of Fort McPherson, Allen Northington and Edward Northington, president and cashier, respectively, of the First National Bank of Prattville, and Mrs. W. F. Huie, also of Prattville.

It was particularly sad for the parents who left town the previous day with Mrs. McQueen for a visit to Birmingham. They were recalled by wire and reached here Thursday night.

The funeral services were held at the home of the grief-stricken parents by their pastor, Rev. W. P. Dickinson of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this place, at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. All the brothers and sisters of the deceased reached home in time for the services. The remains were followed to Oak Hill Cemetery by the largest funeral procession ever seen in this city. The casket containing the remains, as was seen in the home of the sorrowing parents, was literally covered with flowers and floral designs, which had been sent by friends of the deceased.

MOTLEY, ROBERT GOLSAN

R. G. MOTLEY DEAD

Funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon a 4:30 at Ivy Creek church for R. G. Motley, 59, who died at his home near Mulberry, just after midnight Saturday. Mr. Motley is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Motley, five daughters and three sons.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. R. McGlonn with a large concourse of friends present to pay tribute to the memory of this good man.

In the death of Mr. Motley, Autauga County has lost a good citizen. His death coming suddenly was a great shock to all.

— Prattville Progress, March 1927

NORTHINGTON, COL. WILLIAM H.

DEATH OF COL. WILLIAM H. NORTHINGTON

The emotions are enveloped in the profoundest melancholy, the countenance is ceiled in a most sombre cloud, which would not, if it could, give way to the brightening sunshine, the eye is still bedimmed with long lingering tears, which freely swell up as the purest liberations of the heart; while memory, ever true and faithful to her saddest offices, dwells today, and will dwell for many long, regretful years, a weeping hermit at the new-made grave of Col. William H. Northington.

Long before this humble tribute of a sorely stricken heart is seammed by the readers of the Signal, the sad intelligence of his lamented death will have doubtless reached, with its gloomy effect, every home and household in Autauga County. No citizen of the county, for the last thirty years, has been more intimately and prominently identified with its history than the distinguished deceased and now that he is gone forever from life's stage of action, the death of none would cause more wide-spread and sorrowful contemplation of one of those impterious dispensations which now and then ruthlessly strike down the best, the noblest, and the most useful of the members of society. Col. Northington's good name and fair fame were not confined by county boundaries. But in other counties and distant sections of the state, his ability as a lawyer, and his worth and prominence as a citizen, were known and acknowledged, and in many cities, towns and hamlets of Alabama, the sad story of his recent decease has already been told and told again with solemn accents.

On Friday afternoon, last, Sept. 10, 1880, Col. Northington quietly folded his arms in death, at his residence in this city—a loving wife tenderly smoothing his dying pillow and devoted children regarding his expiring moments with filial affection and regret. He had been prostrated on the couch of affliction very nearly one month, with a desease that seemed to at once undermine his organic structure and gradually move him along down the road that leads to "The dark valley and shadow of death." All that medical science could accomplish to resist the fatal attack, was promptly and constantly brought into requisition; but the hour for his departure from this world had come, and realizing the inexorableness of the law which knows "no variableness or shadow of turning", he calmly looked out upon the great sea of eternity, and like a philospoher, without murmur or complaint, prepared for that unavoidable voyage which all humanity must make, sooner or later, from the shores of time.

The subject of this notice was born and reared to young manhood in the State of Virginia. The period of nativity was a little over sixty years ago. Acquiring a liberal education, he early chose the law for his profession, and under the tutelage of one of the proud old commonwealth so prolific of able jurist and learned statesman, he rapidly laid the foundations of future success as a practitioner at the bar, in acquiring a thorough knowledge of elementary law. His ardent temperament and young ambition, caused him to early abandon the home scenes and native heather of old Virginia and seek a local habitation and a name in the then rapidly growing state of Alabama.

About thirty-three years ago he crossed the noble river that forms Autauga's southern boundary. He came a young adventurer, "a stranger in a strange land," with no friend save his own determination to win success, and with no assistance save his own native genius, strengthened by intellectual contact and cultivated and improved by close, systematic study. He taught school for a term or two near the village of Independence, in the neighborhood of which locality he formed the acquaintance of Miss Rachel Golson, whom, a year or two thereafter, he sought and won in happy marriage, and who was the faithful wife of his bosom and is the stricken, widowed mother of his children.

He located in Prattville about the year 1848, and commenced the practice of his chosen profession, that of the law. In this town, he resided continuously from the period of his first settlement here up to the moment of his recent demise. It was here then that he longest remained and passed the most of his earthly days; it was here that he built up his high reputation as a profound, reliable and successful lawyer, and established an enviable character as a charitable, high-toned public-spirited citizen, and it was here that an interesting off-spring of children were born and grew up around him and the beloved partner of his life, and indeed his heart's best attachments and warmest affections, clustered and concentrated in and around Prattville.

As a lawyer, Col. Northington was of no ordinary class. He was careful to obtain a clear in-sight into the nature of a client's complaint. He would then frankly inform him of what he conceived to be the strong vantageground or the week points of his side of the controversy. In all cases and in all controversies, he invariably advised settlements without the intervention of courts and juries, if the same could be accomplished in accordance with the principles of justice and equity. He ever "in his right hand carried gentle peace," and all the yearnings and aspirations of his now troubless heart, were for unbroken, never ending peace—"peace on earth and good will to men." When once engaged in solving and determining a legal question, Col. Northington was a persevering and indefatigable advocate, minute in unraveling details, and yet taking an enlarged and comprehensive view of the entire controversy. He was the very impersonation of respect towards opposing counsel and parties, as well as to the tribunals. He was careful to wound no man's feelings, and he often deeply regreted that warmth of debate was sometimes mistaken for feelings of personal antagonism. His arguments of law and evidence before courts and juries were clear, concise and systematic, often marked, as occasion required, by periods of soul-stirring eloquence, flights of beautiful imagery and specimens of exquisite word-painting, as well as by mirth-provoking sallie of wit and humor. In truth, he was so good a lawyer that he rarely ever lost a case, and retained during his career a large practice and numerous chentage. His absence from his office and our forums of justice, will long be regretted by many admiring friends and vainly there will be a wish to hear again in fervid eloquence, that well remembered voice now sadly hushed in the silence of the tomb.

Col. Northington was never an office-holder or office-seeker, though it was universally conceded that he was blessed and adorned with qualities that fitted him for the occupancy of the highest station of honor and trust. He seemed to be so attached to a strictly professional life, that the blandishments of power and position appeared insufficient to entice him to fields of political strife and preferment. During the year 1876, he was chosen by the popular vote, an elector upon the Tilden and Hendricks presidential ticket, after a most thorough and brilliant canvass of the Fifth Alabama District, in which he made quite a number of speeches of great power and eloquence. At different times his name was very prominently mentioned in connection with an incumbincy of the judicial bench, and at the recent circuit convention held in the city of Wetumpka, he received the next highest vote to that which conferred the nomination upon the Hon. James E. Cobb. It was the ardent hope of many of his friends that the sovereign hand of the people would clothe him with the pure and spotless ermine, and thus verify an opinion very generally entertained where he was best known, that he would illustrate on the bench all those qualities and accomplishments that most dignify and enoble such an exalted position. He would truly have been a Judge "without fear and without reproach" — sans peur et sans reproche.

Viewing him in a non-professional role, there too, is much to elicit admiration and commendation in the character of the deceased. He was one of the most benevolent persons we ever knew, his purse strings being ever loose and his hand being ever ready to respond to the calls of charity and assist the needy and unfortunate. When others dispaired and gloom shrouded with its dark pall the hopes and hearts of all, the sunshine of his ever hopeful disposition came upon us like a gracious benefactor and dissipated with its magic power the enveloping clouds, and brought peace and contentment to the mind. He was a real Chesterfield in all the amenities of refined social life. He was polite to all punctilousness that we rarely see equalled and never excelled among accomplished and cultivated gentlemen. In this, and in many other respects, he was a most worthy example for the imitation of the youth of the country, and indeed, if human society had no other bequest from his useful life, then his gentility of demeanor and suavity of manner, these would establish his claims to the grateful remembrance of mankind.

Nor does this complete the list of his virtues. Our deceased friend was ever alive to the interests of those around him and to the community at large. Unlike the "wretch concentered all in self," he recognized that fact that an individual is but an atom of the general mass, and that a failure in personal duty to the public, would stamp him not simply as a noneuity, but as a real inquiry to his kind. He therefore shrinked no obligation to the general welfare, but was ever ready to advance the social, moral, educational and material status of the people among whom he lived and associated.

But it was amidst his family, in the sacred precincts of home, when surrounded by a beloved and loving wife and children, that Col. Northington's best and noblest nature was displayed. He was all that a kind husband and fond parent should be. For his estimable wife he cherished the purest and most unceasing affection, and towards his children, six of whom survive, his great tender heart went out in one strong, unvarying current of love and devotion. He was never unmindful of the wants of his dear ones at home, and with opened hand he always endeavored to meet their physical and intellectual requirements. What grander moral example is presented in this worldly sphere than that of the true and faithful husband and loving father! It stands out in sublime and transcedent beauty, the most exalted type of a noble and ennobling humanity.

It is in the aggrieved bosom of his stricken family that the loss of Col. Northington is most sorely felt and it is there that his good deeds will be longest treasured. Whatever balm there is in proffered sympathy is freely given by the community to the special sufferers in the general bereavement; and yet how meager a return, how insufficient is it all, to compensate for the heart's desolation occasioned by such an overwhelming calamity! It is doubtless consoling that our good friend did not die without preparing for a state of future existence. Knowing that "this earthly tabernacle" would some day dissolve, he more than a year ago united with the Methodist Episcopal Church of Prattville, and illustrated the piety of a christian brother in a blameless walk and conversation. He wore the white robe of the guiltless character, and when final summons came, we have reason to hope that he was ready to go—to enter "mansions not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Education was with him the dearest scheme, and as President of the Board of Trustees of the Prattville Male and Female Academy, he illustrated for a long series of years his devotion to the intellectual advancement of the county.

But with his character still imperfectly delineated and with many of his worthy deeds yet untold, we must leave him to precious sorrow and to hallowed memory. After all, his noble manhood, as we remember him, stands out in more than alabaster purity and in admirable proportions, far beyond the reach of our humble description. His record, as before stated, is inseparably interwoven with the history of Autauga county for the last thirty years, and in the great futurity, it may be in the dusk or twilight between time and eternity, when the night of death is about to throw its impenetrable darkness over all the scenes of earth, the Genius of Duty will lovingly pause in its farewell flight, to wreathe a laurel for the honored grave of her faithful son, the lamented Col. William H. Northington.

Peace to his eternal repose, and may his noble, disfranchised spirit find a home and resting-place in Heaven.

POU, JOHN WESLEY

It is with regret that we announce this week the death, on Tuesday morning, at his home in Chilton County, of Mr. John W. Pou, who until late years, was for a long time a citizen of Autauga County. The illness which brought his life to a close, was of a long and painful character. Mr. Pou was the head of a highly respectable family, and his children rank with our best citizens. The memory of the good old man will long survive him. Peace to his repose.

POU, CAPT. LEWIS ALEXANDER

A PAPER PREPARED BY CAPTAIN L. A. POU AND READ BEFORE THE AUTAUGA HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19th, 1879

There was intense excitement in Autauga during the early days of 1861. Alabama had passed the ordinance of sessession, and had joined the Confederacy. The Secretary of War had promulgated his proclamation for troops; soldiers were needed, for war must follow. The men of Autauga, patriotic and true, hastily responded to this call. The Autauga Rifles were made up, mostly, if not entirely, from the Western part of the county, and were organized by the election of officers at Independence. The commissioned officers were: T. A. Davis, Captain; W. A. Davis, First Lieutenant; and L. A. Pou, Second Junior Lieutenant; and H. L. Golsan, Second Lieutenant. Of these, each was elected without opposition, except L. A. Pou. The friends of Mr. Ferd Davis nominated and energetically supported him for the last named office (that of second Junior Lieutenant). Capt. Davis retained his position in the company nearly a year, when he received a commission as Surgeon in the Confederate Army. During his service with the company he returned to Autauga and enlisted a large number of recruits, about sixty in all. I recollect that we encamped a few days at Culpeper Court House, Virginia, when the recruits arrived. We were sorry to see them for they were our friends and some of them our relatives, and we knew the terrible hardships that they were to endure.

Lieut. Davis resigned within a few months, because of ill health. His health however improved and he joined another arm of the service. Lieut. Golsan remained at his post until the re-organization was in compliance with the Confederate law, conscripting the twelve months troops for the war. He then returned home and after remaining with his family a short time, he again entered the service, was captured and remained a prisoner many months.

Of the non-commissioned officers, my memory only furnishes me a few, and of these I will only mention our First Sergeant, Robert G. Golson.

Young Golson was polished and refined, honest and true. As he was noble of heart and perfect in his relations as a private citizen, so was his record as a soldier. Eager in his performance of duty, and courageous in the hour of battle, he was promoted to a Lieu-tenancy upon the resignation of Lieut. Davis, and upon the reorganization of the company was chosen its First Lieutenant. He was wounded at the battle of Seven Pines, and immediately upon his return to his company, was mortally wounded, but was allowed the sweet privilege of dying at home. The least we can do is shed a tear over the grave of such a hero.

Etc., Etc., Etc. — The Southern Signal, Friday, Sept. 26, 1879.

Two Navy men stationed at Mainside of the Naval Air Training base were killed Tuesday afternoon when the plane in which they were training crashed approximately three miles southeast of Bronson field. The location is immediately south of the dog racing track. The crash occurred at approximately 1 p.m.

Officials from the office of public information, Naval air technical training center, said the names of the men are being witheld until the next of kin are notified.

Indications are that the crash was from a spin, the release said. An officer was piloting an FNJ-4 type of training plane. One enlisted man was passenger. They were engaged on a routine photographic training flight.

The cause of the crash is undetermined.

POU, COMMISSIONER FRANK ROBINSON

FRANK R. POU, CITY COMMISSIONER, EXPIRES AT AN EARLY HOUR TODAY

(PICTURE)

Widely-Known and Universally Esteemed Municipal Official, Passes Away After Illness of a Week
Funeral be held Tuesday 3 P. M.
Death Mourned by People of All Classes, and Special Marks of Respect Are Shown Memory.

Frank Robinson Pou, aged 58 years serving his tenth year as city commissioner, expired this morning at 3:40 o'clock following an illness of about a week. His death was not unexpected, but when the end came, there were many sore hearts in this city, where the long-time municipal official had made so many friends. For his charities were limitless and his heart was big and receptive to pleas for help in ways that the public never heard of unless friends repeated said acts, as he never spoke of them himself.

Mr. Pou's death caused a half-masting of flags at all points in the city. This was especially true at the city hall, truck houses, city police station, and the colors of the I. L. A. were also suspended in the same way. He was known far and wide by all classes and his death was deeply deplored by them.

Surviving Mr. Pou are his wife, who was Miss Norma Childerson of this city; Mrs. A. E. Forster and Miss Capitola Pou, his daughters. He was born at Autaugaville, Ala., December 15, 1865, and was the son of Francis Gavin Pou and wife, who moved to Pensacola in October, 1868 and who for many years was in the mercantile business here.

The funeral will take place a 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the home at 713 North Spring street, and Dr. I. W. Chalker, a former pastor of the First Methodist church, who is now located at Eufaula, Ala., will preach the funeral. Dr. Chalker has been a lifetime friend of Mr. Pou. The interment will take place in St. John's cemetery. The pallbearers will be as follows:

Active — E. E. Harper, W. O'Connell, Jack Nichols, Fred Milford, M. J. Flores.

Honorary — John B. Jones, John A. Kirkpatrick, Fran X. Carroll, C. W. Johnson, Antonio Bisazza and John Holm.

Mr. Pou was one of the first city commissioners upon the adoption of the commission form of government. In the undertaking business at that time, he became a candidate for election at the very earnest solicitation of many friends. His vote was a great testimonial of friends, and since he received such a larger vote than the other two who were elected at the time, he was entitled and served through the four-year term. He has been a successive candidate since, and lost a year of service when defeated, but he came back the next year and his friends rallied to his support. He was the next commissioner to have contested for the office, as his term would have expired in June of next year and already friends were grooming him for the next primary.

In business life, Mr. Pou never made an enemy. It is a known fact that many funerals were conducted at his own private expense, and his checkbook was rarely kept inactive when appeals were made to him.

The deceased was a charter member of Hickory Camp No. 21, W. O. W. and members of that organization will attend the funeral in a body. Mr. Pou was also a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, the International Longshoremen's Association and the volunteer Firemen's Association.

During the day hundreds of friends have found time to go to the saddened McMillan home at 713 North Spring street, and look upon the features of the man, cold in death, who was so ready in his lifetime, to befriend. Later in the afternoon floral designs began to find their way to the home. Mrs. McMillan is a sister of the deceased.

As a mark of respect, Mayor Bayliss today ordered the municipal building closed for Monday and Tuesday, and all departments ceased activities, the building to open Wednesday morning.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION

All members of the Pensacola Retail Merchants Association are hereby urged to attend the funeral of the late Commissioner Frank R. Pou in a body. Assemble at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Chamber of Commerce rooms.

POU, MISS CAPITOLA

Miss Capitola Pou Weds Mr. Russell Scarritt

Pretty in its simplicity was the wedding of Miss Capitola Pou and Mr. Russell Mallory Scarritt, which was quietly solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. M. McMillan, at 713 North Spring Street.

Rev. Joseph A. Royer, of St. Michaels church performed the impressive ceremony, in the presence of the relatives, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. C. Skottowe, of St. Katharine's church.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Robbye Cook, cousin of the bride beautifully sang, "At Dawning," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Carol C. Webb, cousin of the bride, who also rendered the wedding march. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Rudolph G. Ferguson. She was lovely in a dress of shell pink georgette, with pink taffeta trimming the skirt, and fashioned with a cape effect in the back. She wore a becoming picture hat of pink manne and georgette, and carried a beautiful bouquet of Columbia roses.

The bride had as her only attendant, her cousin, Miss Mattie Mae McMillan, who was gowned in champaigne colored georgette, trimmed with black Spanish lace. She carried a lovely bouquet of deep red American beauty roses.

Mr. Scarritt had as his best man his brother, Mr. Harry Scarritt.

Forming a pretty setting for the taking of the sacred vows was a background of palms and graceful ferns, on either side of which were placed tall white tapers in candelabras, and baskets of artistically arranged pink and white carnations.

The dining room was made most attractive with cut flowers and ferns. Centering the table was the pretty wedding cake around which burned pink tapers in silver candlesticks, and placed at intervals were silver comports of pink and white mints. A delicious ice couse, carrying out the chosen color motif, was served.

Later in the evening, Mr. Scarritt and his bride left for New Orleans where they will spend a week, after which they will return to Pensacola to spend several weeks before going to St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Scarritt is traveling in a striking suit of grey tweed, with which she is wearing a small green hat and green slippers, and other accessories of grey.

The bride is the younger daughter of Mrs. Norma Pou, and the late Mr. Frank Pou. She attended Texas Women's college, in Fort Worth, and possesses much beauty and personality.

Mr. Scarritt, who is the son of Mrs. Agnes Scarritt, is a member of one of Pensacola's pioneer families. He attended the Univerity of Florida, where he took a prominent part in athletic and social circles. Both Mr. and Mrs. Scarritt have many friends who will extend their best wishes.

POU, FRANCIS GAVIN

FRANCIS GAVIN POU

The subject of this sketch, Francis Gavin Pou, was born in Lowndes Co., Ala., July 21st, 1831, and departed this life, July 29th, 1895, at Pensacola, Fla. His parents dedicated him to the Lord in early infancy by baptism; he assumed the vows of the church of his choice, (the Methodist church) later in life. He was undemonstrative in his nature, yet withal, kind affectionate and sympathetic. He received a stroke of paralysis, on the morning of July 18th, and lingered for eleven days, before the summons came. We are satisfied that he was concious of his approaching end, and was prepared to meet his God.

A devoted wife, children, brothers, and sisters, together with a host of relatives, and friends, mourn their loss, but not as those who have no hope. Bye and bye we will join him, and sing God's praises evermore. "Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal."

POU, WILLIAM S.

POU

William S. Pou, the subject of this notice, was born in Macon County, Ala., April 3rd, 1844, and died at the home of his son-in-law Bro. James Nunn, near Autaugaville, April 28th 1898.

At sixteen years of age he enlisted as a soldier of the Cross, and joined the M. E. Church, South, Autaugaville. In the church-militant he fought the good fight of faith to a triumphant finish. In the church-triumphant he must wear the victor's crown of unfading glory. While yet but seventeen years old, he enlisted in the Confederate army, and made a gallant soldier all through the war. He was happily married to Miss Laura C. Taylor, December 14th, 1865, who still survives him. In conversation with one who knew him long and well the writer was informed that Bro. Pou was good as a child, better as a boy, but best as a brave, true, honest soldier and citizen. Kind and gentle, considerate and charitable, he was the best of neighbors. He lived and was loved by all who knew him. Though somewhat reticent, and never pushing himself forward, yet he was ever ready to respond to any call of his community, his country, or his church. His example and influence were for good. His home-life was simply beautiful; his very presence there was a benediction to all. O, how sadly do they miss him; he was so wise in counsel, so wakeful in care, and so beautiful in his devotion to his dear companions, to his only living child, and to his little grand children. They all lived so happily together here. God grant that as an unbroken family they may be reunited in that bright home where parting is no more.

The funeral was solemn and impressive. The cortege was remarkably long. Loving hands covered the mound with garlands of pure white roses. He sleeps in Jesus. He rests in peace. Brother Pou has gone home; peace to his memory.

May the richest of blessings rest upon members of the family, and may God bring them at last into the blissful realms of a heavenly reunion.

POU, CAPTAIN LEWIS ALEXANDER

POU —

Captain Lewis Alexander Pou was born near old Franklin, Ala., Aug. 23, 1836, and died in Pensacola, Fla., Dec. 24, 1902. His parents were John W. and Rachael Pou and his wife Miss Salome Robinson to whom he was married Jan. 19, 1869. He moved from Alabama in 1867 and has since resided here.

He was a loyal son of the State. Being a conservative by nature few radical expressions characterized his speech and no spasmodic extremes marked his career. His strength was well poised and his walk was even tenored, without lapses or breaks.

He enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1861, as a Lieutenant and was soon advanced to Captain of his company. He fell at Seven Pines, pierced by two bullets striking almost simultaneously. Forced by this accident to retire, he rested on his laurels. Possibly no tenderer memory was cherished by him than the fellowship of the dark days of war. But he was ever gentle in mention of friend and foe. He was never bitter towards those once arrayed against him in the strife of martial conflict.

He was the central figure in a large family circle and knew but small if any difference in his devotion. His thoughtful interest in every loved one was characteristic and continuous through all the years of his pilgrimage. The home life was well nigh ideal. And while in this large relationship his hand shaped all temporal affairs the eternal interests were never overshadowed. The kingly advice guided but the priestly presence sanctified all the family ties.

In church his integrity was exhibited nearly a half century. His conversion was clear, he being born of the spirit, near Autaugaville, Ala., at about seventeen years of age. His experience leavened his life until his coronation. He was among the first to join in reorganizing Methodism in Pensacola after the war. He served as Treasurer of the Building Committee of the old, and, later of the Palafox Street Church. He was a subscriber to the Alabama Advocate from the date of the first issue until his death. He supported institutions of the church with equal system and loyalty. He possessed the rare grace of performing his duty well every day in the year and in all the years of his walk among men. He could be depended on; no unknown quantity weighted his walk. The end came suddenly. A stroke of appolexy felled him while walking Palafox street. Kind friends hastened but a few gasps after his body reclined on a couch and his earthly career was closed. His loved ones were well nigh crushed. A pall of gloom seemed to overspread our church and all hearts bowed in sorrowful fellowship with the bereaved. He is at home. Heaven is his "native air." May his prayers be answered in the salvation of every loved one. May she who walked with him in wedded bliss so many happy years be saved by the grace that enriched his life until crowned with him at the great White Throne.

FORSTER, FRANK POU AND DAN TERRY FORSTER

NUCLEAR STUDY PRODUCING REACTOR; COMPLETION ELECTED THIS SUMMER

By Ted Worozbyt

Dr. Walter Connolly has announced that assembly and comments with the newly constructed reactor will be completed early in the summer quarter. The reactor will be for experimental purposes only. The small amount of power obtained, a fraction of a watt, will be insufficient for practical applications.

Minor design problems are being worked out by Frank Forster, graduate student in chemical engineering. The final machine work is being done by Dan Forster, junior in Industrial Management. Technical computations necessary for the assembly were worked out by Robert Davidson and Byrant Brooks, graduate students seeking their master's degrees in Physics.

The construction of the reactor was financed by funds donated by the Auburn Alumni Association who granted the physics department three thousand dollars for the study of nuclear science at Auburn. The AEC has granted API an additional $75,000 for the purchase of equipment for the study of nuclear science. However, details of this grant are not available.

Reactor physics I and II (PS 409, and 410), courses introduced this year in the physics department, will have selected experiments with the new constructed reactor next fall.

SOUTH HIGH STUDENT CHOSEN MAYOR-FOR-A-DAY, MAY 3 (PICTURE)

A new Salt Lake City administration was named Wednesday. Ouster of the regular officeholders came by way of a simple ceremony in the office of Mayor Earl J. Glade when the 11 new officials drew the city's top municipal jobs out of the mayor's hat.

But don't be alarmed. Terms last only for one day. The new city officials, who will take over their posts next Thursday at 9 a.m., comprise members from the city's four high schools.

The one-day rule is a feature of the 1951 observance of Boys and Girls week in Salt Lake City.

BLACK, JAMES MALLORY

ELDERS LEAVING FOR MISSION FIELDS (PICTURE)

A FAREWELL TESTIMONIAL in honor of James Mallory Black, son of James B. Black and Ethel Golsan Black, 1137 Third East, will be held in Liberty Ward Chapel, Denver Street and Harvard Avenue, Sunday at 6:30 p.m. prior to his departure for the Southern States Mission. An excellent program has been arranged.

SOCIETY ADDS MICROFILM EDITOR

JAMES M. BLACK HAS BEEN APPOINTED EDITOR IN MICROFILM DEPARTMENT OF GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY (PICTURE)

A Microfilm Editor has been added to the staff of the Genealogical Society to supervise the rapidly expanding department, officers of the Society announced today. He is James M. Black, long-time employee with the Society and a microfilm photographer.

Elder Black has been working with the Genealogical Society since 1933. He was a photographer for a commercial studio for two years, studied at the University of Utah, and spent two years in the Southern States Mission, returning in 1937. From that time until the present he has been with the Society.

His work has taken him into Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and other localities, and he has also been on the library staff in Salt Lake. He began photographing in 1940 and except for a two-year interruption during the war, has been working in that department ever since.

Under his editing will come the work of microfilm photographers now operating in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Denmark, Holland and England. Plans are also underway for microfilming in Norway and Sweden and permission has been given for the photographing of all national archives records in Wales.

"Films being kept for record in the library have to be good, "Elder Black explained, "and for this reason editing is necessary." The position is a new one for the society and the rapid expanse of microfilm operations during the past few years has made it necessary to appoint such an editor, it was explained.

Millions of pages of information can be filed in the microfilm library on one small shelf that would only handle a few thousand pages in bound volumes. On 100 feet of film often as many as 1200 pages can be photographed at the rate of more than 5,000 pages per day. The saving in space is tremendous.

Elder Black will leave shortly for a tour in the east where he will organize work in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Elder Archibald F. Bennett, secretary to the society, has been touring in Europe for the past few months, and with his return, microfilming in Europe may be increased.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY NEWS — HIGH STANDARD

James M. Black, microfilm editor for the Genealogical Society, is in England supervising microfilming of important records. He has been there a month. Purpose of the trip is to assure an excellent standard of microfilm negatives, and to insure a high standard for all European microfilm projects, officers have explained.

While in Europe Elder Black will tour all countries where necessary, with a commission to assist microfilm operators. Microfilming projects are now being carried on in England, Holland, Norway, Denmark, Wales and other countries, with permission recently received to do some filming in Italy.

Every effort is being put forth to insure the highest possible standard in microfilm, officers have pointed out.

MICROFILMING OF ITALIAN RECORDS BEGINS

Microfilming of Italian records began during the week, according to information received from Europe by the Genealogical Society. Archibald F. Bennett, secretary to the society, is now at Piedmont, Italy, where headquarters for the operations have been established. Permission has been granted to have all records shipped to these headquarters for copying, and Elder Bennett reported that there are records from 17 protestant parishes to be photographed.

Records being microfilmed are the earliest Protestant records in Europe, known as the "Vaudois" records. The first parish has already been completed, and consisted of 118 volumes.

James M. Black, microfilm editor of the Society, is doing the microfilming, after having flown from London to Switzerland with the proper equipment. Here he met Elder Bennett and the two proceeded to the Piedmont valley to work on the Italian project.

Elder Black will remain in Italy until the project is completed, but Elder Bennett is scheduled to return to Paris by Sept. 10. President and Mrs. James L. Barker of the French Mission accompanied the two society representatives into Italy.

MILLIONS OF RECORDS MICROFILMED IN EUROPE

Film From Europe Now Available for Study
James M. Black, Microfilm Editor and Archibald F. Bennett, Secretary, Inspect Shipment of Film (Picture).

Gratifying progress has been made in microfilming in Europe, and record-copying opportunities there are almost unlimited, according to reports submitted November 9 to the board of Directors of the Genealogical Society.

Elders Archibald F. Bennett, secretary, and James M. Black, film editor, just returned from an extended assignment in Europe which took them into 11 countries, presented facts to show that archive officials in all these countries are now highly favorable to the record projects of the Society, and are now giving them their wholehearted cooperation, frequently aiding in the selection of those records of greatest genealogical value.

In England, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Holland, Germany and Switzerland filming of such records is steadily proceeding; the Vaudois registers of 16 Protestant parishes in Piedmont, Italy, have been copied.

Official permission is in hand to reproduce precious collections in Belgium and France.

OUR NAVY'S NEIGHBORS

After serving an apprenticeship in the patternmaker's (wood) trade in New York City, and working a number of years in Brooklyn, and for a short time in the Brooklyn Navy Yard (1916), A. E. Forster, Master Mechanic of the Overhaul and Repair Department, was offered a position at the Naval Aeronautics Station, Pensacola, Florida, as Patternmaker, maximum, on a two weeks' trial basis. This offer stipulated that if he were not found qualified, he would be reduced in rate of pay or discharged. Under these conditions, Mr. Forster reported for work in the Joiner Shop on 15 May 1916.

In August 1916, Mr. Forster was assigned temporarily as supervisor of the Joiner Shop. After competitive examination, on 1 May 1917, he was promoted to Quarterman, Woodworker, and on 24 December 1917, he was promoted to Foreman, Mechanic.

On 18 February 1919, Mr. Forster was promoted and appointed to his present position of Master Mechanic; and on 18 February 1949, he completed his 30th year in this position.

Throughout Mr. Forster's years of service he has seen tremendous changes in the station and in the Overhaul and Repair Department. As ranking senior civilian supervisor of his department he has been either directly or indirectly responsible to higher management for the overhaul, repair and assembling of the different types of naval aircraft that have been used in the training of the world's finest aviators.

Throughout these years, he has been closely affiliated with and responsible for the accomplishment of many of the major objectives of the station and of his department, a few of which are as follows:

The Apprentice Training Program; Original aircraft inspection system on the station; Relocation of the USS Massachusetts to its present position at the entrance to Pensacola Bay; Moving of the Overhaul and Repair Department into Building 604; Supervising construction of the McDonnell plane No. 152 which was the first airplane built by the Navy at Pensacola; Supervised and assisted the contractor, The Connecticut Aircraft Company, in assembling the first Navy blimp at Pensacola which was known as the ND-1; Assisted in the installation of the first catapult on a Navy ship, the USS North Carolina; Responsible for the establishment of the original Supervisory Training Program in his department, and served in an advisory capacity while it was in process; Raising and repairing of the tug Alleghany after it had sunk as the result of a collision with another naval ship.

Mr. Forster has seen naval aviation grow from its infancy to its present magnitude. He personally knew the majority of the Navy's first aviators, and recalls many of the "first" accomplishments made by naval aircraft and naval aviators.

Over and above his supervisory duties, he has been delegated numerous additional duties. He was first appointed as a member of the Board of Civil Service Examiners on 16 April 1919. During World War II, Arthur E. Forster was appointed by the Governor of the State of Florida to the State Advisory Board for National Defense Training. In this capacity, he traveled throughout the state assisting in the formulation and establishment of vocational training programs.

The records reveal that Mr. Forster has held the appointment of Master Mechanic longer than any other person in the Naval service today. As early as 1910, A. E. Forster was interested in aviation as a result of his basic trade, Wood Patternmaker. With other associates of his trade, a group was formed, which constructed several early airplanes (1910-1911). One of these planes was capable of flying—a remarkable feat in those pioneer days. This plane was exhibited in one of the New York State County Fairs in 1911.

Mr. Forster, a man of sincere intentions and high integrity, holds the respect of all who know him. It has been said of him, "If you have a project and want to know if it can be done, see Forster. If it can be done, he will devise a plan for its accomplishment".

"Thirty years a Master Mechanic." A record that speaks for itself.

THE INDIAN BAYOU CLUB

Posthumous Paper on Pensacola's Famous Hunting and Fishing Organization of a Quarter Century Ago. :-:

By N. B. COOK

In November, 1879, a number of congenial spirits decided to take a camp hunt and fish of a week or ten days on Indian Bayou, which from accounts received, was a fine place for hunting and fishing.

This having been decided on, the good yacht Phantom, Capt. Jack Barry, was chartered, and with little delay, was comfortably stored with a bountiful supply of provisions, bedding, guns, ammunition, dogs, etc.

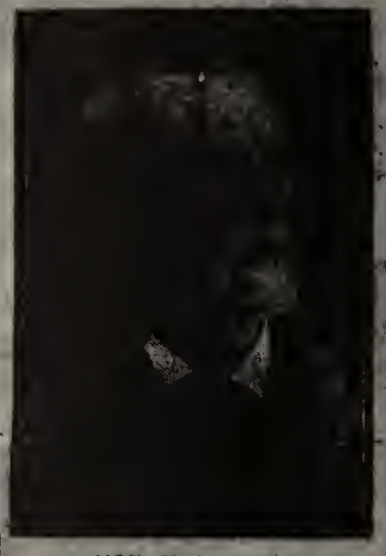
As well as I can decipher from the dusty log of the good yacht Phantom, the following is a list of the names of those composing this party, to-wit: Robert H. Langford, Charles Rawles, Dr. Robert B. Hargis, Albert Riera, Anthony Riera, James Wilkins, Charles Overman, N. B. Cook, and on the way up Mr. J. Tom Brooks was added to the crowd, and, in regular legal phrase, these are now considered as the charter members of this now celebrated hunting and fishing organization—the Indian Bayou Club.

The Membership.

Many members were from time to time added to the membership of this club, and are, as well as I can decipher from the old and dusty records, about as follows: Benj. R. Pitt, S. R. Mallory, John McGuire, Ed Gale Quina, Silas Stearns, Louis Knowles, Stephen Moreno, James Moreno, J. Gibson Moreno, Joseph Greenwood, General William Miller, Henry Reddock, Capt. Thos. W. Hutchinson, W. H. Hutchinson, S. Bush Hutchinson, Gavin Pou, K. J. Whitmire, Cris Corner, Jacob Kryger, Otto Goldstucker, W. A. D'Alemberte, Dick Guiuot, Allie Riera, John Oliver, ——— King, Bud Greenhut, Charles Langford, Captain George Ainsworth, Little Gus, and last, but not least, Peter Scruggs and Jim Brown, the cooks.

One of the peculiar characteristics of the membership of this club was that every single member of same was particularly well-fitted for some particular work and was at all times ready to perform same without grumbling or complaining and this fact is one of the causes of the great success of the club in hunting, fishing, and socially.

For 10 or 15 years this club made from one to two trips annually to the classic camping ground on the banks of Indian Bayou.



HON. N. B. COOK,
Superintendent of Public Instruction for Escambia county and known among the members of the "Indian Bayou Club" as the "Turkey Hunter."

The fishing at this point was all that a devoted disciple of Isaac Walton could wish and the hunting for 10 or 15 years was very good for deer, and some years wild turkeys and ducks were in amply quantity for camp supplies. Even at this distant date it is enough to make one's mouth water to think of the grand dinners prepared by those princes of good cooks, Peter Scruggs and Jim Brown especially when they received the aid and assistance of those experts in the culinary art, Albert Riera, and Robert and Charles Langford.

Great Dinners.

Some of the dinners served on the rustic but substantial tables at this camp were, in my humble opinion, the equal as to quality and quantity—for the number, usually, about 15—that ever graced the table of a king or of that of one of our multi-millionaires.

With a view of giving those unacquainted with the splendid spreads for which this club was noted for serving, I will try to give an account of a Thanksgiving dinner that was given, as well as I can decipher the date from the dusty records.

It was Thanksgiving Day, in November, 1880, and while this particular dinner was more elaborate than most of our dinners at this camp, it was but a fair sample of the bill of fare served the members and visitors fortunate enough to be on hand at meal time, and even for completeness in all of its details, it was on a number of occasions equaled.

Members Were There.

On this particular occasion the following members of the club were on hand and, as all had for the last four or five days been taking very active exercise, their appetites were in just tha condition to enjoy a splendid repast. The members present were: Robert Langford, Benj. R. Pitt, S. R. Mallory, Stephen Moreno, James Moreno, W. H. Hutchinson, S. Bush Hutchinson, Ed. Gale Quina, John McGuire, Albert Riera, Anthony Riera, Gavin Pou, J. T. Brooks, Cris Corner and N. B. Cook, and just as we were about to take our seats at the table, that grand and genial old man, General William Miller, and our freind, Henry Reddock, dropped in on us and, of course, received a cordial and regular Indian Bayou Club greeting.

The menu was about as follows, and when I state that every article composing this elaborate spread was of the best, and that the individual preparation of each dish was all that any connoisseur could devise, and that the greater portion, and all of the leading dishes, had been procured from the immediate surrounding woods and water, a stranger from the distant up-country can form some idea about what a glorious country West Florida really is. Here is the menu:

Oysters
Oyster Stew Oyster Pie
Oysters Fried and Oysters on the Half-Shell
Fish
Fish Chowder Fried Fish
Pickles.
Ducks.
6 Canvas Back Ducks,
Grape Jelly.
120 Pounds Roasted Wild Turkey,
Cranberry Sauce.
120 Pounds Venison Ham, roasted,
Venison Steak, broiled
Venison Steak, fried
Mashed Potatoes Grists
French Rolls Fig Preserves
Baked Sweet Potatoes, a la Jim Brown
Chow-Chow Pickles
Worcestershire Sauce Pepper Sauce
Coffee Tea Chocolate
With other liquids to meet tha taste or requirements of the most fastidious member of the Club.

After doing ample justice to this dinner, there was enough left to have supplied another crowd of more than double the number of members present.

Dinner completed, Comrades Stephen and James Moreno brought out their guitar and banjo and for hours sweet music was echoing over the waters and surrounding woods and waters of Indian Bayou, and thus was pleasantly and happily passed a Thanksgiving Day by a number of the members of the Indian Bayou Club who have since crossed the "River" and are, it is hoped, now resting pleasantly under the shade of the trees in a happier and better land than this. Adios.

Autauga County Plantations

By MIRIAM BREWER RICHARDSON

Ante-bellum planters of Autauga County played an important part in the cultural life of that vast plantation empire of the old South which spread its jewelled train from the shores of the Chesapeake to bayous of Louisiana. Plantation churches and school rooms held the torch of education aloft long before the development of the public school system and the far-flung network of libraries which are so vital a part of modern existence. A majority of Autauga's early settlers came from South Carolina, whose plantations, largely situated on the coasts and the numerous broad rivers, found a ready access to the cultural influences of America and Europe. Georgia, which often served as a generous stepping stone for Carolina families emigrating to Alabama, added its own fine influences, so when these pioneers settled along the rivers and the creeks of Autauga they had the inclination, the leisure and the wealth to fulfill their cultural destiny in the new territory of Alabama.

Auburn Hill was one of the most famous plantations of pioneer Autauga. Its distinguished owner was James Jackson, who was born in Wilkes County, Georgia, in 1773, and after holding several public offices in his native State, came to Alabama in 1817. He was a member of that noted group who in 1819 gave the young State her first constitution. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1820 and to the Senate in 1825. Rated as one of the most successful business men of his time, he amassed a considerable fortune. Another member of his family owned the beautiful plantation called Elerslie, near Rocky Mount, in that part of Autauga which is now Elmore. James Jackson's second son, Walter Clark Jackson, died at this plantation while attending Rocky Mount Academy, Sept. 7, 1826. His third son, James Wilson Jackson, was one of the first students to matriculate at the University of Alabama and died at that institution Jan. 22, 1832, when the University was less than a year old. Through two surviving sons, Crawford and Absolem Jackson, and several daughters, Mr. Jackson left a number of descendants, including William A. Jackson and Miss Ellen Jackson, of Montgomery.

The old Stoudenmire plantation was situated on a beautiful plateau just back from the river, not far from Autaugaville. Sturdy John George Stoudenmire was one of the county's earliest settlers. He was born in South Carolina July 12, 1771, and died at his plantation home Aug. 8, 1842. Autauga never had a worthier citizen. His large family married into her pioneer families and became one of the most numerous and influential in the Black Belt. The fine Whetstone place joins the Stoudenmire plantation. The old house and brick slave quarters still stand in a grove of ancient trees. This family was a cultural and economic force in ante-bellum days. Rev. Henry Whetstone, who was born in 1780 and died in 1834, was a noted minister of his day. Lewis M. Whetstone, born Oct. 5, 1803, and died Nov. 9, 1881, was active in county affairs during pioneer times, and William W. Whetstone, born Nov. 5, 1805, and died Dec. 1840, was a large slave holder. This family married into the pioneer DeBardlabens, of Huguenot descent, who owned extensive lands also on the Alabama River at Dutch Bend. W. L. DeBardlaben, the head of this family, was born in Orangeburg, S. C., Jan. 9, 1824, and died on this plantation, Oct. 28, 1900.

The Houser place was another extensive plantation of Dutch Bend, whose first owner, Lewis Houser, was born in Orangeburg District, S. C., Sept. 20, 1788, and died at his plantation home, June 4, 1858. This tract of land is beautifully situated, and for many generations was one of the best cultivated on the Alabama River. Just above the Houser place, with an extended river frontage, was the Murphy plantation. This was owned and operated for many years by the family of John R. Murphy, who was born Aug. 27, 1777, and died at his river home Feb. 15, 1847. He was numbered among the wealthiest men of Autauga. Some of his descendents resided in Montgomery in later years. No list of Autauga's ante-bellum plantations would be complete without mentioning the Jordan place, which was situated on the Alabama River just below the Houser plantation. The old house, now demolished, was built high above the river in a setting of magnificent trees. This family possesses a remarkable genealogy and is connected with the Chappells, the Corys, the Taylors, Lavenders, and the wonderful old Davis family of Brunswick County, Virginia, which gave Alabama so many pioneers.

West of Autaugaville was the Pickett plantation. The dignified old house still stands like a sentinel guarding its broad acres. The pioneer of this family was William Raiford Pickett, who came to this county in 1818. He held several public offices in his native Anson County, N. C., before coming to Alabama. He represented Autauga in the Senate of 1828, again in 1831, and in the lower branch of the Legislature in 1823 and 1824. He served his party twice on its presidential electoral ticket, and was full of years and honors when he died in 1850. Col. Albert J. Pickett and William D. Pickett of Montgomery were his sons, and a daughter married General Moseley Baker, of Montgomery and died in Texas about 1855. Robert Broadnax, who represented Autauga in the Senate in 1834 and in the House of Representatives from 1835 to 1838, was a planter on an extensive scale. Later he removed to the southern part of Alabama and represented Clarke, Monroe and Baldwin Counties in Senate in 1863 and 1864. With a number of Confederate soldiers he went to Brazil in 18[illegible].

In ante-bellum days Autaugaville was one of the richest and most cultured small towns in the State. It had a cotton factory, fine stores and many large brick warehouses. Backward from its streets of quaint old houses extended vast acres of cotton which was the economic livelihood of the community. The Nunns ranked high among the influential families of the town. They owned several valuable plantations and one of their beautiful homes is still standing on the principal street of Autaugaville. The head of this family was James Nunn, who was born June 13, 1793, and died June 26, 1836. James Nunn, Jr., was born Aug. 16, 1834, married Sarah Lamar in 1844, and died Feb. 18, 1878. Other prominent members of this family were Theodore Nunn and William Nunn. Some of their descendants reside in Montgomery County and others live in adjoining counties and the west. The Golsons were prominent in the annals of Autaugaville. Their pioneer patriarch was Gaspar Golson, who was born July 10, 1797, and died Oct. 30, 1867. Taking an active part in Autauga's affairs from the beginning they are prominent there today.

Near the present town of Prattville was located the plantation of Col. Claiborne C. Myers. He was a delightful personality, a gentleman of the old regime, and was one of South Carolina's gifts to Alabama as he was born in Richland District of that State in 1808. He came to Alabama in 1834 and married in that year Rebecca Augustine, a daughter of William Augustine, an early settler of Autauga. After her death in 1846 he married Georgiana O'Bannon of South Carolina. Col. Myers died on board the steamer Cherokee on a voyage from New Orleans to New York May 12, 1853. He left a number of descendants. In the vicinity of Prattville also was located the fine plantation of Stephen W. Coleman, who was born in 1827 and died in 1878. He was one of Autauga's most progressive citizens for a number of years.

One of the most important pioneer citizens of old Kingston, which was the county seat of Autauga from the time it was moved from the first capital, old Washington at the mouth of Autauga Creek until 1868 when Prattville became the seat of justice, was William N. Thompson, who was a large land and slave owner. He was born in Wiltshire, England, June 11, 1783, and died at his plantation home Sept. 15, 1854. He was survived by a large family who married into prominent families of Autauga and adjoining counties. Another plantation owner long identified with old Kingston was Green Andrew Deramus, who was born Oct. 11, 1857, and died Jan. 13, 1904. Kingston is now a deserted spot with every vestige of its old courthouse gone, and only the gracious memory of these cultured and politically important plantation owners survives.

South Carolina gave to Autauga County many of its first citizens of French descent. Many of these were Huguenots and brought to the communities in which they resided the sturdy qualities of these remarkable people including thrift, industry and untiring perseverence against obstacles, thus insuring the success of the towns and plantations in which they settled. Among these were the Dubose and Augustina families, the Deramuses, Poseys, and Dejarnettes. Mumford Dejarnette, beloved of Montgomerians and long active in Confederate circles in the Capital City, was closely identified with Autauga and was married in this county to Miss Sallie A. Pou, Dec. 20, 1867.

Joseph Bates and James M. Bates were ante-bellum planters of Mulberry community. Some members of this family removed to Moorehouse Parish, Louisiana, a few years before the outbreak of the War Between the States. Nathaniel Reese was a slave owner and member of one of Autauga's earliest families. He married Catherine Tyus, whose father was a great plantation owner, Jan. 18, 1848. The Hightowers were among the first settlers. Charlotte Hightower married Henry Bates Dec. 18, 1838.

Probate Judge Posey, the present "county father" of Autauga, belongs to one of the old plantation families. His father, John Posey, purchased the old Gibbons place on Prattville-Bridge Creek Road, which leads to the beautiful fishing club, from the pioneer Gibbons family, whose founder, John Gibbons, was born in 1800 and died in 1884. The old plantation house is gone but a group of chinaberry trees and a cluster of crepe myrtles mark the old home site. Judge Posey is the grandson of Francis Posey, a pioneer settler of Coosa County, of Huguenot descent.

One of the most beautiful plantations in Autauga County, and indeed in Alabama, is the old river plantation of the late McQueen Smith, which extends for a considerable distance on both sides of the Birmingham Highway. It is now owned and operated by his son, Will Howard Smith, who is one of the best trained and most experienced planters in the country. The Smith family is numbered among that valiant group of Autauga pioneers who have battled with the adverse conditions which have always beset farmers from the earliest times. As conditions changed the Smiths always met them with courage, ability and foresight and have always been eminently successful.

PICKETT, EUGENIA I. DURDEN

MRS. EUGENIA PICKETT CELEBRATED 100TH BIRTHDAY IN AUTAUGAVILLE

It must have been a rewarding day for the white-haired little lady who greeted from her wheelchair the throng of visitors who came pouring into the house in which she has lived for the past 52 years.

Of the many there, Mrs. Eugenia Pickett was the only one who could look back 100 years. She alone could recall the birth of almost all those who came to pay her tribute. Indeed, those who came were a review of her life. For, as her daughter, Mrs. H. F. Davis, said, "Her days have been wrapped up in this family—in the lives of her six children and her three foster children."

If bringing up nine youngsters is not without its problems, it is a good life, is the opinion of Mrs. Pickett. Those who happily sliced the cake and served the refreshments showed in the love with which they did it that this was so. Born at Autaugaville, December 18, 1857, Mrs. Pickett was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durden. At 18 she was married to Albert James Pickett, Jr., son of the famous historian, who owned a 3,000 acre plantation nearby.

Today, all of the historian's children, to whom he bequeathed 300 acres each, are deceased and she alone is the only survivor of that generation of the Pickett family.

Still remembering the Civil War and Reconstruction Days when her father returned ragged and barefoot from the fighting, Mrs. Pickett recalls that her mother, in addition to looking after the family, never let the sun of a day set without knitting a pair of woolen socks for those "at the front".

This early acquaintanceship with the importance of good knitting has stayed with Mrs. Pickett and this art is one of her favorite pastimes. Christmas before last she knitted scarfs for the men of the family and last year hand-fashioned blankets for the dolls of each of the great-grandchildren. All of her children have bedspreads she crocheted for them and also quilts which she has made.

Her living children are Mrs. Davis, who lives with her here; George and Will Pickett, both of Montgomery. The other three, now deceased, are C. A. Pickett, of Montgomery; Mrs. Will Pritchett, Evergreen; and Eugene Albert Pickett, of Autaugaville.

Her foster children are Mrs. J. C. DeBardelaben of Lowndes County; Dee Dodson, Hogansville, Georgia; and Mrs. Noah Chambers, Autaugaville.

One of the many gifts she received Sunday at the "open house" celebrating her 100th anniversary was a photograph of the original home of her father-in-law, Albert James Pickett, the historian. The house was located not far from her present home but has been destroyed. Miss Lizzie Banks Pickett of Montgomery, who presented her with the photograph, pointed out that the structure was built along the lines of the English architecture of that time and had two large halls, one running north and south and the other, east and west. Miss Pickett recalls hearing the story told that the historian had both a large hole and a small hole sawed in the back entrance, so that his cat and kittens could go in and out the door. She reported that on a visit to the old place shortly before it was torn down, she saw the holes and pointed out that he only needed one hole sawed in the door, as both the cat and kittens could use the same one. She was told her grandfather's reply to this question was, "No, one hole won't do. When I say scat, I mean scat!"

The children of Mrs. Eugenia Pickett recall that their mother in her younger days played the piano and that every night, no matter how tiring the activities of the day had been, she would always remark, "Lets go into the parlor and have some music before we go to bed." Her other absorbing interest were flowers.

Although advancing age has made it necessary for her to give up these hobbies, she is still agile mentally and delights in having company drop in. Given a chance, she is happy to reminisce over the early days of Autaugaville.

Although bothered with failing eyesight in recent years, Mrs. Pickett was her usual active self until about five years ago, when she lost by death two of her children in the same year. Lately, increasing weakness has kept her confined to a wheelchair.

"She's still the center of the wheel, however," commented Mrs. Davis. "We're the spokes and as long as she lives we will revolve around her just as we did when we were small."

GHOLSON, ASHBY

LAST PLAY OF SEASON —
TOWN AND GOWN GETS CAST FOR 'HATFUL OF RAIN' (Picture of Ashby Gholson)

Cast for "A Hatful of Rain," the Broadway play that will be given by Town and Gown Civic Theater next month, was announced Saturday by Director James Hatcher.

Birmingham will be the first city in the country to see the play since it has been released by the producers for production by non-professional theaters.

The usual "professional" production theater-goers have come to expect in Town and Gown shows is promised by the fine cast, each member an excellent actor with a wide following here.

"A HATFUL OF RAIN" will bring back to the stage of Clark Memorial Theater a veteran actor, John Creamer, who gave many distinguished performances on the stage of that same house in the days it was the Birmingham Little Theater and ranked second in the nation in the "Little Theater Blue Book."

By coincidence, Mr. Creamer and James Hatcher, who is now producing director of T. & G. Theater of the University of Alabama Birmingham Center, played together in the last production given at the Little Theater before it was voted out of existence.

IN THE ROLE of Johnny in "A Hatful of Rain" will be Ashby Gholson, known for his outstanding portrayals in "Dark of the Moon" and "Glass Menagerie," at Clark Theater.

Dave Robbins, who was a big hit in "Bus Stop", will have the role of Palo. Mr. Creamer is the father and Betty Hanson, making her debut in a serious dramatic part, will play Celia.

The Town and Gown production of the Broadway hit, which later was made into a movie, will be given April 15-19, closing the 1957-58 season at Clark Theater.

STALLWORTH, MR. AND MRS. HUGH W.

THEY SHOPPED THE WORLD (FOUR PICTURES WHICH FOLLOW)

By Clara Hieronymus

New Orleans, Charleston, Savannah, Williamsburg—and the Old World cities of Florence, Venice and Paris—come together in the beautiful Hillsboro road home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Stallworth.

The white brick house incorporates in its architecture and furnishings ingratiating elements from all these places. Looking to the time when they would build a permanent home, Mr. and Mrs. Stallworth looked at historic houses, studied house plans and made notes on cornices, moldings and decorative details that appealed to them.

They collected items as they traveled, beginning with a magnificent pair of coach lanterns—now flanking the front door—bought three years before they started building. On a subsequent visit to New Orleans they added a French marble mantel and mirror and crystal chandeliers to the list. "By the time we built," the Stallworths say, "we'd almost forgotten what all these things looked like, but we loved them all over again."

The handsome two-story house was completed in September, 1940. Designed by Tisdale and Tisdale, architects, it combines Georgian and Regency styles with some variations based on Mrs. Stallworth's preferences.

A three-sided bay window in the living room is more interesting because of her insistence that the ceiling follow the bay and carry the same entablature cornice as the other walls.

There are many pleasing things about this house. Its site is a hillside with many trees. It looks across a valley into a circle of hills where "the view is wonderful every month of the year," as Mr. Stallworth puts it. In order to assure this year-round panorama, Mr. Stallworth spent many hours "walking and looking" before deciding how the house should be placed, and oriented it not only to the view but to the two tall oaks which stand at front and back.

Because Mr. and Mrs. Stallworth have a deep feeling for the changing beauty of nature they not only looked to the distant view in planning their house. They required that its windows begin at floor level so that there would be little visual separation from the outdoors.

While the tenor of the house, decoration-wise is predominantly French it is not exclusively so. The living room furniture is of French influence, but the dining room furniture is Chippendale in traditional mahogany. Yet even here, the "feeling" of French style is conveyed through the crystal chandelier, the tapering, inlaid wood pedestals under sparkling candelabra and the ribbon-garland pattern of the wallpaper.

The entrance portico is lacily trimmed with white wrought iron in a rose pattern made to order in New Orleans. In the foyer a graceful circular stair, coral-carpeted, rises from a striking floor of black and white marble set in Harlequin squares. Here the unifying scheme of soft blue and accompanying yellow-toned color is introduced. Wallpaper is blue, with a decorative swag at the ceiling line and mural panels at either side of the entrance door.

Near the foot of the stairs a Directoire boule and ormulu console table stands against a mirror-paneled section of wall. An antique French barometer in a gilt frame adds a note of bright elegance. Tall candelabra, bought in Paris, stand regally on white columns by the door. On the remaining wall a petticoat table rests demurely between a pair of button-tufted chairs as bright as flowers in their coral hammered satin.

Mrs. Stallworth designed the tassel-and-cord trim for the stairway. Working from her pencil sketch and cardboard model, the craftsman carved a model in wood to make a mold for the tassels which were then cast in aluminum. The "rope" began as a long strip of iron, stretched from front door to second floor and then twisted into a cable and welded, under Mrs. Stallworth's direction, in draped scallops to the iron rails.

One of the prettiest pieces of furniture in the living room—unlikely as it sounds in this room scheme — is a Victorian sofa. But Mrs. Stallworth's imaginative eye saw its possibilities. With its ornately carved frame bleached and delicately rubbed with white and its biscuit-colored upholstery it is as gracefully compatible with the French mantel as the baroque brass andirons and scrolled fender on the hearth.

On either side of the bay window is a marble top console table of excellent porportion. Mrs. Stallworth had been looking for such a pair when she came upon a large walnut occasional table in a Nashville antique shop. She sent the table to a favorite cabinet maker in St. Louis to be cut in half and bleached to a French finish.

Since she did not wish them fastened to the wall, she designed two additional legs to make the consoles free-standing. These were hand carved and added, along with a decorative final for the stretchers.

In front of the window is a small gold table with a glass encased top originally meant for the display of prized French miniatures. Since the Stallworths do not collect miniatures, the case holds sea shells—as carefully placed as polished jewels—which they have picked up in their travels.

If French colors and styles are the chief characteristics of the Stallworth house, the feeling for nature is just as surely its leitmotif. This is seen in the cherished shells in the living room and in the clusters of white coral in a lighted wall niche in the library. It is echoed in the Royal Worcester mocking birds on the marble mantel, and in the foyer's mosaic placques where chalcedony, lapis and marble combine with other stones to create unusual bird designs.

Most of all it is seen in the garden room added during the past year. Originally a screened porch, it has been walled with insulated glass to make a year-round link between the house and its formal garden at the side and, through sliding glass doors, with the brick terrace at back.

Terrazzo-floored, the garden room has the same color scheme as the adjoining living room—French blue and soft beige. On its inside brick wall is another of Mrs. Stallworth's designs, a striking plaque featuring white coral branches, pink-toned sea fans, turquoise shells, sea dollars and other small marine forms in a gleaming grass-cloth frame.

The garden room has a separate air-conditioning unit, and floor-to-ceiling draperies which filter the sunlight. Upholstered loveseats and curving bamboo chairs with cushions of quilted blue chintz provide for comfort, and a glass-topped table makes it a pleasant place for informal meals.

In the formal garden a wide brick wall leads to a stone fountain in which a cherub and dolphin splash. At the edge of the planting, where lilies, candytuft and summer annuals will bloom in season, a pair of charming children—carved in white marble nearly a hundred years ago by an Italian artist—stand at play, the girl with a small rabbit and the boy with a fish and net.

The back terrace, with its pink wrought iron furniture and great flower urns, is large enough to accomodate a dinner party.

From the starched lace of its entrance ironwork to the prized tulip tree beyond the garden room, the Stallworth house is a personal expression of its occupants—their intense love for their home, the fun they've had in planning and furnishing it and their pleasure in sharing it with their friends.

— The Nashville Tennessean, Section C, "Better Living", Sunday, January 5, 1958.

Marble mantel, gold-framed mirror and crystal chandelier—French antiques from New Orleans—set the theme for the living room. The Victorian sofa took on a French air with bleaching and creamy upholstery.

—Staff colorphotos by Terry Tomlin.

The white brick exterior combines dignity and simplicity with a froth of white ironwork from New Orleans for decoration. Glassed-in garden room at right links house with terrace and formal garden for year-round enjoyment.

Boxwood and Lace: Mrs. Hugh Stallworth stands beside the handsome entrance portico where rose-patterned ironwork is as airy as starched lace above the massive darkness of boxwood.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JAMES HUBBARD GHOLSON OF PETERSBURG, VIRGINIA

IN THE EVENT OF MY DEATH, it is my Will and desire that my beloved brother, Thomas S. Gholson serve as Exor. of this my last Will and Testament.

It is my desire that he be permitted to qualify without being required to give official security: and I hereby desire and authorize him to manage my estate in all respects, according to his own judgement, as if it were his own, empowering him to sell or buy real estate or personal, so as to render the same most advantageous to my wife and child — In short: I appoint him a trustee, with full discretionary powers to take charge of and manage my estate for the benefit of my said wife and child—paying over to my beloved wife all the proceeds thereof, whether profits or sales (when he does not think proper to reinvest them) to be applied by her as she may think proper to the support and enjoyment of herself and our only child. This my will cannot of course be carried into execution without the assent of my wife — I therefore desire my executor, should my wife at any time require it — to close up the estate and distribute it according to law. Should she not desire, and its conditions will allow, I desire my Exor. to manage it as above described, until my child Louisa arrives at age, marries or dies — when I wish the estate to be equally divided between her and my wife — my reason for such a will as this is, that I own lands in Texas and Mississippi, which are almost valueless now, but will be very valuable hereafter; and because moreover, my estate is quite involved, and I have the utmost confidence in the fidelity and ability of my said Exor. to manage it to the best advantage. This is written in my own hand and under my seal.

At a Hustings Court held for the town of Petersburg, at the Courthouse thereof on Thursday the 20th day of July A. D. 1848.

A writing purporting to be the last Will and Testament of James H. Gholson, deceased, was this day produced in Court by Thomas S. Gholson the Executor therein named, and there being no subscribing witness thereto, Thomas Wallace, Alexander Donnan and W. W. Townes were sworn and severally deposed that they are well acquainted with the Testators hand writing and verily believe the said writing and the name thereto subscribed to be wholly writing by the Testator's own hand. Whereupon the said writing is ordered to be recorded as the true last will and testament of the said James H. Gholson, deceased. And on the motion of Thomas S. Gholson the exor therein named, who made oath thereto according to law, and intered into and acknowledged a bond in the penalty of twenty thousand dollars, conditioned as the law directs (The will dispensing with security and the Court, upon the hearing of testimony as to the condition of the Testator's estate, not requiring it) certificate is granted him for obtaining a probate of the said Will in due form, the tax on the said Will and qualification being first paid.

MAJOR LEWIS GOLSAN OF ORANGEBURG DISTRICT, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Information from Mr. T. H. Dreher, St. Matthews, South Carolina, Feb. 11, 1912 — See Rumph-Frederick Families, by Hays, pages 100-101)

"One mile to the northwest of Col. Rumph (Jacob Rumph) lived his neighbor and Revolutionary colleague, Lewis Golson, who was, according to all traditions, the very antithesis in many ways to Col. Rumph. Quiet, affable and popular, he still measured up to the high maxim of the old Roman Republic before avarice and ambition had eaten out its very vitals: 'Courage in war and justice in peace.' Of rudimentary education, he was, nevertheless, a prominent and influential citizen. As major of the 3d provincial regiment he served under Col. Wm. Thompson and was one of the latter's special favorites. For many years he was justice of the peace when that office carried great weight. He was foreman of the grand jury in 1778 for Orangeburg District, which made a famous presentment to Chief Justice Drayton, calling for a public test by which to distinguish the friends from the enemies of the American cause and demanding that the adjuration oath be made general. It is singular that the office of sheriff of the old Orangeburg District, first held in 1772 by his superior officer and personal friend, Col. Thompson, was declined by Major Golson during the stormy days of 1776. The battle of Lexington had already been fought; William Campbell, the last Royal Governor of the Province, had run away with its seal; a constitution had been ratified on the morning of March 26, 1776, and John Rutledge had been made President. Agreeably to this constitution the General Assembly convened, which was honored by such men as Charles Pinckney, Stephen Bull, LeRoy Hammond, Henry Middleton, Rawlins Lowndes, Henry Laurens, Gabriel Powell and Joseph Kershaw. This distinguished body, according to Drayton in his memoirs, elected Major Golson sheriff of Orangeburg, which he declined, and John Haig was appointed in his place. Golson has many descendants in this country who are proud to bear his name and who revere his memory. The bones of this hero repose in a forsaken old burial ground on the farm of Mr. Alonzo Inabinet, within rifle range of the old Orangeburg road, on one side, and Cawcaw Swamp on the other. No tombstone marks his or any other grave (there is a tombstone as shown by photo of same under family record of Major Lewis Golsan in main section of this volume; it was probably placed on his grave after this was written), but the identity of his last resting place is borne out by the unimpeachable evidence. Large water oaks cast their soothing shadows over the solemn scene and an old square ditch, so frequently seen around these antiquated burial plots, stands as a mute reminder to the world that the inner circle is sacred soil, not to be polluted by the reckless and unhallowed invasion of the curious public.

"Nearby can be seen a profusion of brickbats, where stood the hero's old home, and which is said to hav been burned long after the Revolution.

"Two sons fought under their noted father, one of whom enlisted at the early age of 18, and both are reputed to be sleeping the last sleep by the side of their honored ancestor.

"A great-grandson, Samuel Golson, as brave in War Between the States as was Lewis Golson in the Revolutionary War, died recently at an advanced age."

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF WILLIAM GHOLSON OF BRUNSWICK COUNTY, VIRGINIA

THE CERTAINTY OF DEATH and the uncertainty of time at which it may occur, renders it necessary that I should make some disposition of my worldly goods and chattels. If this Will should go into effect I wish it in the manner and form following — I William Gholson do constitute and appoint James H. Gholson and Thomas S. Gholson my whole and sole executors, my only other son of the age of manhood William T. Gholson residing out of the State. Item — It is my desire and Will that any of my lands should be sold at any time that my executors may think it prudent, reserving for my wife from eight hundred to a thousand acres — say Newlispe or the Springs. Item, It is my Will and desire, that none of my slaves now undivided shall be divided for five years. It is further my Will and desire that my executors have full power to rent out all my lands and negroes in Tennessee if they think it prudent; and for the estate to be harmonized and worked together, my wife, and children, Mary, Robert and Martha being supported from the proceeds—that is with a reasonable allowance. My object in doing this, is the sooner to extinguish the Debts. And if it is agreeable to the family, they may send to the District thirty of my negroes—which would swell the receipts and pay Debts sooner. In the distribution of my property, Thomas S. Gholson must account for two thousand dollars — money by him expended; and James H. Gholson must account for fifteen hundred dollars a balance due me by him for money advanced him. In the education of my son Robert, regard must be had to Morals and economy and his education must not exceed one thousand dollars. The education of my daughter Martha five hundred dollars. I give unto my son in Law Richard M. Hill the tract of Land whereon he now lives, containing about six hundred acres—to have and to hold to himself, and heirs forever. If the tract of land called Gholsonville can be sold to advantage in the Course of this or the next year, my executors if they think proper can do so, but in the event they do not sell it I do hereby give it to my son Thomas S. Gholson, to have and to hold forever. It is further my Will and desire that whatever advancements in lands, negroes, stock or money, may have been made to any of my Children, shall be accounted for in the general distribution of my property, at a fair and reasonable valuation. This I declare to be my last will and Testament.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF WILLIAM T. NORTHINGTON OF PRATTVILLE, ALABAMA

STATE OF ALABAMA)
AUTAUGA COUNTY)

Know all men by these Presents, that I, William T. Northington, a resident citizen of Prattville, Autauga County, Alabama, being of sound mind and realizing the uncertainty of life, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be my last will and testament, hereby expressly revoking any and all wills heretofore made by me.

Item 1: I give, devise and bequeath to my beloved wife, Ella A. Northington, all of my household and kitchen furniture of every kind, character and description, including china, glass, crockery, silverware, library, carpets, and fixtures now in or which I may hereafter place in my house or residence. Also all horses, cattle, buggies, automobiles, carriages, and harness which I may own at the time of my death. In addition to the above, I give, devise and bequeath to my said wife, Ella A. Northington, one fourth of all the rest and residue of the property of every kind and character, both, real, personal and mixed of which I die seized, and possessed, and in setting aside this one-fourth interest to my wife, the insurance on my life not to be taken into consideration as my wife takes that, independent of this bequeath, the policies being payable to her.

Item 2: I direct my executrix hereafter named to pay all of the debts which I may owe at the time of my death, including funeral expenses and cost of administration, out of the remaining three-fourths of my estate, the same to be paid as soon as practicable after my death.

Item 3: I give, devise and bequeath to my sisters, Jennie M. McMorries, wife of E. Y. McMorries, Belle Northington, and Ella E. Wood, known as "Nellie Wood", wife of S. R. Wood, the sum of three hundred ($300.00) dollars each, and I direct these bequests to be paid out of the remainder of my estate after my wife is given her one-fourth share or interest under the terms thereof.

Item 4: All the rest and residue of my property of which I die seized and possessed, both real, personal and mixed, I give, devise and bequeath to my eight children, to wit: Merrill P., and Allen, and Eugene, and Edward, and Samuel Northington, and Julia Huey, and Adelaide McQueen, and Dora E. Walker, share and share alike, except that the share going to my son Eugene under this item of my will, I give, devise and bequeath to my sons, Allen and Merrill P. Northington in trust, the said Allen and Merrill P. Northington, as trustees are to take said share and manage and control the same, with the power in said trustees to sell and convey at private sale and without order of court, any of the property held by them under this trust, whenever they, in their discretion, may deem it to be to the interest of said trust estate, and to invest and reinvest the trust property or funds in whatever way and in what security or property they deem best, loaning the same if deemed best, and in like manner change the investments as often as they deem necessary, and I direct said trustees to pay over the net income from said trust property to my son Eugene at such intervals as they may deem to be to his best interest, during his life. If my son Eugene Northington should die leaving a child or children surviving him, the trust shall continue until the youngest of such child or children arrives at the age of twenty-one (21 years), the said trustees paying over for the benefit of such child or children the net income from the trust property until the youngest child arrives at the age of 21 years, the income to be paid over for such child or children at such intervals as my trustees may deem best. If my son Eugene should die leaving no child or children surviving, then I direct my trustees to pay, out of the trust property, to the widow of my said son, if he leaves a widow surviving him, the sum of Two Thousand Dollars, and the rest and residue of the trust property shall revert to my estate, and be divided by my trustees between my other children and my wife, if she be living, share and share alike, the child or children of any deceased child taking the share which the parent would have taken if living. In the event my son Eugene leaves a child or children surviving him, and such child or children arrive at the age of 21 years, then the trust property in the hands of my trustees shall go to and vest in such child or children, but in the event no child of my son Eugene arrives at the age of 21 years, then the trust property shall revert to my estate, to be divided between my wife and children as here-in-before directed. And except further that the share going to my daughter Julia Huey under this item of my will, I give, devise and bequeath to my sons Allen and Merrill P. Northington, in trust, the said Allen and Merrill P. Northington as trustees are to take said share and manage and control the same with power in the said trustees to sell and convey at private sale and without order of Court any of the property held by them under this trust, whenever they, in their discretion, may deem it to be the best interest of said trust estate, and to invest or reinvest the trust property or funds in whatever way and in what security or property as they may deem best, loaning the same, if deemed best, and in like manner changing the investment as often as they may deem necessary, and I direct said trustees to pay over the net income from said trust property to my daughter, Julia Huey, at such intervals as they may deem to her best interests during her life. If my said daughter, Julia, should die leaving a child or children surviving her, the trust shall continue until the youngest of such child or children arrive at the age of 21 years, the said trustees paying over for the benefit of such child or children the net income from the trust property until the youngest child arrives at the age of 21 years, the income to be paid over for such child or children at such intervals as my trustees may deem best. in the event my daughter, Julia, leaves a child or children surviving her, and such child or children arrives at the age of 21 years, then this trust property in the hands of my trustees shall go to and vest in such child or children but in the event my daughter Julia leaves no child or children surviving her, or in the event no child of my daughter Julia arrives at the age of 21 years, then this trust property shall revert to my estate, to be divided between my other children and my wife, if she be living, share and share alike, the child taking the share which the parent would have taken if living.

If my son, Eugene should become entitled, under the terms hereof, to any part of the share of my daughter Julia, then his part of such share shall go to the trustees named in this item, under the same terms and conditions as the original share from my estate is vested in said trustees for his benefit. If my daughter, Julia, should become entitled under the terms hereof to any part of the share of my son Eugene, then her part of such share shall go to the trustees named in this item, under the same terms and conditions as the original share from my estate is vested in said trustees for her benefit. In the event my wife is dead at the time of my death, then the share going to her under this will shall go to and vest in my children, share and share alike, but that part going to my son Eugene, and my daughter, Julia, shall vest in the trustees under this item of my will for them respectively. In the event that either of my children is dead at the time of my death, leaving no child or children surviving, then the share going to such deceased child shall be divided equally between my children, and my wife, if she be living, share and share alike, the child or children of any deceased child taking the share which the parent would have taken if living. In the event any of my children should be dead at the time of my death leaving a child or children surviving, then such child or children shall take the share which the parent would have taken if living, provided however, that if either of my children be dead at the time of my death, my trustees herein named shall take the share going to the child or children of such deceased child, and shall manage and control the same until the child or children of the deceased child arrives at the age of 21 years, the trustees paying the net income over for the benefit of such child or children from time to time as they deem best, and delivering the trust property to such child or children on the arrival at the age of 21 years, and provided further that if such child or children of my deceased child or children should die before arriving at the age of 21 years, then such share shall revert back to my estate, and be divided share and share alike between my children and my wife, if living, the child or children of any deceased child taking the share which the parent would have taken if living, and my trustees in managing and handling the estate shall have all of the powers and rights conferred upon them as conferred in this item of my will in regard to the trust property to be held by them for my son, Eugene, and my daughter, Julia. I direct that the trustees named in this item of my will, shall not be required to give bond as trustees of either of the trusts, and the survivor of the said trustees in each of the trusts shall carry out the terms of the trust.

Item 5: If at the time of my death I hold a note or notes of any of my children, it is my will, that the same shall be taken into consideration as an advancement on the division of my estate under the terms hereof.

Item 6: I hereby appoint my wife, Ella A. Northington, Executrix, and my sons Merrill P. and Allen Northington, Executors of this, my last will and testament, and direct that they shall not be required to give bond as such executrix and executors. I further direct that they shall not be required to file any inventory of my estate, but they shall make and keep an inventory and permit anyone in interest, at reasonable times, to see the same. I further direct that they shall not be required to make a formal settlement by stating an account in the usual way, but may make a final settlement by filing a receipt in full from the devises named in the will, the receipt of the trustees for the shares of my son, Eugene, and my daughter, Julia, or other shares, being sufficient. I direct that my executrix, and executors shall have the power and authority and shall, without intervention of the Court, divide the property belonging to my estate, giving to each devisee tne share to which such devisee is entitled under this will, the trustees taking the share going to my son Eugene and my daughter Julia, and any division made by my executrix and executors, shall be final and conclusive upon all devisees and in making division they may divide the property in kind, or may partly divide in kind and equalize with money and to this end my executrix and executors shall have the power to sell and convey at private sale and without order of court any or all of the property belonging to my estate, or to such extent as they may deem necessary in order to make division and may sell such of the property at private sale and without order of court as they deem necessary to pay the debts of my estate, the cost and expense of administration, and the specific money legacies as my executrix and executors are interested as devisees, under this will, I direct that they shall not receive any compensation for their services beyond actual expenses. If, pending the administration of estate and before division, my executrix and executors should deem it to the interest of my estate to change any investment, or to make any investment, they shall have full power and authority to do so, privately, and without order of the court, and to that end, may sell any of the property belonging to my estate at private sale and without order of court that they deem necessary, the proceeds of any such sale or investment to be divided as a part of the corpees of my estate.

Item 7: In the event my son, Samuel, is under the age of 21 years at the time of my death, then it is my will and I appoint my son Allen to be his guardian.

In witness whereof, I, William T. Northington hereunto set my signature and seal to this my last will and testament, and have identified this page and the six preceeding pages, which constitute all of the pages in my will, by writing my name on the margin of each page this the fourth day of May 1910.
